THE MAYOR'S HONOR ROLL COMMITTEE

CITY HALL, YONKERS, N. Y.

December 27, 1921

Hon. WILLIAM J. WALLIN,
Mayor of Yonkers, N. Y.

SIR: In compliance with the terms of Special Ordinance No. 89, passed by the Common Council on June 22, 1920, the Mayor's Honor Roll Committee respectfully submits the following Report.

The Committee was appointed "To prepare an Honor Roll of the men and women who have gone forth or who shall go forth hereafter from the City of Yonkers in the service of our Country in the present War."

The Committee organized on February 19, 1918, with John C. Shotts, Past Commander of Kitching Post, Grand Army of the Republic, as Chairman, Miss Elizabeth M. Andrews, Secretary, and members Harry C. Adams, Rev. Francis T. Brown, Gaetano T. Conti, William Palmer East, Admiral P. F. Harrington, Rev. Richard O. Hughes, Miss Florence J. Parsons, Mrs. Ida Shotts Pentreath, Ralph Earl Prime, Sr., Rev. Gabriel Schulman, Mrs. John C. Ten Eyck and Mayor William J. Wallin.

The compilation of the Honor Roll was begun. On June 26, 1918, the Roll of 3,400 names was published, and on September 7, 1918, it contained 4,695 names. The work was interrupted by the illness and death, on August 26, 1919, of Commander Shotts. The Committee was reorganized in November, 1919, with Admiral P. F. Harrington, Chairman, George S. Edie, Treasurer, Lt.-Col. Holland S. Duell, Historian, and additional members Rev. Jacob Tarshish, Mrs. Wells M. Sawyer, Mrs. Albert J. Squier, Mrs. Peter Fletcher, A. E. Louderback, Hon. W. F. Bleakley, W. V. Campbell, W. F. Haskett, Dr. R. R. Reeder, W. S. Collins, E. M. Yerks, G. H. Harmon, T. D. Carman, H. Kitzinger and from the American Legion Posts and Overseas Veterans, Major Azel Ames, U. S. Adler, Edward H. Cranwell, Jr., A. J. Kenyon, John J. Sloan, Jr., Harold Zulauf, A. G. Kleine, Ellis Monroe, Benjamin Dobrocky, Alfred Baum, Stanley Sutton and Francis Thomas.

Sub-committees in charge of the various parts of the work were organized as follows:

Committee on Women's Societies: Miss Parsons, Chairman, Mrs. Sawyer, Mrs. Squier, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Ten Eyck, Miss Andrews and Mrs. Pentreath.

Committee on Men's Societies: Messrs. Kenyon, Chairman, Cranwell, Sloane, Zulauf, Monroe, Adler and Dobrocky.

Committee on Churches and Religious Societies: Messrs. Hughes, Chairman, Brown and Tarshish.

Committee on Completion of the Honor Roll: Messrs. Ames, Chairman, Kenyon, Cranwell, Sloane, Zulauf, Adler, Kleine, Monroe, Dobrocky, Baum, Sutton and Thomas.

Committee on Publication of Honor Roll: Messrs. East, Chairman, Kitsinger, Reeder, and Bleakley.

Committee on Publicity: Messrs. Conti, Chairman, Harmon, Haskett and Carman.

Committee on Ways and Means: Messrs. Adams, Chairman, Louderback, Bleakley, Campbell, Collins, Yerks and Edie.

Executive Committee: Messrs. Harrington, Chairman, East, Adams, Edie, Duell and Ames.

The names and service records on the Honor Roll were obtained from the Files, at White Plains, of Westchester County, from occasional correspondence with the Historian of the State of New York and with the War Department, and from the following sources in Yonkers: lists of members who served in the War from Churches, Societies, Industries, Schools, Clubs and Organizations military and civic, from the Draft Boards, Red Cross Home Service Section, War Camp Community Service, Mayor's Welcome Home Committee, cards inserted in the daily newspapers, a house to house canvass through the City, and individual reports on the forms provided by the Committee. The card system was used, and the cards and original records of service as reported on the forms are preserved at the City Hall.

Through the sub-committees there were assembled reports and notes of the auxiliary work of citizens of Yonkers during the War. The completion of the Honor Roll was undertaken by the members of the Committee from the Yonkers American Legion Posts and Overseas Veterans, Azel Ames, Chairman. Under their supervision, a canvass of the City, to obtain the service records of Yonkers soldiers, was made by the compiler of the City Directory. The result was a large increase in the Honor Roll records, but there remains a deficiency in the service records, as in many other cities. There are now on the Honor Roll 6,909 names. About seven per cent of the total population of Yonkers entered the military services.

Early in 1920 the Committee recommended a permanent memorial to the heroic dead. A design by Isidore Konti of Yonkers, was approved by the Municipal Art Commission, of which Rudolf Eickemeyer was Chairman and G. Howard Chamberlain a member. Under an authorization and appropriation by the Mayor and City Council, a contract was made with Mr. Konti, and the monument described elsewhere in this volume is under construction.

Due primarily to the lack of a central office of record from the beginning of the War, the assembling of the materials of the Honor Roll volume proved to be a work of great difficulty. The Honor Roll has been compiled from the beginning by Mrs. Ida Shotts Pentreath, and the Committee values her long and effective labors. It is desired also to express appreciation of the services of the Yonkers Herald, Daily News, Statesman and of many citizens of the patriotic spirit which moved to action during the War all the people of Yonkers.

The Historian had the assistance of Edgar G. Herrmann, who was one of the editors of the History of the 77th Division and also of the History of the 306th Field Artillery, in which both served.

The Honor Roll Records will be deposited with the State Historian and duplicates retained at the City Hall in Yonkers.

Respectfully submitted,

P. F. HARRINGTON,
Chairman.

YONKERS

THE voyagers on board the Half Moon viewed in 1609 the scene of surpassing beauty in which the City now rests. Sailing along the Palisades they saw upon the eastern hills of the river the Indian village of Napeckamack, its wigwams clustered about the mouth of the Neperah.

Indian titles of the vicinity are still in use, but the quaint name of the City is associated with the Dutch pioneer who bought the land from the Indians in 1646, to whom was attached the courtesy title Jonkheer (Young Gentleman).

The Yonkers designated the tract lying between the Amackassin and the Spuyten Duyvil, the Bronx and the Hudson, where long afterwards the City developed upon the Hudson, the Nepperhan, the Sprain, the Bronx and the Mosholu, the last-named stream known also as Tippett's Brook.

With the divisions Kingsbridge, Lower Yonkers and Philipsburg, the township was formed in 1788, the village erected in 1855, and the City separated from Kingsbridge and incorporated in 1872, bearing the name of Yonkers.

After the transfer of sovereignty, in 1664, from the Dutch to the English, a part of Yonkers was bought, in 1672, by Frederick Philipse, and his lands remained the heritage of his family until, in 1779, Philipse Manor was confiscated.

The Manor Hall in Yonkers, which still stands, was built in 1682, chiefly of materials imported from Holland. The lands of St. John's Parish were given, in 1752, by Frederick Philipse, third and last lord of the Manor, who supplied the money for building the church, in accordance with his father's will. His younger sister, Mary Philipse, described as of rare beauty and accomplishments, is of prominent note in the early annals of Yonkers.

In 1790, there were 1,120 residents in the Yonkers township, and the number increased only fifty-one in the next ten years. English was then the chief language, but Dutch was still in use by many people.

Agriculture was the principal occupation, and, as late as 1825, when the people numbered 1,621, there were hamlets only and no large village. In 1845, the population had increased to 2,517. The Waring Hat Manufactory was established in 1828, and diversity of occupations and trades increased with the vessels plying upon the Hudson. When, in 1849, trains were running upon the Hudson River Railroad, there ensued a movement of people to Yonkers in various lines of enterprise, so that upon the incorporation of the village, in 1855, the inhabitants were in number 7,554.

The arrival in New York Bay of British forces under General Howe, a few days before the Declaration of Independence of the Colonies, the Battle of Long Island, the capture by the British of Fort Washington, the abandonment of Fort Lee, and the change of base to White Plains by General Washington, brought the farmers of The Yonkers into stirring conflict, marked by an intense hatred between the Whigs and the Tories.

The former withdrew northward when the British held Yonkers; and, when the enemy finally retired, the colonists returned, not as tenants of the lord of the Manor, but as freeholders. The Tories moved with the British and few ever came back to Yonkers. After the war the confiscated Philipse Manor was divided and passed into possession of American patriots.

The citizens of Yonkers have always shown an intense patriotic spirit and action, of which two of many incidents supply a bright illustration. When President Lincoln called for volunteers in April, 1861, many men of Yonkers responded the same day and on the ninth day the first organized company left the city for national service. Alike, on the declaration of war against Germany, the first organized company departed for service on the next day.

The few remaining Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, men of all ranks, women in quickly formed groups, the school children, churches and societies were a part of the war for maintaining against foreign domination the independence of our country, the safety and freedom of our people in their lawful movements by land or sea, the condemnation and defeat of the acts and methods of an enemy breaking and defying the rules and practice of international law. The issues of liberty, justice and humanity, for the whole world, were foremost in the minds of the people, but they moved also in continuous and most generous efforts for the relief of sufferings incident to the war.

The facility of transportation by water brought Yonkers into the field of manufacture and export and established the great factories which make the city a centre of business enterprise. The Alexander Smith Carpet Factories, the National Sugar Refinery, the Otis Elevator Works, the Federal Sugar Refinery, the Waring Hat Factory and other manufacturing works lead the energies of a city which is growing rapidly in population, wealth, and the influence which attends a great production of national value.

Since the Civil War, the progress of the city, particularly in manufactures, has been aided by immigration. A large proportion of the citizens to-day are of foreign birth, and another large part of foreign parentage. Those naturalized elements, coming from many countries, discovered, during the late war, a strong affection for the country of their adoption. They entered service in the war or were a part of all the auxiliary work of the community.

How the industrial plants of the city were converted to the uses of the nation at war, and how the business of the people was quickly adjusted to active support of the Government are matters of record. It would be difficult, probably impossible, to assemble all the details in a complete description of the daily life and movement of the people of Yonkers in every line of patriotic endeavor. The part taken by Yonkers people in the World War will always be remembered for its moral and patriotic devotion.

YONKERS—UNITED AND ACTIVE IN WAR WORK

IT IS the proud boast of Yonkers that its patriotic record stands among the finest records of community activity during the World War. The citizens of Yonkers unfailingly responded to the demands of a great conflict. They encouraged a sane and safe spirit of patriotism. They showed remarkable unanimity and coöperation. Many citizens were brought together in civic work and became acquainted for the first time. They responded liberally to the Liberty loans and the various drives. With an ever-deepening spirit of hopefulness and patriotism they sent their soldiers and sailors forth to the conflict and gave them returning a royal welcome and a hearty reception. In memory of the heroic dead they held honorable and inspiring memorial services.

The women of the city in the Red Cross, the Navy League and in the various organizations of the churches and synagogues, answered loyally to every call of duty. Thousands of garments and bandages and like supplies were made by them and sent to the fields of action. All these form an inspiring part of the history of Yonkers during the years 1917-1919, and they are the splendid monuments of a patriotic and liberty-loving city that under God was willing to do its part and its share for civilization's safety and advancement.

Matters in detail are not treated in this but in other parts of this history; this is a sketch, a bird's-eye view, of a city, aflame with patriotic righteousness, doing its duty in a Great War and answering a Great Challenge in unmistakable words and thoughts and deeds.

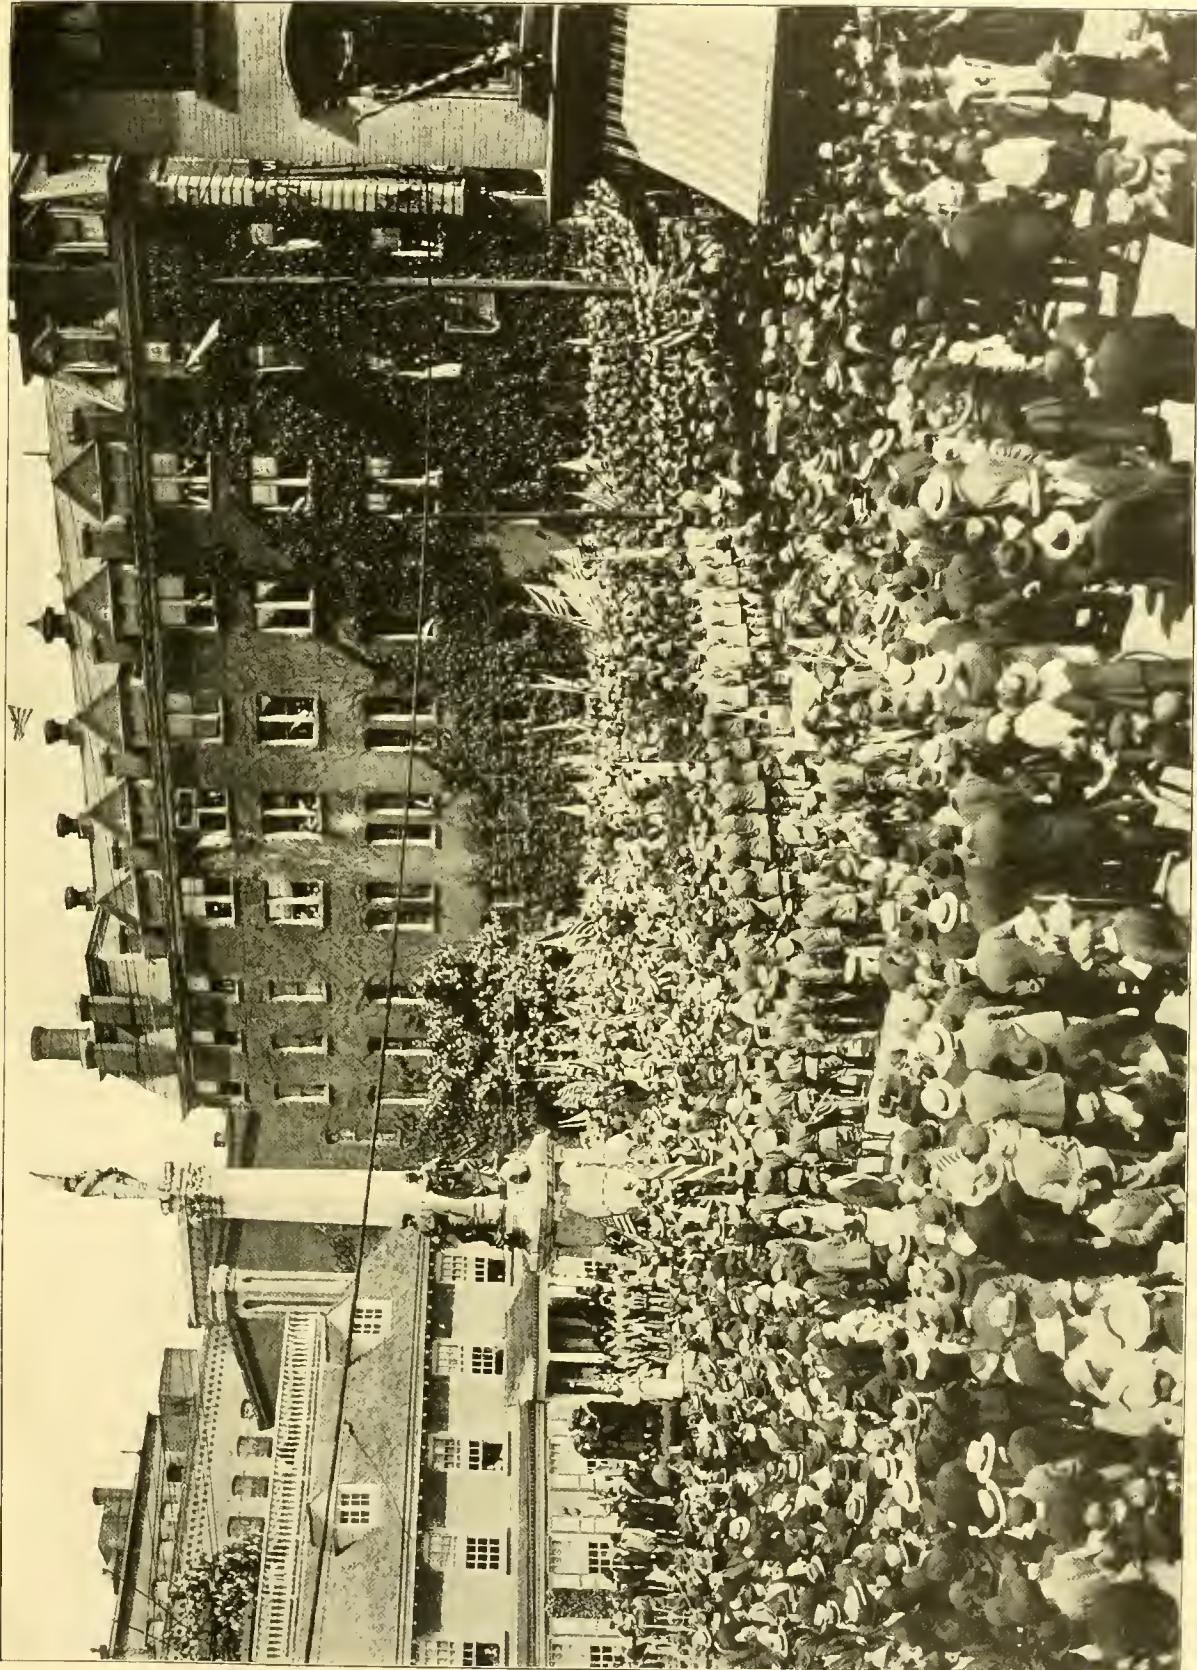

Even before the war was declared, Yonkers was preparing. The Naval Militia was being formed, Company G of the Tenth Regiment, N. Y. N. G., was getting ready, and a Volunteer Regiment of Infantry was being organized and trained. Before the 6th of April, 1917, the Red Cross work was started, offers of services to the President were made, and clergymen whole-heartedly were advocating the support of the principles of national righteousness and national honor.

Patriotic services were held, local War Committees were formed and patriotic mass meetings in organizations of all kinds were occurring. On April 6, 1917, Yonkers received the news of our entrance into the war, and its citizenry with earnest thoughts and active deeds took up the task of helping England and France and Italy and Belgium, as they fought for a world's right to justice and liberty. As there was apprehension of great danger at home, local units of Home Guards were formed to assist in protecting the homes and property, and even lives, of the people of Yonkers, if necessary. Men who before had never dreamed of such duty took their places in the ranks and felt the new thrill of being a part of a great venture. Even the city's children, under the guidance of the educational authorities, felt the necessity of doing something, and their war gardens, well tilled and well kept, gave evidence of their patriotic interest.

Following these events came the war census; and the registration of 53,850 persons took place without any disorder. The 1917 Liberty Loan with a total response of $1,515,450 occurred. One hundred thousand dollars was raised for the Red Cross. Then came the examinations before the draft boards, and one by one, amid the tears of anxious relatives, the men went away to war. Few who felt the thrill of those days will ever forget the patriotic fervor of a great city responding with its treasures of blood to the call of humanity. "Greater love than this hath no man — that a man shall lay down his life for his friends."

Then followed in rapid succession the other four Liberty Loan campaigns, Red Cross drives, the work of the clergymen, coöperating with the Salvation Army, to carry on war work and the four-minute talks night after night by the loyal four-minute men of Yonkers, bringing home in pungent, patriotic and eloquent phrases the needs of the hour. The Mayor's Committee then prepared to keep a permanent record of the boys in service and to welcome them when the war should be over. The educational forces offered training to drafted men free of charge. Religious societies opened their doors in welcome to the boys in service. A book drive was held, and various organizations having large representations in service held drives, all of which were enthusiastically responded to. The Junior Red Cross was organized. One drive and Liberty Loan succeeded another, and the people never seemed to tire of giving and helping and subscribing. On April 8, 1918, a flag with 1,800 stars, representing the men in service, was presented to the city. Magnificent parades were held. Yonkers was profoundly stirred by the sinking of the President Lincoln, and great local personal anxiety was relieved when it was found that the Yonkers boys on the ship were safe. During all of this time, men were departing for war, and the business interests of the city were concerned with those things that have to do with the carrying on of warfare.

Little by little news came of those who had made the supreme sacrifice, and to the glory and the fervor of war was added the story of its demands and sorrows. Yonkers had yielded without reserve of its energies, its time, its business and its money and now the city was yielding its blood, and every mail from the scenes of military endeavors brought back the story of heroic sacrifice. Through all the later days of the war the spirit of patriotism grew brighter and brighter and every heart united in the prayer and wish that the war would soon be brought to a successful conclusion and that wars might cease forever. On November 11, 1918, the Armistice was signed; and the prayers of a great people were answered and the safety of the nations and peoples of the world once more assured.

Now the boys were looking forward to coming home and friends and relatives were getting ready for their welcome. The Mayor's Committee on "Reception to Returning Soldiers and Sailors" took measures to accomplish the purposes indicated in its name. The last Liberty Loan, the Victory Loan, freighted with the idea of helping bring the boys home, added its splendid success to the other drives in Yonkers. On March 3, 1919, Yonkers placed its Welcome Banner in Getty Square. A great Victory Parade, held on June 14, 1919, jubilantly marked a chapter in the city's history that had been filled with heartfelt duty and fervent endeavor on the part of the entire community. The Victory Loan Campaign came to an end with a quota of $2,589,000 and a Yonkers response to that quota by raising $3,358,650. Then followed still other celebrations. The various organizations, churches and clubs welcomed home their members again with banquet and prayer and rejoicing. In every ward were held exercises of welcome to the returning boys. Monuments and tablets in memory of those who died on the fields of honor were unveiled.

On June 29, 1919, with impressive exercises, the city held at the State Armory a memorial in behalf of Yonkers men who died in the service of the nation, and paid a beautiful and heartfelt tribute to its heroic dead.

Yonkers welcomed its boys back to the city that had prayed for their return and gave them employment and place again, a place of greater responsibility and duty in civic progress and improvement, because they had learned the lesson of the price of liberty and the terrible cost of defending it, and because they had come back with a deeper respect for all true governments.

And Yonkers itself, citizens all who took their part and did their duty in a great crisis, settled down to the problems of reconstruction, the problems of peace, the problems of continuous good government, the problems of a progressive and patriotic city, glad of the part it had under God so nobly and successfully taken, in keeping justice and liberty among the national watchwords of the world.

WHERE YONKERS MEN FOUGHT

AND THE UNITS OF WHICH THEY WERE A PART

WITH THE 27th AND 77th DIVISIONS

From the Accounts of WILLIAM E. MOORE, Late Captain, U.S.A., and JAMES C. RUSSELL, Late Captain, U.S.A.

Prepared from the Official Files of the War Department

IT WOULD be manifestly impossible to append in this volume a complete account of the operations of every unit with which Yonkers men served, for there were Yonkers men not only with the American forces, but with the Canadian and British forces, in the ambulance services as auxiliaries to the French forces, and in other detached units here and abroad.

The great majority of Yonkers men served with the 27th and the 77th Divisions, those two gallant war units which so well represented New York State in the world conflict. It must be borne in mind that the stories of these two divisions, which follow, are just representative slices of the war experiences of all Yonkers men, wherever they may have served.

THE TWENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION

THE Twenty-seventh Division was organized in September, 1917, at Camp Wadsworth, South Carolina, from National Guard troops of New York.

The organization was as follows:

53d Infantry Brigade:

105th and 106th Infantry; 105th Machine-gun Battalion.

54th Infantry Brigade:

107th and 108th Infantry; 106th Machine-gun Battalion.

52d Artillery Brigade.

104th and 105th (light), 106th (heavy) Field Artillery; 102d Trench Mortar Battery.

104th Machine-gun Battalion.

102d Engineers.

102d Field Signal Battalion.

Trains.

The first unit of the division arrived in France May 7, 1918; the last element July 12, 1918.

For training purposes the Division (less artillery) was attached to British units in the Department of the Somme until July 3, 1918. For the same purpose the artillery brigade went to Camp de Souge, where it remained until August 30, 1918. It never served with the 27th Division in France, but in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, September 26 to November 11, 1918.

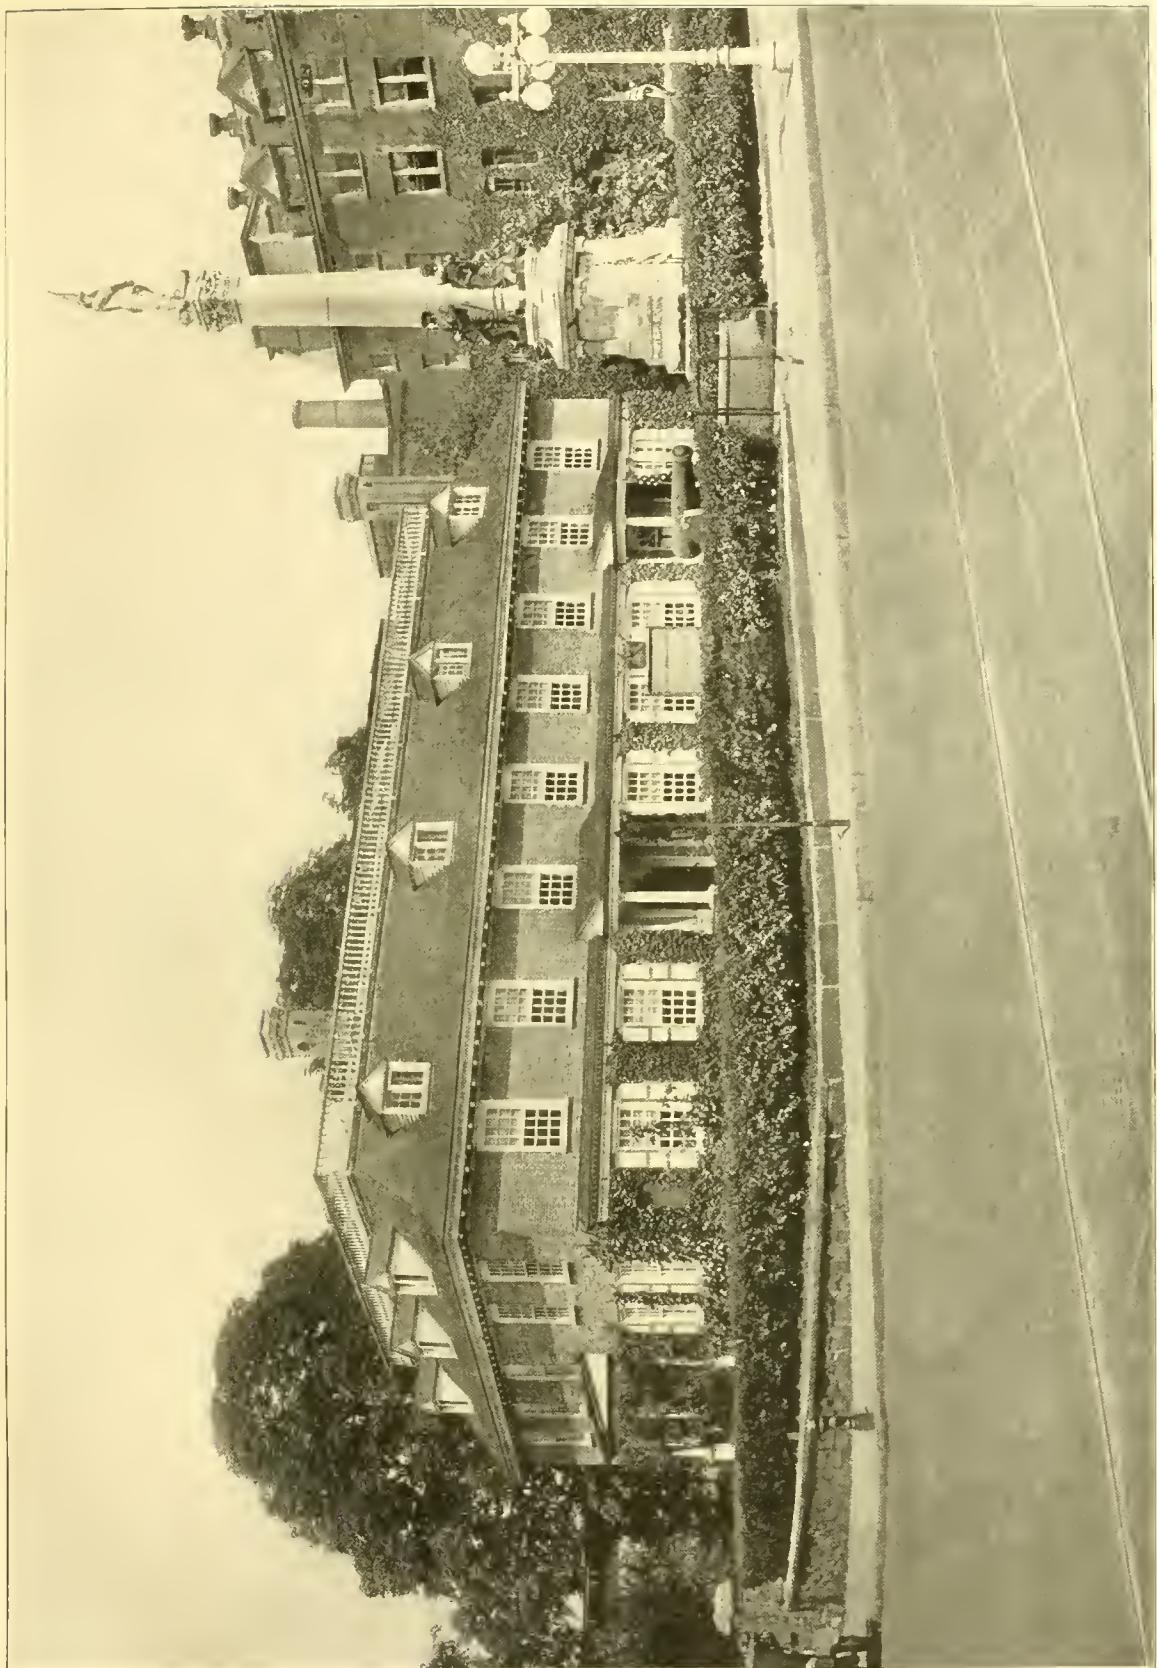

On July 3, 1918, the Division proceeded to Belgium under the British 2d Army, where, for further training, units were brigaded with troops of the British 19th Corps in the Dickebusch Lake and Scherpenberg sector southwest of Ypres from July 9 to August 23, 1918. On August 23, it relieved the British 6th Division in line southwest of Ypres, and participated in the Ypres-Lys offensive from August 31 to September 2, 1918, in the battle before Mt. Kemmel. On September 3, it was withdrawn from the line, and proceeded to the Beauquesne Area near Beauval.

Late in September the 27th and 30th (North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee) Divisions were assembled under the Corps Command of the Second United States Army Corps and the Army Command of the Fourth British Army, General Rawlinson, and put in the sector fronting the Hindenburg line positions about midway between St. Quentin and Cambrai.

The front which they occupied was very nearly that which the British had held previous to the German attack of March 21 and from which they had been driven back nearly to Amiens. The initial attack of Marshal Haig's British Armies was to be made on September 27, the day after the advance of the First American and Fourth French Armies on both sides of the Argonne.

The 27th and 30th American Divisions relieved the 18th and 75th British Divisions in the front line on September 25. The position of the Hindenburg line which they were to attack was about 6,000 yards long, the limits of their sector being approximately determined by the length of the tunnel of the Scheldt, of St. Quentin Canal, and it was, perhaps, more formidable than any other position of the Hindenburg line of like extent.

BATTLEFIELD OF THE 27th DIVISION, OCTOBER 17, 1918

General view of the battlefields over which the 27th Division fought in the drive through that part of the Hindenberg Line opposite them. Every shell hole was used for machine gun emplacements. The cliff in the distance was completely fortified with hundreds of machine guns. Taken at Le Cateau, France.

"The portion of the Hindenburg line which the 27th and 30th Divisions were to attack had a distinctive character which might well relate its conquest to an action by such an integral force as our Second Corps, attached to another army," says Lt. Col. Frederick Palmer. "For six thousand yards the St. Quentin Canal, opened in Napoleon's time and used until the beginning of the war, runs in practically a straight line north and south under a ridge, whose crest, from the piling of the spoils of excavation, is almost as regular as an enormous parapet. The open canal being unfordable, this section, obviously inviting attack, was given particular attention in preparing the artificial defenses which the ground and the tunnel itself favored. The thickness of the earth over the stone arch was such that at no point had the largest caliber shell the slightest chance of successful penetration. In the tunnel, lighted by electricity, the number of reserves which could be accommodated was regulated by the extent of the wooden platforms laid across from wall to wall. It was said that there was room provided for a full division of infantry, which, while being entertained by moving pictures to while away idle hours, would be perfectly secure from any bombardment until such time as their services were required, when they had prompt egress to their places assigned for a crisis through the openings of the reverse slope of the higher irregular crest in front. It was a most comfortable and adaptable arrangement, for which the French a century ago had done the spading.

"On the crest in front of the tunnel, none of the provisions in dugouts, traverses, strong points and barbed wire of a thoroughgoing trench system was lacking. In front of this crest over which the main Hindenburg line ran, at a distance of a thousand yards, was another ridge, which formed the first or outpost line. Any troops who took this forward line must move down an apron in full view of the trenches of the main system, in range of its machine guns and rifles, and under its observation for the direction of artillery fire, which, of course, had this apron accurately plotted. Between the two ridges, utilizing the ravines, sunken roads and irregularities of ground, the Germans had deep communication trenches, which, with the passages out of the tunnel, further connected the system with facilities for the swift utilization of their troops, in making the most of all the details of natural and artificial advantage of a position which had on its flanks the unfordable canal. But the defenses had not been well kept up, partly as a result of the deterioration of German industry in digging and more largely because of Ludendorff's commitment to mobile warfare by his March offensive."

It was upon these immense strongholds that the 27th and 30th Divisions were to deliver their attack. They were supported by five Australian artillery Divisions, totalling 438 guns, by the 3d Australian Air Squadron, by parts of the 3d and 5th Tank Brigades, the 301st

Tank Battalion, the only American heavy tank unit on the western front, and other tactical units of British troops, bringing the total up to more than 22,000. In addition, the 3d and 5th Australian Divisions were in reserve. On the morning of September 27, under tremendous bombardment, which was then opened and continued for two days by all the artillery of the Fourth British Army on the main Hindenburg positions, the 106th Infantry of the 27th Division attacked the enemy's strong points at the Knoll, Guillemont Farm, and Quenne-mont Farm, on the immediate front of the Division. The positions were captured but were found very hard to hold as machine guns and gunners were apparently fed up into them from the main canal tunnel, and when the 154th Brigade, comprising the 107th and 108th Infantries, took over the front line that night, the Germans were still found making vigorous resistance around those points.

At 5.50 on the morning of the 29th, in the midst of a heavy fog, under an intense barrage of high explosive, gas and smoke shells and accompanied by numerous tanks, the attack went off and up the long open slopes toward the blazing German trenches and the ruins of Bellicourt and Bony on the canal tunnel ridge. The 27th Division went in with the 108th Infantry on the right and the 107th on the left, two battalions of each regiment in the front line and one in support. One battalion of the 106th Infantry followed the 107th to assist in mopping up the Hindenburg trenches, the canal tunne land its north entrance, while the 105th Infantry, following still farther behind, was to face to the north after crossing the canal tunnel and protect the left flank of the Corps in that direction as the 117th Infantry of the 30th Division was to do at the other end of the tunnel. Two battalions of the 106th Infantry, which had suffered considerably in the attack of September 27, formed the Division reserve.

The fog proved in some respects an aid and in others a hindrance. It concealed the attacking troops from the enemy and prevented the accurate fire, which, had the weather been clear, might very possibly have stopped the advance. But it also soon caused the units to lose direction and contact with one another, and to advance more slowly, and, more unfortunate still, to pass machine gun nests and strong points without seeing and destroying them.

Many of these places appear to have been connected with the canal tunnel by lateral passages and to have been heavily reinforced through these passages after the first waves of the attack had gone by. Consequently a little later when the mopping up and support arrived in the clearing fog they met a resistance stronger and more effective than had been encountered by the troops in advance.

The 27th Division from the start suffered much more severely than the 30th. Though the front line progressed satisfactorily for some time, the troops being reported in both Bony and Le Catelet, the two reserve regiments and the 3d Australians following encountered violent machine-gun opposition upon practically the very line from which the attack started. They were obliged to deploy and engage with all their energy in mopping up the machine-gun nests and tunnel entrances from which literally "oozed up" during the fighting as much, it was estimated, as one full German Division.

The battalion of the 107th Infantry, which had advanced into Le Catelet, was completely cut off for a time by infiltrating Germans, while the battalion of the 108th, which had occupied the Hindenburg line south of Bony, retained its position only with the utmost difficulty until it was finally joined by the advancing Australians.

It took the latter four days of hard fighting to finish the reduction of the Hindenburg line south of Bony and the canal tunnel in this sector, and to occupy securely Le Catelet and Guoy, although the 27th Division had already lost about four thousand in the initial attack and had taken about fifteen hundred prisoners. The command of the sector passed to Major-General Gellibrand of the 3d Australian Division shortly after midnight that night, though approximately one thousand men of the 27th Division remained throughout the next day with the Australians and participated in their hard fighting. Both the 27th and the 30th Divisions now went back to the Peronne area for replacements, the former being about five thousand under strength.

The Second American Corps returned to the front and relieved the Australian troops, the 30th Division only being in line. This was just east of Montbrehain about four miles beyond Nauroy. By October 11 the 30th Division had reached the Selle River.

On the night of October 11 the 27th Division relieved the 30th in the St. Souplet-Le Catelet area. The 27th Division lay still for a few days while guns, supplies and ammunition which had been unable to keep up with the advance were brought up and distributed.

On the night of October 16 the 30th Division returned to the line and equally divided a four thousand yard front with the 27th Division. At this time the combined strength of the two organizations was about fifteen thousand men.

Patrols from the 27th Division established the fact that the enemy had on the American front five complete Divisions and elements of six others. It was apparent that the Germans intended to offer stubborn resistance on the bank of the Selle.

On the morning of October 17 in a drizzling and thick mist began the battle of the Selle River. The troops advanced under a heavy barrage. The enemy put down a heavy counter barrage and machine gun fire, but, despite the resistance and the slippery footing on the wet, chalky soil, the troops waded the river, climbed the opposite bank and pushed doggedly on into the mist.

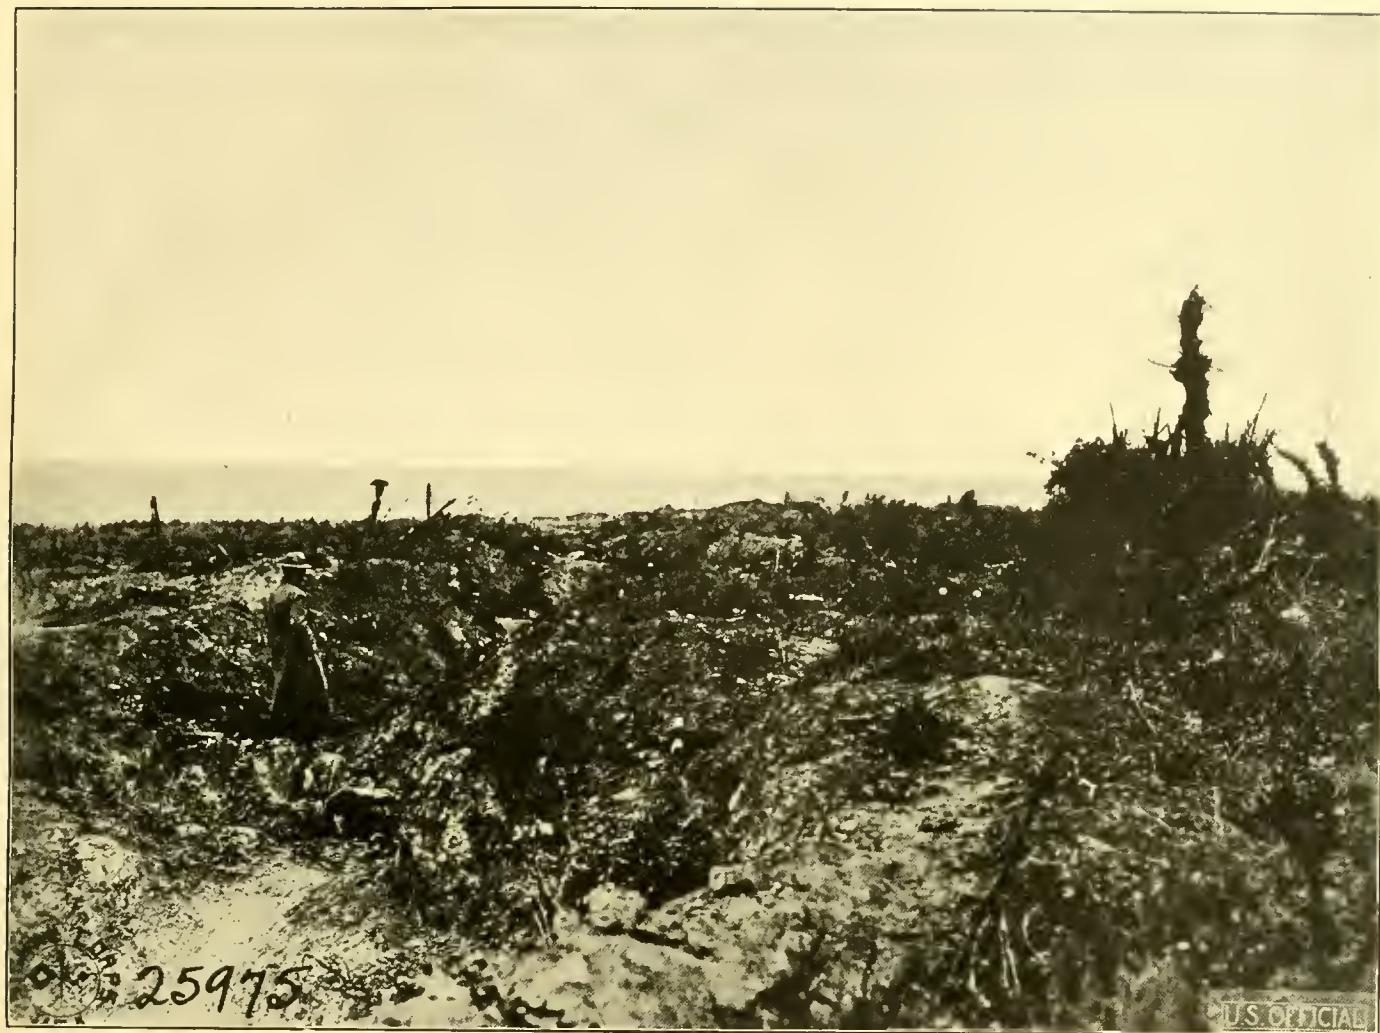

The remaining fourteen tanks of the 301st American Tank Battalion crossed the river at a narrow point north of St. Souplet and tried to swing to the north in front of the 27th Division.

Eventually, although the left of the 27th was held back because of the difficulty experienced by the 25th British Division in getting through the triangle of railroad tracks south of Le Cateau, the front pushed over the ridge, capturing Molain on the right, and established a line through Abre de Guise, two miles from the jumping-off line, although both flanks were drawn back for liaison with adjoining divisions. The whole advance was made against heavy artillery fire and several strong German counter attacks were repulsed during the course of it, for the enemy had apparently been taken somewhat by surprise by the resumption of the attack and was obliged to resist strongly to cover the further withdrawal of its heavy artillery.

The 27th Division attacked on the morning of October 18, in conjunction with the 13th British Corps, and encountered heavy machine gun fire from farms on the hill slopes as well as repeated counter attacks supported by artillery. Shortly before noon the 30th Division, which had started later, had an obstinate fight for Ribeauville, which was only taken finally with the assistance of artillery barrage. About the middle of the afternoon the enemy's resistance suddenly weakened and the whole front pushed on to the next ridge, which was within two miles of the Sambre Canal and the town of Catillon on its western bank.

Mazingheim, in the hills between Ribeauville and Catillon, was occupied by the 30th Division assisted by a flank attack of troops of the 27th Division from the north. The 27th Division on its part during the day had conquered Jond de Mer Farm and La Roux Farm, crossed the Jond de Mer brook and ridge and pushed up nearly to the ridge just west of the St. Maurice River. The next day, October 19, patrols were pushed out toward the Sambre Canal all along the front, those of the 27th Division attaining the west bank of the St. Maurice and those of the 30th getting to the last ridge overlooking Catillon and the canal.

Artillery and other preparations were now in progress for the next strongly organized attack to be made for the crossing of the Sambre Canal and River. The two American Divisions, however, after their long and exhausting period of service on the battle front, were not in condition to be used longer without a rest period, and they were relieved before that attack was made, the 6th British Division taking over the sector of the 27th Division on the night of October 21-22, as the First British Division had taken over that of the 30th on the previous night. Both Divisions went back to the vicinity of Amiens for rest and training and were still there, though daily expecting to return to the pursuit of the enemy when the Armistice was signed on November 11. ing the rest period the headquarters of the 27th Division was at Corbie.

In the battle from September 29 to October 21, in which one or both of the Divisions of the Second Corps were almost continually engaged, the total advance of the Corps front had been about twenty miles, all but four of which had been made by the Americans. The 27th Division had suffered total casualties of 8,986 officers and men. The 30th Division lost 8,954 officers and men.

At the conclusion of the operations Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig wrote to the Commander of the American Second Corps, Major General George W. Read:

October 20, 1918.

I wish to express to you personally and to all the officers and men serving under you my warm appreciation of the very valuable and gallant services rendered by you through the recent operations of the Fourth British Army. Called upon to attack positions of great strength held by a determined enemy, all ranks of the 27th and 30th Divisions under your command displayed an energy, courage and determination in attack which proved irresistible. It does not need me to tell you that in the heavy fighting of the last three weeks you have earned the lasting esteem and admiration of your British comrades in arms whose successes you have so nobly shared.

On November 23 the 27th Division moved to the Le Mans embarkation center preparatory to its return to the United States. Division Headquarters sailed from Brest February 27, 1919, and arrived in New York March 6, 1919.

THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION

THE 77th Division was organized in August, 1917, at Camp Upton, New York. It was composed of National Army men from New York State and vicinity.

Its composition was as follows:

153d Infantry Brigade:

305th and 306th Infantry; 305th Machine gun Battalion.

154th Infantry Brigade:

307th and 308th Infantry; 306th Machine gun Battalion.

304th Machine gun Battalion.

152d Field Artillery Brigade:

304th and 305th (light), 306th (heavy) Field Artillery; 302d Trench Mortar Battery.

302d Engineers.

302d Field Signal Battalion.

302d Ammunition Train, Medical, Sanitary, Veterinary and other trains and auxiliary units.

The first element of the Division arrived in France April 12, 1918, and the last May 12. The infantry immediately began training with the British in the Department of Pas-de-Calais, close behind reserve lines, while the artillery was sent to Camp de Souge, near Bordeaux for a similar purpose.

On June 19 the Division moved to the comparatively quiet Baccarat sector. It held this sector, which was in the foothills of the Vosges, in conjunction with the French until between the 15th and 18th of July, at which time the French troops were withdrawn and the 77th Division left to its own resources. During this period the Division was supported by French artillery, but near the middle of the month its own artillery rejoined it and relieved the French.

It was while in the Vosges that a desperate daylight raid took place. As few prisoners had been taken, and as they were considered valuable for purposes of interrogation, Captain Blanton B. Barrett, Company B, 307th Infantry, proposed to the commanding officer, Colonel Isaac Irwin, a plan for a daylight raid on the trenches opposite. Brigadier General E. M. Johnson, 154th Brigade, approved the plan after conference with Captain Barrett.

At 2:00 P.M., June 12, Captain Barrett with a lieutenant and fifty-two enlisted men started along a path through the woods to the German trenches. After proceeding to the German first line trench the patrol heard a shot almost immediately followed by a bugle call. Then there were two more shots and a fusillade from machine guns in all quarters.

A report to General Headquarters tersely states, "The enemy was found in readiness. The raiding party put up a strong fight and the firing lasted twenty minutes. Missing (probably killed), Captain Barrett and thirty-two men. Wounded, one officer and fourteen enlisted men. Returned uninjured, six enlisted men." After the armistice, Captain Barrett's body was found in a grave with fifteen soldiers.

The 77th was relieved in this sector on August 3 and moved northwest to a position on the Vesle River. The counter offensive of July 18 had driven the enemy out of the Marne salient and he was now making a determined stand, utilizing to the utmost the natural barrier afforded by the Vesle and the steep hills about it.

The Division relieved the 62d French and the 4th American Division on a line south of and parallel to the river, running from Mont Notre Dame through St. Thibaut and Ville-Savoye in the direction of Fismes, a front of approximately five kilometers. The relief was effected on the night of August 11-12.

Major General Robert Alexander succeeded Major General George B. Duncan in command of the Division on August 27.

"At that time the Division," says General Alexander, "was occupying the line of the Vesle River between Chateau du Diable and Bazoches. Both brigades had elements in the line; the 154th Brigade occupying a bridgehead north of the Vesle in the vicinity of Chateau du Diable; the 153d Brigade occupying a bridgehead north of the Vesle in the vicinity of Bazoches.

"The feature of the terrain was such as to make these bridgeheads extremely difficult to hold as they were subjected to enemy artillery, rifle and machine gun fire at all times. Notwithstanding this fact the positions were held in the face of the most strenuous opposition.

"Finally on the night of September 3-4 indications on my front being that the enemy was in process of withdrawal I ordered strong patrols to be sent forward early in the following morning; one directed on the heights above Chateau du Diable and the other on the heights above Bazoches. Both efforts were successful notwithstanding serious opposition from machine, rifle and artillery fire, and as soon as a footing was gained on the heights in question the patrols were followed up by the remainder of the brigades from which they had been sent out.

"The advance thus begun was continued, passing through the towns of Blanzy-lès-Fismes, Dhuizel, Longueval, Serval and Merval."

The entire period of operation from the Vesle to the Aisne was characterized by continuous and effective artillery fire by the 152d Field Artillery Brigade.

When the Division was relieved on the night of September 15-16 by Italian troops its line ran from Vieil-Arcy, through Villers-en-Prayeres, southeast to a point south of Glennes. From the Oise-Aisne sector the Division moved to the Argonne sector and on September 18 headquarters were established at Givry-en-Argonne. For the Meuse-Argonne operation the 77th Division was assigned to the First Corps, which was the left flank of the First Army. In turn the 77th Division was assigned to the left flank of its corps. The line it took over ran from a point north of La Harazee south and east for approximately seven and a half kilometers with the Argonne forest directly on its front. On the left of the 77th Division, maintaining liaison with the Fourth French Army, were elements of the 92d (colored) Division. On its right was the 28th Division. Opposing the Division was the 2d Landwehr of the Fifth German Army, General Von der Marwitz commanding. The 2d Landwehr had spent more than a year in the Argonne forest, where there had been no fighting since the unsuccessful French offensive of 1915, and they had managed to make themselves quite comfortable in their palatial dugouts.

Describing the difficult ground over which the 77th was to advance, Lieutenant Colonel Frederick Palmer wrote: "If the forest were stripped bare of its trees it would present a great ridge-like bastion, cut by ravines, with irregular hills and slopes of a character which, even though bald, would have been formidable in defense. Its timber had nothing in common with the park-like conception of a European forest, in which the ground opens between the tree trunks in lines as regular as an orchard. If the Argonne had been without roads, the Red Indians might have been as much at home in its depths as in the primeval Adirondacks. Underbrush grew as freely as in our New England or Middle States and the leaves had not yet begun to fall from the trees."

The Argonne bastion was, in places, one hundred meters above the valley of the Aire River. The forest was indeed so formidable that the entire scheme of attack of the First American Army and the Fourth French Army west of it was governed by the necessity of forcing its defenders from it by outflanking rather than by direct attack.

The only advantage to the 77th Division in attacking a region hitherto regarded as utterly impregnable lay in the fact that the flanking operations on either side of the forest would constantly assist in forcing their way forward.

During the night of September 23-24 elements of the Division were placed in the second line. The artillery reached the new sector on the night of September 24-25 and there went into position for contemplated attack.

"This attack was fixed for the morning of September 26" says Major General Alexander. "For this attack the Division, having assigned to it a front of about seven and a half kilometers, was disposed in line; all four infantry regiments of the division being in the front line. This disposition is not at all what I would like to have made but the frontage to be covered was so extensive that no other disposition appeared at all appropriate. It will be noted from this, however, that too great a proportion of the division was actually engaged at all times and that a disposition in depth — which is desirable from every point of view — could not for the moment be made.

"At 5:30 A.M. on September 26, after an artillery preparation of six hours, the 77th Division advanced, having on its right the 28th Division, U. S., and on the left the First French Division. There was also organized a Franco-American force intended to act as a combat liaison group on our left flank for the purpose of maintaining contact with the French. This group (368th Infantry, 92d Division) was to have advanced in conjunction with the left of the 77th Division. It did not so advance and as a consequence the left flank of the Division was exposed during the whole period of the operation which resulted in clearing the forest of the enemy."

Plunging directly into the forest, the 77th Division, some two kilometers into the front trench systems and winding ravines, many of them 180 feet from floor to crest. The 305th Infantry took the Abri St. Louis after four attacks and the 306th captured the Four Zube after three attacks as well as an immense dump of engineer and light railroad material near the Barricade Pavillon. St. Herbert's Pavillon was also taken, as well as warehouses, barracks and light railways all through the ravine. The right of the 77th Division thus got ahead some three kilometers. The left was well into the heart of the enemy trench system at dusk.

The fierce fighting of the first day was followed by a period of slow and difficult advance through the woods. After passing the front lines, organized positions of the Germans were not encountered for some time, though every opening in the forest was enfiladed by machine guns and the underbrush was slashed and wired wherever possible.

When on October 1 and 2 the 77th Division attacked the German line, lying east and west through the Bois de Naza to the Bagatelle trench, the troops were so entangled in the mazes of the Argonne forest that they could hardly tell even where they were, while the effective use of artillery was almost impossible. The battalions operating in the front line had orders to push ahead regardless of progress by the units on their flanks, but only one detachment succeeded in penetrating the enemy's position during the day. This detachment, consisting of the 1st Battalion of the 308th Infantry, under Major Charles W. Whittlesey, elements of the 307th Infantry under Captain McMurtry and elements of the 306th Machine Gun Battalion, at about 4 P.M. of the 2d found a weak spot on the enemy's line, pushed through and advanced down the hillside into a deep ravine (Bois de la Buironne) on the woodland road that runs from Apremont westward across the forest to Binarville.

The troops on the flank not being far enough in advance, during the night the enemy filtered in along the ridge which Major Whittlesey's men had crossed, established machine guns and wired up the underbrush, thus connecting their own line between the Bois de Naza and the Bagatelle trench and completely isolating the small body of Americans behind it.

In this extremely exposed position, at the bottom of the ravine about 400 meters east of the old mill at Charlevaux, with the enemy firing at them from all sides, the Americans heroically stood off their assailants for five days, during which period the men subsisted on the two days' reserve rations which they had with them, as the supply of foods brought over and dropped by American airplanes all fell within the enemy's lines.

Fortunately the battalion had taken along some carrier pigeons, and by these Major Whittlesey was able to send an occasional message out to the Division commander. As soon as the latter learned of the situation, every effort was devoted to breaking through the enemy's front and rescuing Whittlesey and his men.

Already on the night of the 2d a reserve battalion of the 154th Infantry Brigade attempted to get forward and connect with his left flank but failed. The next day five attacks on the part of the 154th Brigade were repulsed chiefly because of the scarcity of artillery and the impossibility of observing the fire effect of even such of it as was in position. The continued effort made on the 4th, 5th and 6th met with no better success.

At length, on October 7, a point was found near a junction of two ravines just west of the Bois de Naza, through which men from the left of the 153d Brigade and the right of the 154th were able, by taking advantage of the irregularity of the ground, to infiltrate through the enemy's front to points in his rear from which they could direct reverse fire on his defensive position.

Thus attacked, the Germans were gradually driven out, and at about nine o'clock that night liaison was finally established with Major Whittlesey's troops. It was done none too soon for they had suffered fifty per cent casualties. In spite of this fact, and their state of exhaustion, their spirits were still unbroken as was evidenced by the fact that on that morning a summons to surrender sent in by the Germans had been treated with contempt and the defense continued with increased vigor.

"Even though the division had accomplished nothing else during the course of this campaign," says Major General Alexander, "the exploit of Major Whittlesey and his detachment would be worthy of the highest honor."

The operations which had resulted in the rescue of the "Lost Battalion" had, at the same time, broken the enemy's lines of defense effectively and prepared for a further advance along the whole Divisional front of the 77th.

On October 8, the Division began to emerge from the forest and on the 11th the Aire River was reached.

"On the afternoon of the 14th of October the 153d Brigade, comprising the 305th and 306th Regiments, after adequate artillery preparation and with artillery support, captured the town of St. Juvin and Cote 182 north thereof," says Major General Alexander. "This operation was brilliantly carried out in the face of stubborn resistance. With the town, there were captured over five hundred prisoners, including two majors and other officers of subordinate rank. On the 15th of October, emulating the exploit of the 153d, the 154th Brigade, comprising the 307th and 308th Regiments, executed an attack against Grandpré which resulted in the capture and occupation of that town. The Division was relieved by the 78th Division during the night of October 15-16. Owing to some misapprehension of orders or delay in execution thereof, the brigade of the 78th Division which was to relieve the troops of the 154th Brigade in Grandpré failed to reach the position of the outposts established in the northern edge of the town by the 77th Division (154th Brigade) in time to make the relief thereof. This delay seems to have resulted in a partial reoccupation of the northern edge of Grandpré by the enemy."

On the night of October 30-31 the 77th Division relieved part of the 82d Division on a line just south of Champigneulle. At this time the enemy was making a desperate effort to withdraw his defeated troops behind the Meuse. The pursuit of the enemy is thus summarized by General Alexander:

"October 31-November 1. This Division renewed the attack at 5:30 A.M. in conjunction with the 80th Division on its right and the 78th Division on its left. The 153d Brigade was in advance, with the 305th Infantry in the front line and the 306th as brigade reserve; the 154th Brigade served as Divisional reserve. The right of our line attacked Champigneulle from the east, overcoming stubborn resistance, and succeeded in occupying the ridge running northeast from Champigneulle, in liaison with the 80th Division. The left of our line advanced to 05.0-87.6 in liaison with the 78th, who were fighting hard to occupy the Bois des Loges. This attack was a flanking movement on Champigneulle with a few troops making a frontal attack. They were unable to overcome the resistance in Champigneulle and occupied a position at the end of the first day's attack just south of the town....

"November 1-2. Attack continued in same formation.... The attack started on schedule time and the opposition in Champigneulle was overcome and before 11 o'clock our patrols entered Verpel.

"November 2-3. During the afternoon our troops broke down the enemy's resistance and by 18h had reached the Buzancy-Haricourt-Briquenay road, having stripped down to rations and ammunition in order to maintain contact with the enemy who were retreating rapidly toward the Meuse.

"November 6-7. The advance continued in the face of harassing fire from the enemy artillery, who were using 77s, 105s and in the back areas 155s. Particularly strong resistance was encountered... from entrenched machine-gun positions south and southeast of Raucourt.... From the woods on the right of our sector the enemy was able to put up a strong resistance and it was necessary to resort again to Indian warfare. At 18h our troops, following the advance guard, marched along the railroad and captured the important town of Raucourt. Haraucourt was quickly overcome and the resistance fell back to Angecourt. Fighting and advancing throughout the entire night, by dawn our troops had occupied all towns and heights on the west of the Meuse and heights southeast of Sedan within the Divisional sector, with patrols pushing across the Meuse. The 302d Engineers, always with the advancing battalions, reached the Meuse with the advance elements and constructed footbridges for the infantry to advance over. During this advance the 77th Division liberated in the neighborhood of 10,000 to 12,000 civilians. The following towns within the divisional area were liberated: Champigneulle, Buzancy, Autrecourt, Autruche, Petit Remilly, Petites Armoises, Verpel, Stonne, Bar, Flaba, Authe, Oches, La Besace, Raucourt, Villers-devant-Mouzon, Remilly-Alliecourt, Pont Mangis, Thenorgues, Haricourt, St. Pierremont, La Berliere, Warnifaret, Haraucourt, Angecourt, Ablincourt."

The 77th Division's casualties during the entire period of its operations were 10,497. The entire distance over which the Division advanced was seventy-two kilometers in all operations. This was the greatest distance advanced over in actual fighting by any American division.

The French relieved the 77th on November 12. The French, for sentimental reasons, wished to be the first to enter Sedan. The Division moved to the vicinity of St. Pierremont, relieving the 2d and 89th Divisions. It was in turn relieved by the 90th, on the 17th. The Division moved to the Les Islettes area on the 20th, and on the 26th started marching and entraining to the ninth training area, all units arriving by December 5. Headquarters were established at Chateau Villain. In February the Division moved to the Le Mans embarkation center. Headquarters sailed from Brest on April 17, 1919, and arrived at New York April 25, the last units arriving toward the middle of May.

COMPANY G AMBULANCE

COMPANY G, 10th INFANTRY, NEW YORK NATIONAL GUARD

AMONG THE FIRST TO MOBILIZE — SERVED WITH HONOR HERE AND ABROAD — FROM YONKERS TO THE RHINE

COMPANY G, 10th Infantry, New York National Guard, responding to the call of the President, assembled in its armory, Waverly Street, Yonkers, July 15, 1917. The Company was mustered in the Federal service July 20. It left its home post, July 29, with Captain Albert C. Bogert, Second Lieutenant George D. Bragdon and 153 men for Madison Barracks, New York, where the Company was stationed for almost a month.

A detachment of two non-commissioned officers and twelve men was assigned to guard the Clayton Shipbuilding Company's yards, where submarine chasers were being built. The Company changed station to Fort Porter, Buffalo, N. Y., August 26, where detachments were assigned to guarding railroad bridges at North Evans, Angola, Silver Creek, and the international bridges at Black Rock, Buffalo, and the suspension bridges at Niagara Falls.

All detachments were called in October 26, and the Company entrained for Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., where it arrived October 29. The entire Regiment mobilized for intensive training. Designation was changed to Company G, 51st Pioneer Infantry, U.S.A., January 4, 1918. The Regiment entrained for Camp Merritt, New Jersey July 17. July 19, it sailed from Hoboken on the Kroonland, arriving at Brest, France, August 6.

Followed eight days encampment in a field near the famous Pontanezen Barracks.

On August 14, the First Battalion entrained for Sexey-au-Forges, Toul sector, arriving August 16. It was billeted with the villagers until August 28, when it entrained for Bautzen Barracks, Toul, where it arrived September 3, ready for anything. It left September 11 for Bernecourt to take part in the St. Mihiel offensive of September 12-13, attached to the 42d or "Rainbow Division." Then followed operations in the Woevre, September 14-25, and in the Meuse and Moselle from September 26 to November 11.

While quartered in an abandoned enemy dugout at Faye-en-Haye near Pont-au-Mousson, September 24 to October 3, repairing main roads, the Battalion was shelled daily by the enemy, and compelled to change position into Zeuvian Woods, near Essay, about fifteen kilometers west, where the work of rebuilding roads was continued until the signing of the Armistice.

As the unit was among those designated to go into Germany, the march to the Rhine commenced November 17. The unit arrived in Aspelt, Luxembourg, November 23. The march continued to Guls, where the unit arrived December 14. This town was on the Rhine, near Coblenz. The Company remained there until May 25, 1919. Company G was the first organization to arrive in town as part of the Army of Occupation. Captain Bogert immediately set about finding comfortable quarters for his tired men, and assumed command of the town, issuing, through the Burgomeister, rules and regulations to be observed by the native population.

While in the Army of Occupation, the Regiment was attached to the Fourth Army Corps of the Third Army, and was reviewed by General John J. Pershing March 17, 1919, at Kaiserseseh, near Mayen.

During the period at Guls, nearly all the men received a fourteen days' leave. Many went to Paris, Aix-le-Bains, Nice, England, Scotland and Ireland.

Night schools embracing many subjects were conducted for the men in Coblenz. Men were also sent to Army Trade Schools in various parts of the A. E. F.

The Company entrained at Coblenz for St. Nazaire May 26, stopping at Trier, Montagu and Malicorne. At the last named place, which is near Le Mans, the Regiment was again reviewed, and two ribbons were added to the colors by General Pershing. It arrived in St. Nazaire June 20, 1919.

Seven days later, the Company sailed for Boston on the S.S. Mongolia, arriving July 6. It was mustered out of the service at Camp Upton, Long Island, July 15, arriving home the same day.

THE YONKERS MEN IN THE NAVY

WHEN on April 6, 1917, the call came, many among the youth of Yonkers were drawn by the prospect of active service on the battle front to volunteer for service in the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Coast Guard. Even before the formal declaration of war, the trend of events had become so unmistakable as to lead to the formation of a Division of Naval Militia, which was formally mustered into the service of the State on February 24, 1917, leaving the city on April 7, 1917, for training on the U.S.S. Granite State in New York harbor. Three months later these men were mustered into the Federal service, and in small groups or as individuals were detailed for duty on transports, or as armed guards on merchant vessels bearing precious cargoes through the "danger zone."

As early as February 13, 1917, several Yonkers families were made to feel what war means, when four youths from our city serving on the steamship Georgia were taken prisoners by a commerce raider and sent to Germany.

Singly and in little groups, one after another quietly slipped away from home and friends to enter service on training ships, at naval stations, or in marine barracks, until the aggregate number far exceeded those who departed with their National Guard Regiments to become part of the vast army that was in the making. These voluntary enlistments helped to reduce to a minimum for a city of its size the quota summoned from Yonkers under the Selective Service Law. Until well on in the year 1918 all who entered the Naval or Marine service were volunteers, and the number from Yonkers steadily increased, until it was the rule, rather than the exception, for its families to have at least one representative in active service at the front, or in the "danger zone."

Many of these found in the deep sea their last resting place, as it was their Field of Honor, two Yonkers boys, brothers, being numbered among the crew of the ill-fated collier Cyclops whose tragic end will ever remain an unsolved mystery.

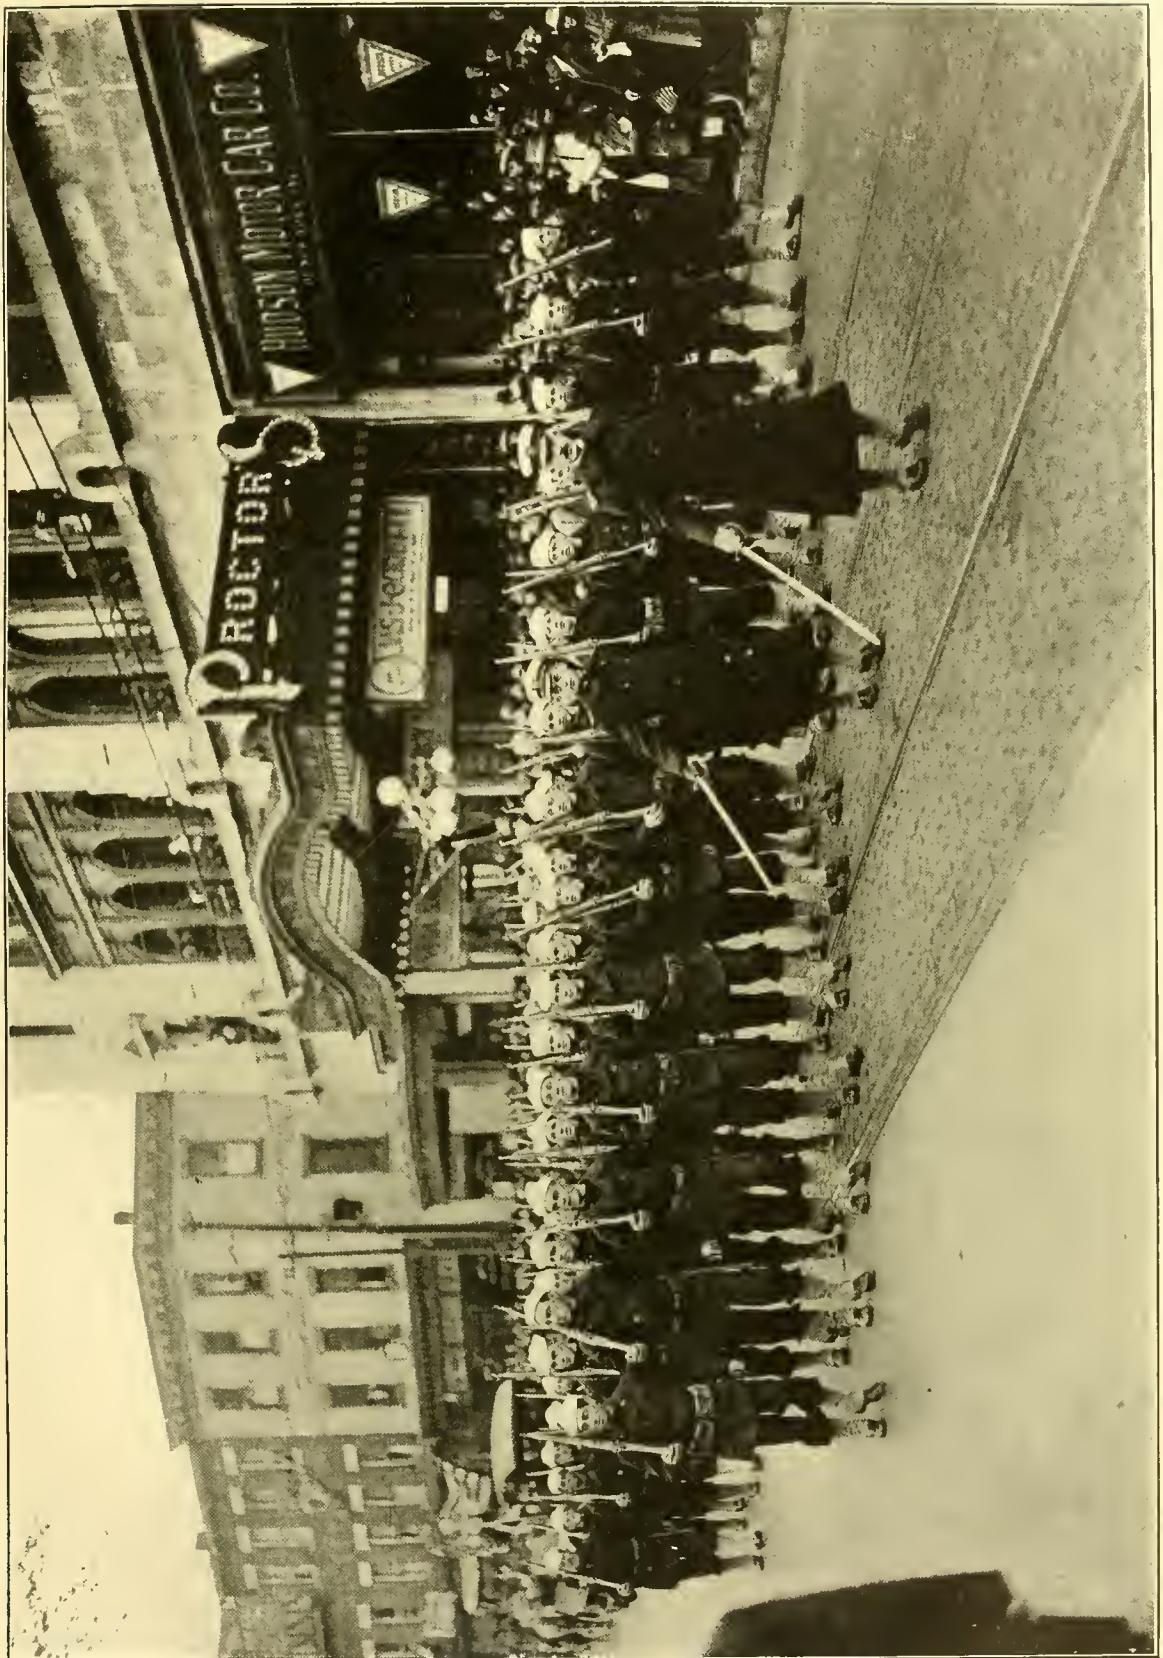

Standing watch on the storm tossed waters of the Bay of Biscay and the Channel, convoying precious cargo ships and transports from the British Isles to the Mediterranean, and eastward to the Adriatic and Salonika, through nests of lurking U-boats, and in frequent battle with them; on similar duty in the Irish Sea, or escorting convoys across the Atlantic to the British Isles or to France; serving on army transports, on sub-chasers, in naval aviation, or later in the perilous work of laying the mine barrier across the North Sea; none of the varied activities of our greatly augmented naval forces and marine corps failed to include representatives from Yonkers.

Meanwhile civilians, those whose only privilege in service was to "stand and wait," particularly the women of Yonkers, early found opportunity for valued service in ministering to the needs and the comforts of the "boys in blue" who helped to make possible the ultimate assembling in France of the largest sea-borne army in history, the A. E. F., harbinger of Victory. The Yonkers Branch of the Navy League, formed on April 10, 1917, and loyally supported by the public, which on one tag-day contributed over $1,800 for the purchase of materials, forwarded to naval stations on our coast and also overseas a constant stream of woolen garments knit by Yonkers women, for the comfort of our own seamen and those of our gallant allies. Among other indefatigable workers was one, a poor widow with six sons in service, who had the extreme satisfaction of sending sweaters and helmets to several of her own sons overseas. In this enterprise the Comforts Committee of the Navy League was materially assisted by a band of Red Cross workers residing in South Yonkers.

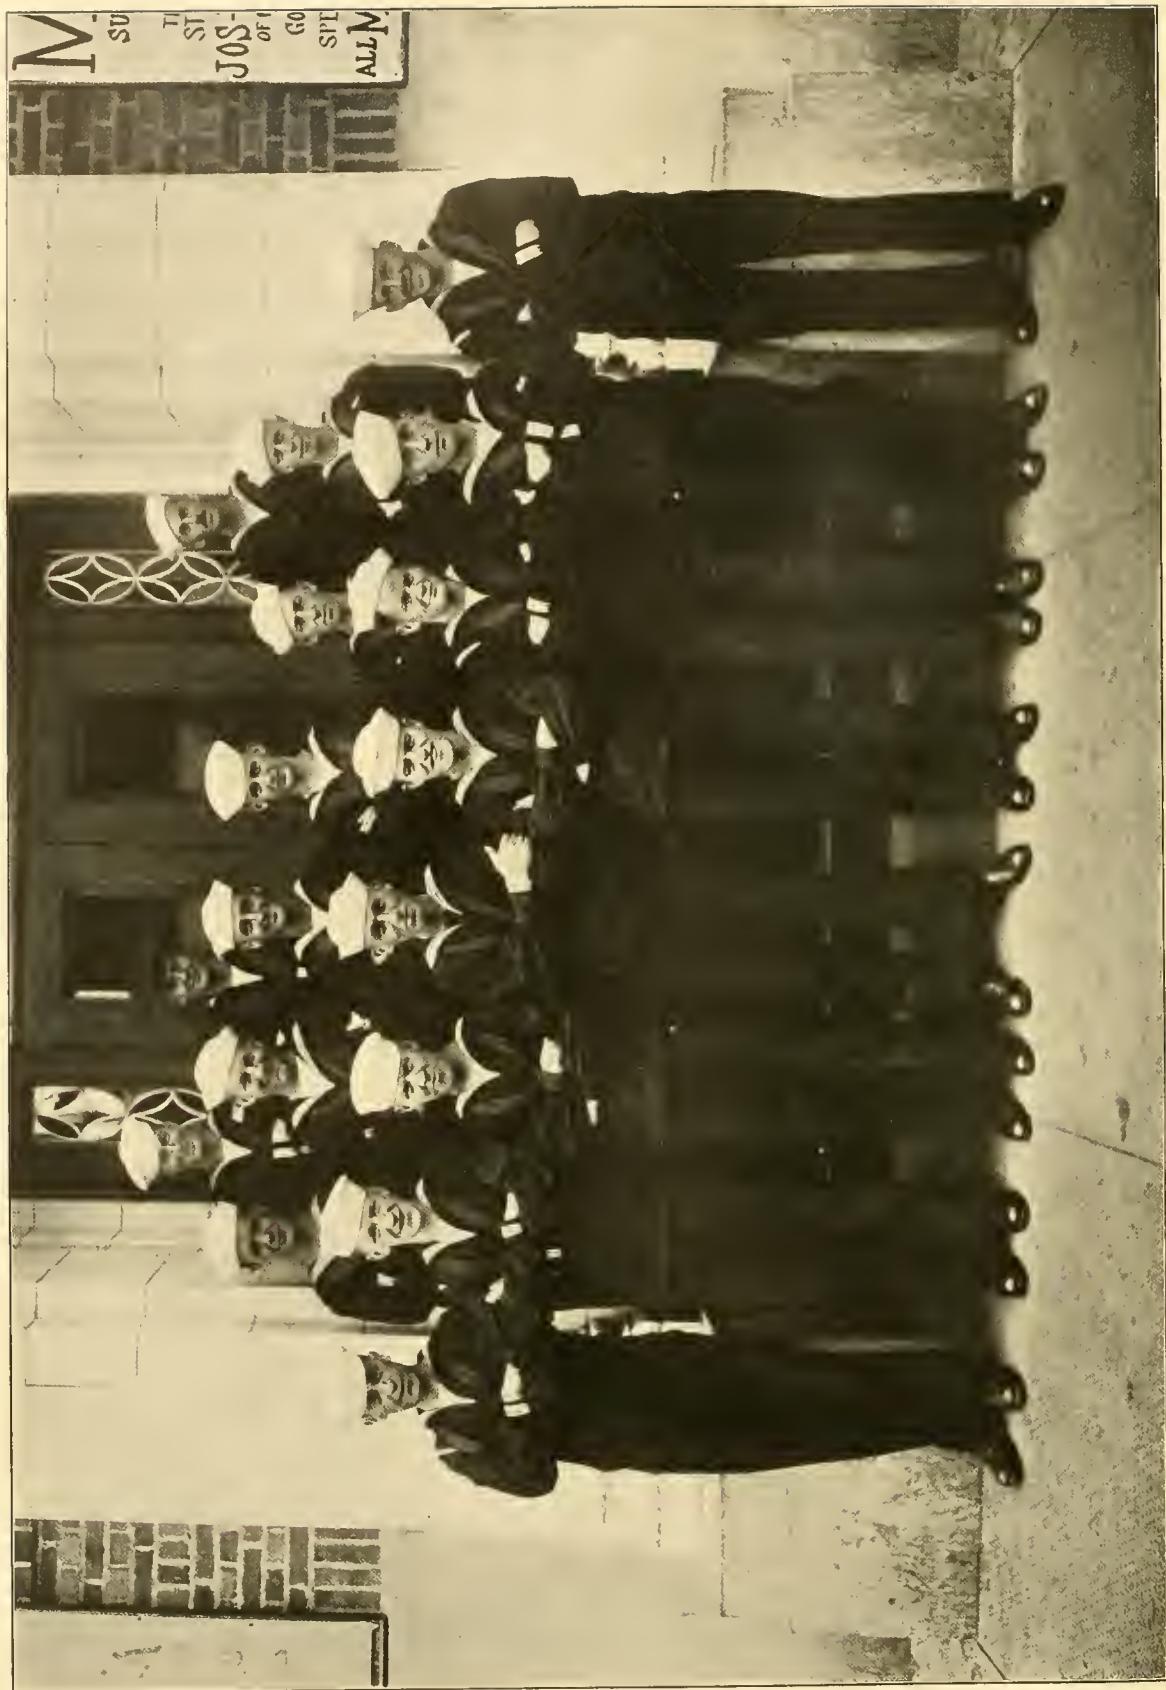

By the date of the entry of the United States into the war as a belligerent, operations on the high seas had settled down into a tireless hunt for the piratical U-boats, which alone could keep the seas. The Grand Fleet stood guard in the North Sea, effectually preventing any attempt on the part of Germany seriously to interrupt the lines of communication from the allied sources of supply to the battle fronts in France, Italy, and the Near East, or to gain control of the seas. Meanwhile men and munitions poured in a constant and ever increasing stream from this country to our sorely pressed allies, through the "danger zones," and in spite of the verboten edict of the Hun. The day had seemingly passed for spectacular meetings of capital ships in such combats as had characterized the earlier years of the war, but in all phases of the vitally important work at sea, which so largely contributed to the final victory, our naval forces bore a conspicuous part.

The incompleteness of our records, and the fact that men in naval service are assigned to ships as individuals at widely separated points, and in a great diversity of operations, make impossible any accurate and complete record of the service performed by the men of Yonkers. It was, however, the fate of some to participate in exploits that reflected glory upon the Flag they served, and were typical of the heroic and self-sacrificing spirit with which all were animated who served on sea and land.

Of the little group from Yonkers who entered service in the early days of the war as a division of the New York Naval Militia, many were assigned to duty on interned German vessels after their conversion into army transports. Several of these men met with thrilling experiences as a result of torpedo attacks by enemy submarines.

THE NAVY COMPANY

SURVIVORS OF THE U. S. S. PRESIDENT LINCOLN

On May 31, 1918, the U.S.S. President Lincoln, returning to America from France in company with three other vessels, had emerged in safety from what was considered the most dangerous part of the "war zone." About 9 A.M. almost simultaneous explosions on the port side, at both bow and stern, followed the sighting of the wake of three torpedoes so close on board as to make escape impossible. Seven of the crew were killed by the explosions, and it being evident that the ship was doomed, her crew prepared to abandon ship and take to the boats. With perfect discipline the gun crews stood at their guns till the decks were awash, while the remainder of the ship's company lowered the boats and life rafts as if on exhibition drill. One of the rafts, bearing sixteen men, was drawn into the hole in the ship's side and went down with her, making twenty-six in all who perished.

The remaining vessels of the convoy, in accordance with regulations, steamed as rapidly as possible from the scene of attack, leaving the survivors of the crew of the stricken ship wholly at the mercy of the German submarines, one of which remained in the vicinity for several hours and finally disappeared, taking with her as a prisoner one of the officers, Lieutenant Isaacs. For his heroism on the occasion of the sinking, and in subsequently making his escape from prison with invaluable information, this officer was decorated with the Congressional Medal of Honor. After drifting in the open ocean for over eighteen hours in boats and on rafts, the survivors were rescued and taken back to Brest by the American destroyers Warrington and Smith. Among the survivors were seventeen boys from Yonkers, who reached home safely on furlough on June 13.

The Navy Department concludes its official report of the sinking of the President Lincoln with these words: "The conduct of the men during this time of grave danger was thrilling and inspiring, as a large percentage of them were young boys, who had only been in the Navy for a few months. This is another example of the innate courage and bravery of the young manhood of America."

On the morning of September 5, 1918, army transports U.S.S. Mount Vernon and Agamemnon in convoy, escorted by six destroyers, were homeward bound in smooth seas about 250 miles from the coast of France. Suddenly a periscope appeared above the surface about 500 yards distant and, drawing the instant fire of the Mount Vernon, at once disappeared. Almost simultaneously the wake of a torpedo was observed making straight for the ship, and too close at hand to be avoided. A terrific explosion made it clear that serious, if not fatal, injury had been inflicted. Striking fairly amidships, the torpedo had destroyed four of the eight boiler rooms and flooded the middle section of the ship from side to side for a length of 150 feet. A barrage of depth bombs was instantly dropped and the gun crews stood ready at their guns waiting for the expected reappearance of the enemy, and to guard against a second attack. Subsequent examination showed that the remaining bulkheads were intact, and if they held the ship would remain afloat and could make port under her own steam. The sacrifice of thirty-six men (the entire engine room watch in the destroyed compartments), who cheerfully coöperated in maintaining navy regulations of keeping water-tight doors hermetically closed while at sea (thus tending to localize the effects of injury from submarine attacks, although it ensured the drowning like rats of the entire watch in each damaged compartment), alone saved the ship, the remainder of the ship's company, and about 150 wounded soldiers who were on their way home from the western battle front. Several men from Yonkers met with this thrilling adventure, as members of the crews of both the Mount Vernon and the Agamemnon, and it was merely one of the chances of war that some of them were not included among the heroic thirty-six whose sacrifice saved the ship.

Sailing in August, 1917, for duty in the "danger zone," two of the smallest vessels in foreign service, the U.S.S. Seneca and U.S.S. Ossipee, numbered among their crews several men of Yonkers, who were destined to experience most arduous and perilous service in convoy and patrol duty. Both vessels were based on Gibraltar, and during a period of fifteen months escorted safely through submarine infested waters hundreds of valuable cargo ships from the British Isles to the Mediterranean, and eastward to Italy. Frequently in combat with U-boats which had attacked their convoys, both of these vessels made an extraordinary record for efficiency. The loss in the Bristol Channel of their sister ship, the Tampa, with all on board, constituted the heaviest single casualty sustained by our naval forces during the war. Services rendered by the officers and crew of the Seneca on convoy duty, and their intrepidity on two occasions in effecting rescues in the face of the enemy of survivors from the torpedoed British steamers Cowslip and Queen, were the subject of special citations by the British Admiralty, an honor that fell to the lot of no other single ship.

The gallant conduct of a volunteer crew from the Seneca on the occasion of the torpedoing on September 16, 1918, of the British steamship Wellington, was also the subject of special citation by the British Admiralty and the Navy Department, and reflected great credit upon the service. The following quotation is a brief extract from an official report to the Navy Department by the commander of U.S.S. Warrington in this connection:

"The Wellington, carrying coal to Gibraltar, left Milford Haven with a convoy of about twenty ships in the morning of Friday, September 13. Sunday night the escort of British destroyers left, and the convoy proceeded under ocean escort of U.S.S. Seneca. On the morning of September 16, the Wellington sighted a submarine and immediately afterward was struck by a torpedo forward, and the forehold was quickly flooded. Her crew abandoned the ship and were picked up by U.S.S.

Seneca. First Lieutenant Brown of the Seneca asked and obtained permission to man the Wellington with a volunteer crew and endeavor to bring her into port. A large number of the Seneca's crew volunteered, and eighteen men were chosen. At the same time the master of the Wellington, the first and second mates, and ten of her original crew volunteered to return to their ship with the Seneca's men. Unfortunately one of the life-boats had been cast adrift, which left the volunteer crew with but one lifeboat, two jolly boats, and two life rafts which Lieutenant Brown had constructed on board. An S. O. S. was picked up by the Warrington, operating with a westbound convoy to the south, but the torpedoed ship was not reached until about 3:00 A.M. In the meanwhile a radio from the stricken ship stated that she had stopped, but would go ahead again when the wind moderated. There was a strong gale from the southeast and the sea was rough. Shortly after the Wellington was reached a bulkhead collapsed, and she signaled for immediate assistance, and said her crew were abandoning ship. Immediately afterward we picked up her lifeboat containing first and second mates of Wellington, five of her original crew, and one of the Seneca's volunteer crew. We learned afterward that Wellington's remaining boats had been smashed in lowering, and that their life rafts had fouled and could not be gotten clear of the ship. Accordingly, all the remaining men went down with the ship, or jumped just before she sank. It was very distressing not to be able to do anything at that moment for the men in the water. Our life rafts and buoys were there, with plenty of calcium torches, but we absolutely could not get a boat in the water. When dawn finally broke, we began to see men in the water, some on our rafts and buoys, some on pieces of floating wreckage. Maneuvering amidst the wreckage, life rafts, and buoys, we finally picked up eight men out of the water, one of whom died on board. We had been able to save only half of the entire crew, but careful search for four hours failed to locate any more survivors."

Included among the ten volunteers from the Seneca who so heroically made the supreme sacrifice was one from Yonkers. To all of the Seneca's volunteers on this occasion, the living and the dead, the Navy Cross with Citation was awarded by the President.

The naval statistics at hand are not as full and complete as the Committee would have them be and have used the utmost effort to make them. Enough is known, however, to justify the following brief summary: total number of men in Navy and Coast Guard service, 1,233; in Marine Corps, 71; aggregating 1,304; of whom 12 laid down their lives for God and country.

Of the foregoing 222 were detailed to transport and convoy duty; 55 to naval aviation and bombing; 3 to submarine duty overseas; 27 served overseas on submarine chasers and Eagle boats; and 19 were engaged in mining the North Sea and Adriatic, and in mine sweeping. Of those in the Marine Corps 14 saw service on the western battle front, of whom 5 were casualties, 2 being killed in action.

THE VETERANS' ORGANIZATIONS OF YONKERS

DURING the winter after the signing of the armistice a conference of representatives of the various military units in the American Expeditionary Force was called at Paris for the purpose of forming an organization of veterans of the United States Military and Naval forces in the World War. At this conference the American Legion was formed and at later meetings its organization was perfected. Its membership is open only to men and women who were actually in the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps during the war.

The chief objects of the American Legion are briefly these: to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States and to maintain law and order; to roster 100 per cent Americanism; to preserve and renew the friendships and associations formed in the Great War and to safeguard and transmit to posterity, justice, freedom and democracy.

The first Post to be formed in Yonkers was the Yonkers

Post No. 7, organized in the early spring of 1919. The next was the Cook Post, which is named after Henry Gilbert Cook and George Frederic Cook, two brothers, of Yonkers, who lost their lives in the war.

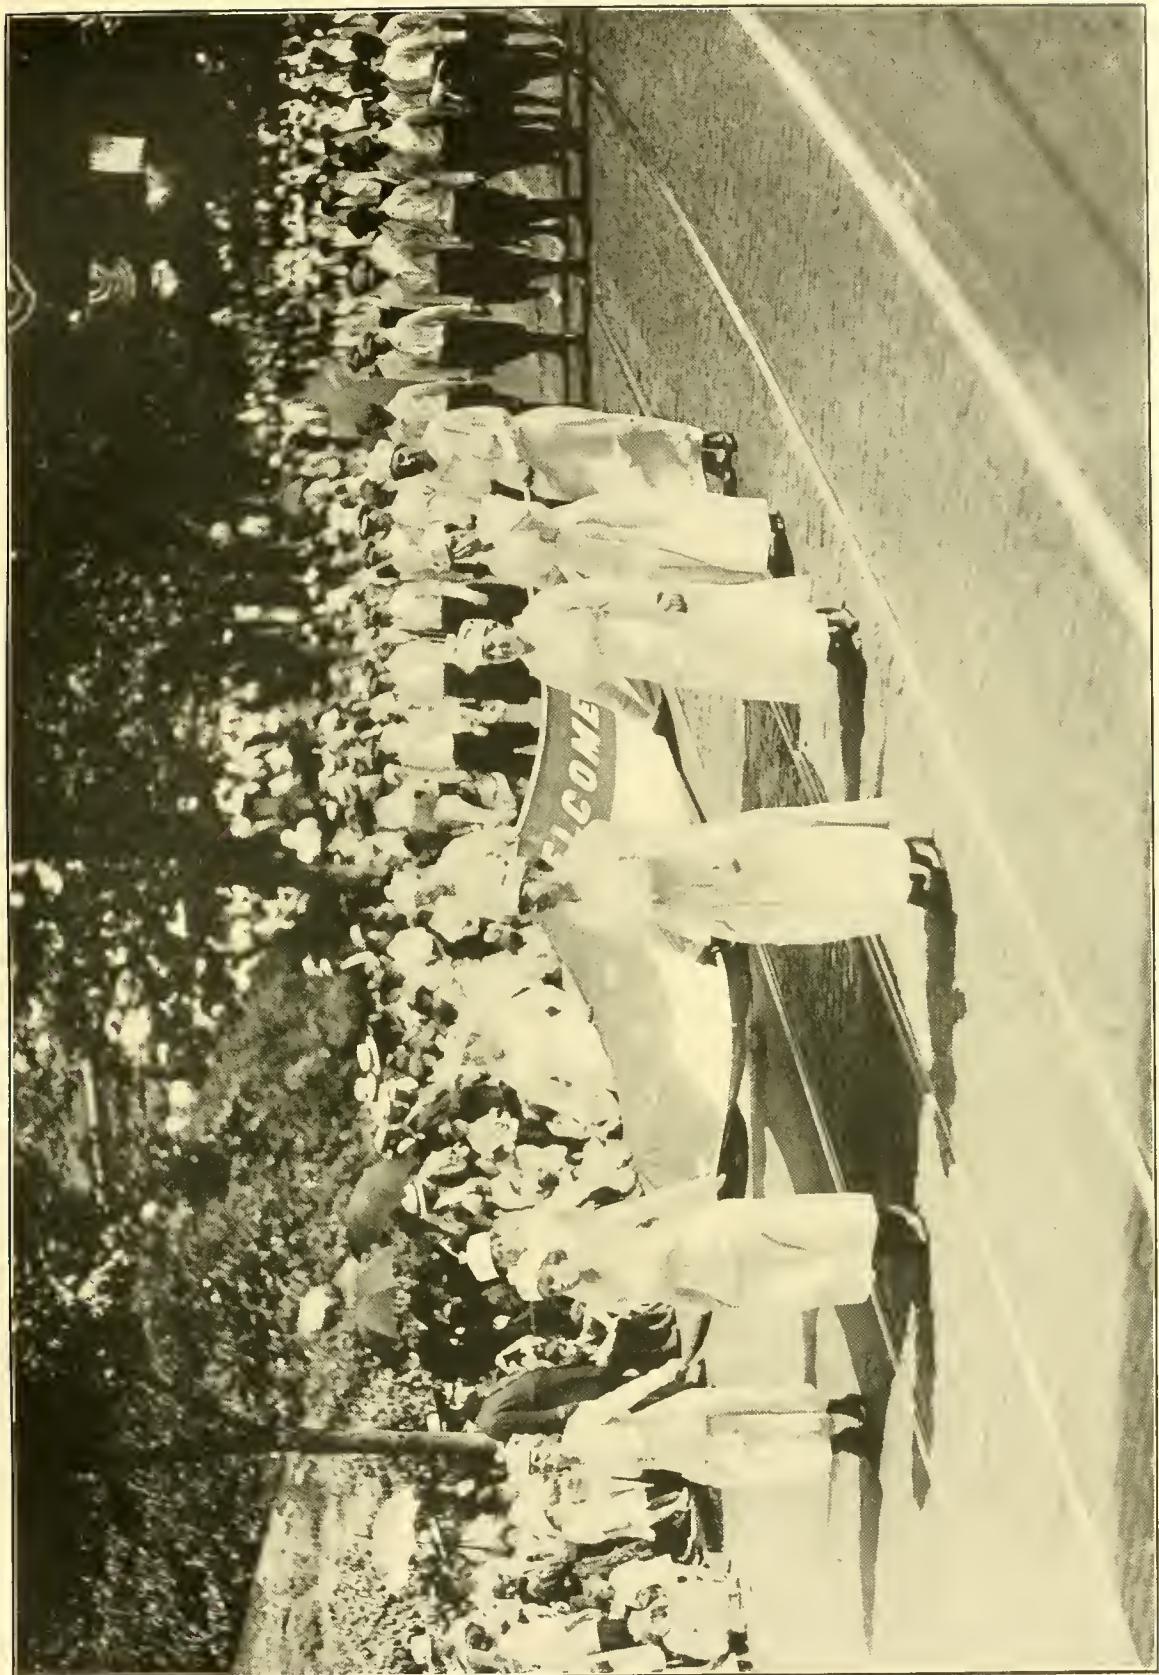

Then came the Alan F. Waite Post No. 299, named in honor of Captain Alan F. Waite of Yonkers, who was killed in action during the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

The Bodenstab-Thomas Post is named after Lieutenant Wilmer Bodenstab and Lieutenant Otis Thomas, both of Yonkers, who were killed in action.

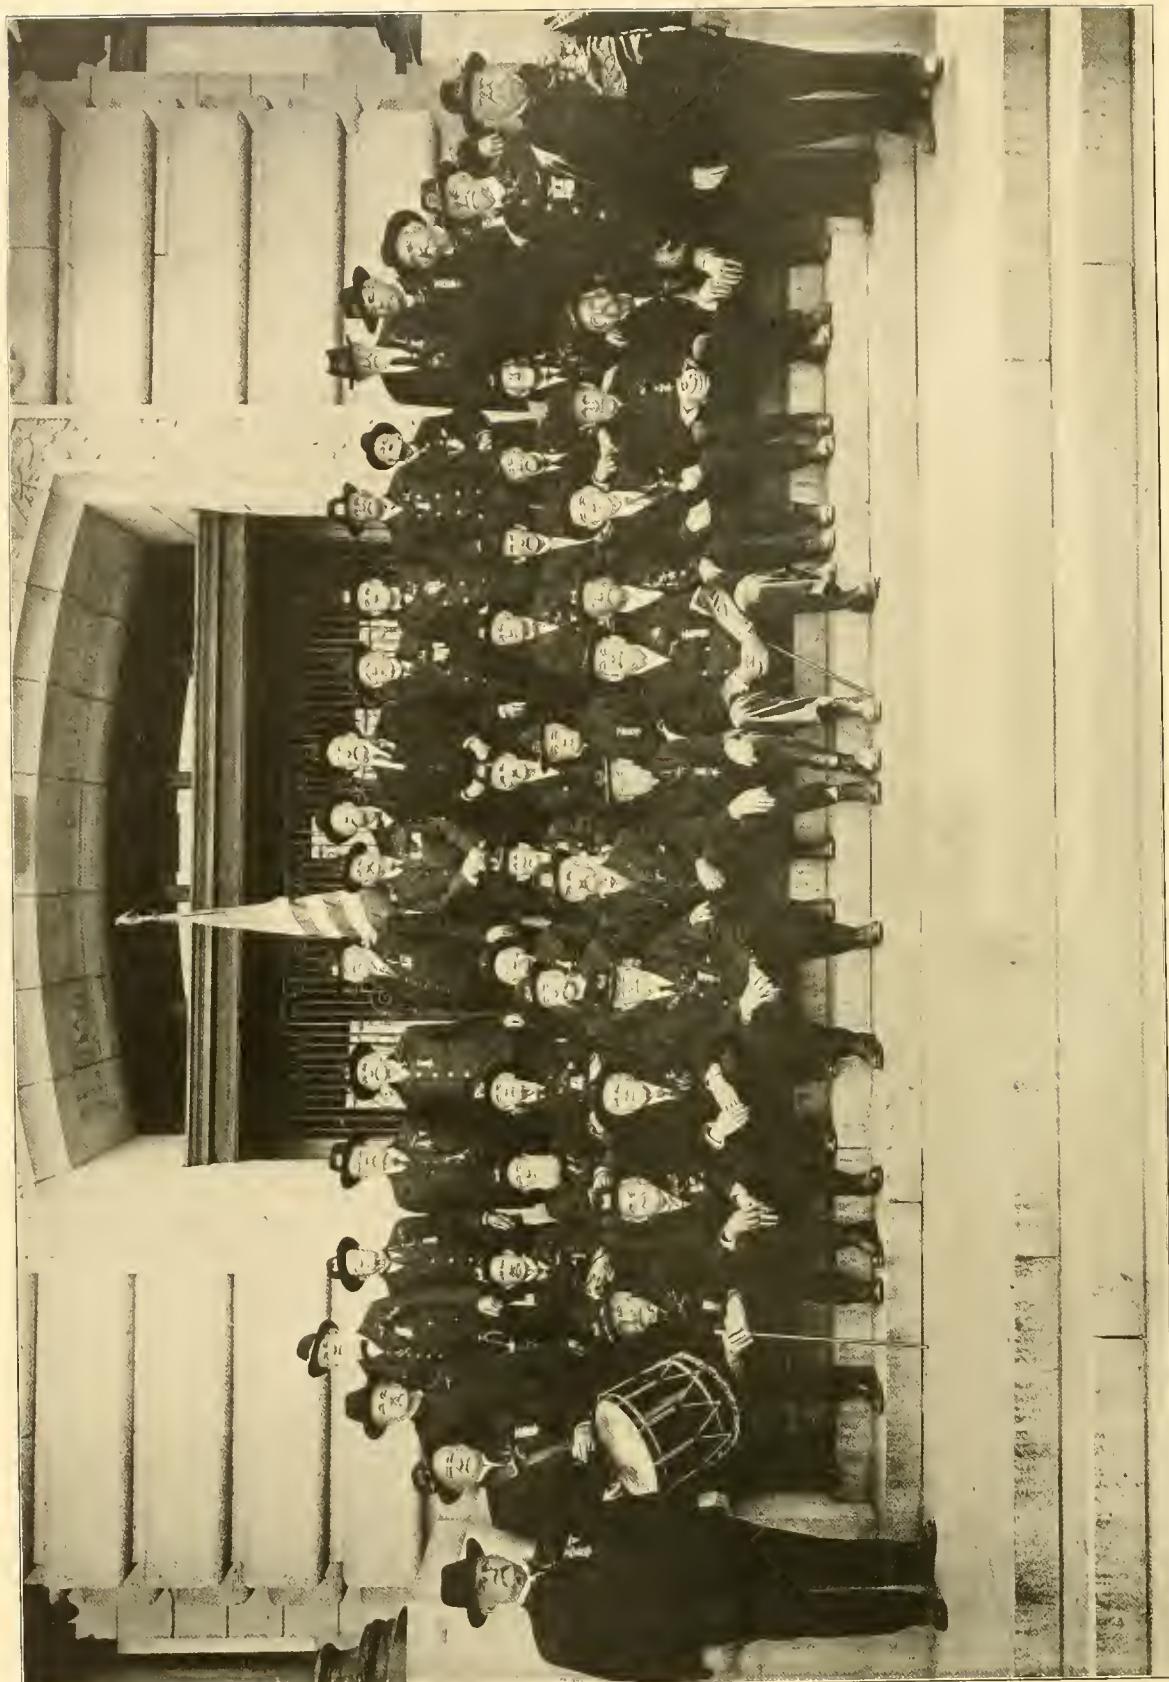

The Crescent Post is largely, although not exclusively, composed of members of the Crescent Club.

The Overseas Veterans, Inc., is an organization made up exclusively of veterans who served overseas, and is a purely local organization.

There are also the two national organizations of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with the Crusaders Post No. 353 and Samuel Dow Post No. 369 located in Yonkers, and the Society of Army and Navy Veterans.

WELCOME HOME

G. A. R. VETERANS OF THE CIVIL WAR

These organizations include veterans of other wars in addition to the World War.

October 4, 1920, these veterans' organizations formed a Central Committee for the City of Yonkers which deals with matters pertaining to the veterans in general. The activities of these organizations acting through the Central have included the giving of advice and assistance to veterans in the matters of insurance, government compensation and vocational training; conducting military funerals for those who died in France and were brought back to this country; helping needy veterans and their families; assisting in the various patriotic ceremonies on holidays, etc.; carrying on Americanization work and various social functions—dances, minstrel shows, clambakes and excursions. The American Legion Posts conduct a bowling league during the winter months which has been very successful from a social viewpoint.

Up to the time of the printing of this book the veterans have been somewhat handicapped by the lack of a suitable building for use as a clubhouse and meeting. The Armory, Young Men's Christian Association building, and various rented rooms and halls are being used at present.

There is no doubt that these organizations constitute a great power for good in the community. They are organized and ready in case of any emergency or crisis. The work of Americanization, the fostering of a patriotic spirit in the youth of the country, and the cherishing of the splendid traditions and ideals of the services of the United States will be of inestimable value to the country, and these things will be carried on as long as the veterans' organizations of the Great War continue to exist.

KITCHING POST NO. 60, GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC

*Coöperated with Spanish War Veterans to Form
Yonkers Regiment*

On February 5, 1917, Kitching Post No. 60, G. A. R., adopted the following resolution:

"We endorse the position taken by President Wilson, in this, the hour of our country's crisis. It behooves us to take some action whereby we may go on record to offer our services to the General Government in any capacity which we old veterans of the Civil War are still capable of filling. Wherefore, resolved, that Kitching Post No. 60, Department of New York, G. A. R., do, and hereby offer their services to the General Government to serve in any capacity to which they may be assigned, by doing such lighter duties which they are still able to perform, such as occupying forts or armories, or performing other minor duties, thereby releasing men who are liable to be called upon for regular service."

The Post appropriated ten dollars on March 19 of the same year, to start the fund to form the First Yonkers Regiment. To this end, there were appointed four men of Kitching Post and four from the Spanish American War Veterans.

About 600 men were enrolled in the Regiment. Drills were held in McCann's and other halls, on Shonts Field, near North Yonkers. When war was declared, nearly all the men in the Regiment went into the service. Captain Stilwell of West Point was in charge.

On February 4, 1918, the Post appointed a committee to see the Mayor, relative to having a flag pole erected on the drill field. The Post always provided small flags for departing contingents of service men, and furnished them an escort of honor from the City Hall to the point of entrainment. On February 18 St. Joseph's Church invited the Post to be present at a service flag raising at the church. The Post attended on that occasion February 22, and fired a volley.

During the Fourth of July celebration of 1918, the Post marched in parade, and acted as Guard of Honor at the grandstand.

A most important phase of the Post's war activities was the furnishing of flowers and flag markers for the graves of World War veterans during the Memorial Days of 1917 and 1918. This work has been continued to the present.

Officers of the Post During the War: Augustus Kipp, Commander; John J. Kronin, S. V. Commander; Fred Gugel, J. V. Commander; Edward J. Mitchell, Adjutant; George W. Chamberlain, Quartermaster; Thomas Olivier, Surgeon; John H. Rein, Officer of the Day; Austin Tiel, Officer of the Guard; George A. Mitchell, Quartermaster Sergeant; Jere S. Clark, Sergeant Major; John F. Brower, Patriotic Instructor.

Officers of Memorial Committee—1917-1919: John C. Shotts, Chairman; Edward J. Mitchell, Secretary; George W. Chamberlain, Treasurer.

Committee on Yonkers Regiment: John C. Shotts, Edward J. Mitchell, Augustus Kipp, George R. Henderson.

REPORT OF THE YONKERS MAYOR'S COMMITTEE ON RECEPTION OF RETURNING SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Hon. WILLIAM J. WALLIN Mayor of Yonkers:

SIR, on behalf of the Yonkers Mayor's Committee on Reception of Returning Soldiers and Sailors, I beg respectfully to present this report of organization and activities.

Your appointment of Chairman was made in pursuance of conference requested under date of November 20, 1918. In accord with your views a Committee of more than two hundred was named from the citizens of Yonkers and a call was issued by the Mayor for a meeting of that Committee in the Court Room, City Hall, Yonkers, on the evening of December 23, 1918.

In response to the call a goodly and enthusiastic gathering of representative citizens convened, and the purposes of the Committee were outlined by yourself.

It will always be a matter of gratification to me to reflect upon the whole-hearted and resourceful assistance which was rendered by those assembled in organizing and mapping out the scope of activities of the Committee.

We were able to announce at the close of the meeting the following program of action:

1. To have a letter of welcome prepared and sent to each one of the returning soldiers on their registration at the Red Cross.
2. Arrangements for proper entertainments and, perhaps, banquets once a month by the full Committee to the boys, in the Armory or some other special place to be designated.
3. A special Memorial Service to be prepared for the Yonkers boys who lost their lives in this War, from whatever cause, during their service.
4. The arrangement of a pageant for all the boys as a glorious climax of the City's welcome at a time when all have returned to Yonkers, at which time a special medal or parchment shall be presented to each and every man that it may be a keepsake to pass on to his children, and to prove that Yonkers has shown its appreciation to the boys and their service.

It was gratifying to all to have an announcement made that the expenses of the Committee would be met from a fund in the hands of the Mayor.

In a manner which will always reflect credit to the members of the committees they organized their work with pleasing promptness and satisfactory results.

The needed coöperation of all the Yonkers newspapers was readily and beneficially extended, and I take this occasion to record the appreciation of your Committee.

The program of action as originally adopted (and as herein recorded) was followed with exactness and was productive of good results. I file herewith a copy of the Certificate of Welcome delivered to thousands of the returned boys. I also file herewith copy of the Memorial Certificate delivered to the nearest of kin of those boys who lost their lives in the service. I also file literature used by the Committee in its work incident to the issuing of these certificates.

The Committee on Pageant and Parade arranged a series of events for June 14, 1919, which were carried to a conclusion to the great credit of the City and have been referred to as the most successful in the history of the City. A detailed report by the Chairman accompanies this report.

The Committee on Memorial Ceremonies conducted a meeting at the Armory on Sunday, June 29, 1919, in a manner which will long be remembered. More than two thousand persons assembled in solemn tribute to the men who died in the service of their country in the World War. A program of these ceremonies and report of Committee is furnished as part of this report.

Under the direction of Committee on Entertainment citizens of Yonkers met in the Armory with several hundred of the boys who had returned from service and enjoyed an evening of entertainment which was voted by all a most enjoyable affair. The occasion of this entertainment was to celebrate Armistice Day (November 11, 1919) and to complete the activities for which the Committee was created.

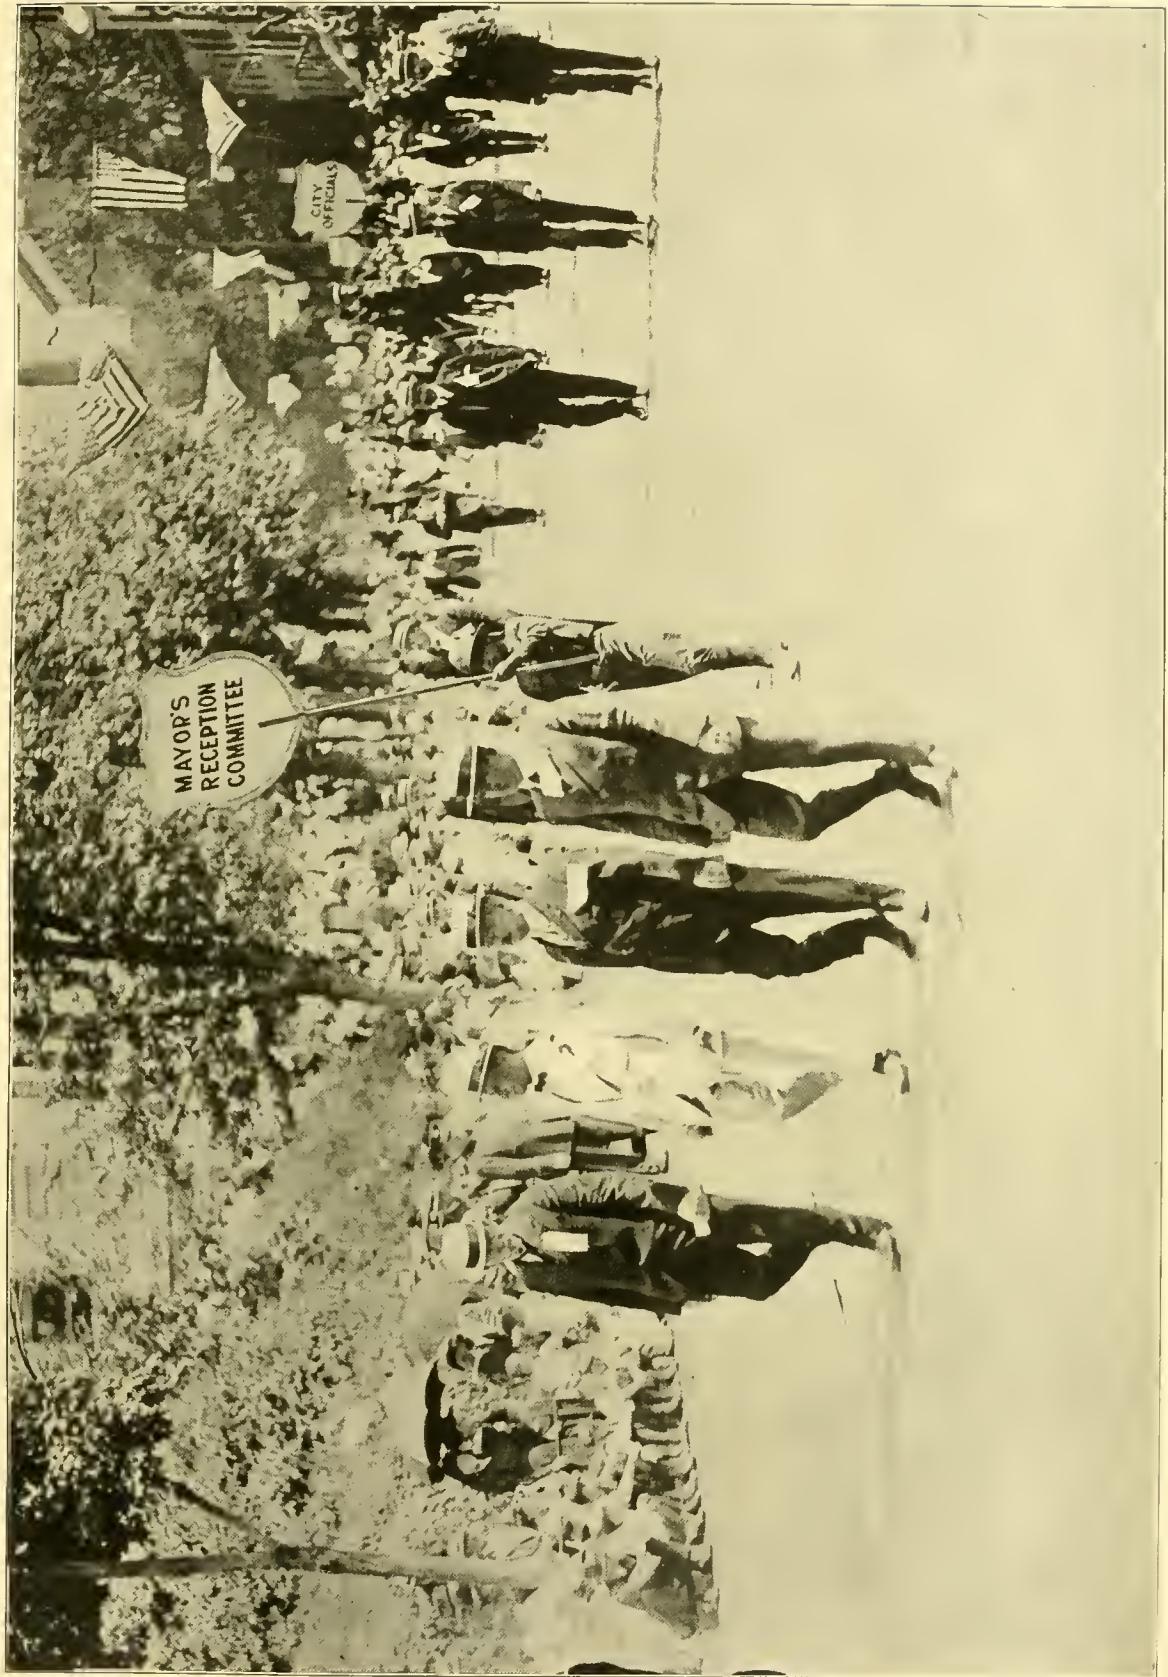

I take occasion to express my thanks and appreciation for the generous assistance which was given by all other committees engaged in furnishing the necessary collateral support to the main functions. Reports of various committees are attached to this report; also a file of literature used in the work of the Committee.

I recognize the incompleteness with which any report must deal with the assistance so unselfishly rendered by many of the members of the Committee. Men and women prominent in the activities of the War, and in the life of Yonkers gave unsparingly of their time and talents to make the functions of the Committee a success.

The officers and members of the Committee count the opportunity they had to be of service to the City of Yonkers a privilege for which they are thankful, and are hopeful that their efforts have served to record the City as duly appreciative of the great service rendered by its boys in assisting their comrades to bring to a conclusion a conflict which we trust will mean a better Country and a more livable World.

Respectfully,

EDWIN STANTON GEORGE,
Chairman.

WHAT YONKERS CITIZENS DID AT HOME WHILE THE CITY'S SONS WERE AT WAR

YONKERS OVER-SUBSCRIBED EVERY DRIVE QUOTA

IN THE various war drives to which all loyal citizens of the United States enthusiastically subscribed, Yonkers furnished a total of $19,255,225. Of this amount $18,680,450 was subscribed for the five Liberty Loans and the War Savings Stamps Campaign, while the other $564,775 was raised in the remaining major drives of the war period.

The citizens of Yonkers subscribed individually, and by organizations representing all classes of civic, religious, commercial and industrial bodies. The number of subscribers to the Fourth Liberty Loan in September, 1918, was 26,730, which indicates the loyal interest displayed.

There were, before our country entered the war, any number of smaller campaigns for various welfare activities. Among them was the Y. M. C. A. drive, in which $25,000 was raised; the War Camp Community Service, $3,500; the Salvation Army Campaign in which $2,000 was raised; and the Y. M. C. A., $2,500. These moneys, totalling $33,000, were raised without the assistance of the organized and widespread publicity that attended the major campaigns.

THE INNER LINE OF DEFENSE

THE FOUR MINUTE MEN OF THE CITY OF YONKERS

THE YONKERS FOUR MINUTE MEN were organized in November, 1917, the time of the Second Liberty Loan drive. This movement originated in Chicago at the outbreak of the war, and was made national in character, as an auxiliary to the United States Committee on National Safety.

The activities were promoted by the Subcommittee on Public Information appointed by the President. Nearly every state in the Union organized a central body with headquarters to promote Minute Men organizations. The state worked through various county organizations and thus the Yonkers group became a subdivision of the Westchester County Committee on Public Safety.

The duty of the Four Minute Men was to make known to the citizens and the populace the causes of the war, and the needs of the country to prosecute it; to arouse patriotism, to aid by public utterances and addresses all movements that supported the cause of freedom and righteousness; and to stamp out sedition and disloyalty to the United States. The addresses were not to exceed four minutes unless specially arranged.

There were but seven men to begin with this important work in Yonkers. Later, this number was increased until the band numbered close to sixty.

Those selected represented the business man, the lawyer, the doctor and the clergy, irrespective of politics or religion. During the war, social and business meetings were held monthly, and oftener as occasion required. The information was received in pamphlet form from the Bureau of Information in Washington, and distributed through the local chairman semi-weekly. The list of topics included:

Universal Service by Selective Draft, First Liberty Loan, Food Conservation, Red Cross, Organization, Why We Are Fighting, The Nation in Arms, The Importance of Speed, What Our Enemy Really Is, Unmasking German Propaganda, Onward to Victory, Second Liberty Loan, Maintaining Morals and Morale, Carrying the Message, War Savings Stamps, The Shipbuilder, Eyes for the Navy, The Danger to Democracy, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, The Income Tax, Farm and Garden, President Wilson's Letter to Theatres, Third Liberty Loan, Second Red Cross Campaign, Second War Savings Campaign, The Meaning of America, Mobilizing America's Man Power, Where Did You Get Your Facts? Certificates to Theatre Members, Register, Four Minute Singing, Fourth Liberty Loan, Food Program for 1919, Fire Prevention, United War Work Campaign, Red Cross Home Service, What Have We Won? Red Cross Christmas Roll Call, A Tribute to the Allies.

The work of the chairman also included the distribution of literature on the war and war work, to the entire clergy of the city, to the Sunday School superintendents, to the fraternal bodies and civic organizations.

The speakers were assigned to the various theatres, clubs, churches, civic and fraternal gatherings of the city. Where a projecting lantern was used, the speaker had with him a slide, which announced him on the screen, and also served as his identification card. All schedules and speakers were arranged for by the local chairman. Many special requests were received for particular speakers, and these were met as far as possible. Addresses were also made in foreign languages, principally Italian. A small number of the speakers were able to speak in other foreign languages. Much effective work was accomplished in these talks to foreigners.

YONKERS BRANCH

YONKERS BRANCH, American Red Cross, one of the original three branches of the Westchester County Chapter, began its war activities in March, 1916. Its membership then was 126 persons. At the time of the armistice it had increased to 15,358.

During the war, fifty-six auxiliaries were established with approximately 3,800 active workers, who turned out, in the entire period of operation, about 1,400,000 surgical dressings, hospital garments for the wounded, refugee garments for the French, Belgians and Serbs, and woolen and knitted articles for soldiers and sailors. These workers also engaged in canteen work, in reclaiming and mending the uniforms and clothing of the soldiers, in the operations of the motor corps, and in several minor activities.

The first home of the Yonkers Branch was in the building at 29 South Broadway, placed at its disposal by the Y. W. C. A. The work of the branch soon outgrew these accommodations, and in January, 1918, the right to use Manor Hall as a headquarters was granted by the trustees of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society.

One of the most important Red Cross activities at home was that of the canteen. This was begun April 11, 1918, at 29 South Broadway, and was open all day, every day up to September 24, 1918. It took care in all of 7,675 men. Cost price was charged for food, each portion being five cents, with one or two exceptions of ten cents. Cigarettes and writing paper were furnished free.

The Red Cross Canteen was asked to run the "mess" for the 233 soldiers sent to take the intensive training at the Saunders Trades School for July and August, 1918. By the courtesy of the Y. W. C. A. the Canteen secured the use of the large club room in the Association building. This was a bright, cool room with an entrance from the street, and was situated directly opposite the High School, where the men were quartered, and so made a most convenient arrangement for the soldiers. Tables for use in the mess hall were loaned by the Elks, the Odd Fellows and by the Y. W. C. A. Chairs were loaned by the High School. Some china and silver were loaned by the Odd Fellows, but the rest of the equipment was bought by the Canteen from the funds paid by the Government for this purpose. The Canteen hired two cooks and three dishwashers, but the rest of the service was given by the Canteen women. There were forty women a day on duty. This, of course, covered the three meals. The Sunday night suppers were served by the ladies from the different churches in Yonkers, and were attended by all the men who had remained in Yonkers for the week-ends. The ladies always planned an entertainment for the men on these nights and it was much appreciated. Ladies from the canteens in Pelham, Mamaroneck, Ardsley and Dobbs Ferry assisted Yonkers Canteen in this work.

A sample day's menu (July 19) consisted of: Breakfast — Oatmeal or Force, beef hash, coffee, bread and butter. Dinner — Fried butterfish, stewed tomatoes, potatoes, chocolate pudding, bread and butter and coffee. Supper — Pork and beans, bread and butter, iced tea, apricots or prunes, or bananas.

Average cost per day for food per man was 51 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents.

RED CROSS CONTRIBUTION

THE RED CROSS—YONKERS BRANCH

The Red Cross Canteen was able to equip the Canteen and serve the men for less money than the Army allowance, because so much of the equipment was loaned to the Canteen, and then on many occasions the ladies in the Canteen provided the desserts for the dinner or supper, thus saving the expense of buying the dessert.

When the men left for their various camps the Canteen put up rations for the two hundred who were going to distant camps. One thousand one hundred and ninety-seven lunches were put up for the men. These lunches contained cans of beans, corned beef, sardines, cheese, sliced ham, sliced tongue, crackers, sandwiches, jars of jelly, apples, pears, peaches, as well as paper plates, cups, spoons, a can opener and a package of cigarettes.

The Canteen turned over to the local Red Cross over a thousand dollars for its use. The Red Cross Canteen lent all of its equipment to the next contingent of men stationed at the Armory doing the same training at the Trades School for September and October.

A canteen was also maintained at Bryn Mawr Park for nearly a year. An average of about thirty-five men a day, all soldiers guarding the Aqueduct, made use of this canteen, which was run in the same way as the one on South Broadway.

The Civilian Relief for 1918-1919 included an emergency diet kitchen from October 22 to November 9 inclusive. This diet kitchen was opened during the influenza epidemic of 1918, for the benefit of those recovering from the disease. One hundred and eight families were served. Four hundred and seven Christmas stockings were filled for children of service men, and for nurses at Fort Slocum. Jellies, books, games and comforts were collected and forwarded to the United States hospitals at East View and at Gun Hill Road.

The Junior Red Cross was organized in the schools of the city under special sanction of the Board of Education, Chairman, Mr. W. R. Williams. 15,442 pupils were enrolled, and 13,197 articles were made up to January, 1919. All the schools of the city, the high school, trades school and the twenty-two elementary schools were members of the organization, and the children were actively engaged in various forms of Red Cross work. Practically all the activities in the sewing classes in schools were given over to making garments and other kinds of supplies and materials required by the Yonkers Branch. At the close of the war, the Junior Red Cross disbanded, and turned over to the treasury of the Branch $964.54. In the Saunders Trades School the number of garments from June 18, 1917, to October 1, 1917, totalled 17,695.

Classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick and First Aid were maintained at intervals from February, 1917 on. Up to January, 1920, three hundred and ninety women were enrolled in the Home Hygiene classes and about one hundred men and women in the First Aid classes. The three chairmen during the years 1917, 1918 and 1919 were Mrs. Lawson Sandford, Mrs. A. D. Gilmore and Mrs. W. M. Taussig.

The Home Service Section was organized in Yonkers in May, 1917, with Mrs. B. C. Lyon as volunteer executive secretary. She served until September of that year, when a paid secretary was appointed. In April, 1918, the Home Service work was taken over by the County Chapter, with the general office at White Plains, and a branch office in Yonkers. From July, 1917, to January, 1920, $14,540.28 was expended in relief for the families of Yonkers men. Of this amount, $4,389.24 was refunded by organizations or individuals.

Yonkers raised $68,503.37 in the First Red Cross drive and $140,192.45 in the second drive. The Yonkers Branch received twelve per cent of this money. The total receipts of the Yonkers Red Cross for the three and one-half years ending September 30, 1919, was $66,348.67.

The payments for the same period were as follows:

For maintenance, including labor, wages, telephone repairs, light, postage and stationery.....		$4,362.08
Materials, surgical dressings, wool, etc.....		46,341.82
Special payments, civilian and military relief.....		3,975.71
Shipping expense.....		1,249.81
Total expenditures.....		$55,829.42

The auxiliaries raised funds for their own maintenance, and from time to time made donations to the Branch. The Yonkers Red Cross had but one paid worker, and the payments for labor and wages did not amount to two per cent of the entire receipts. About seventy-five per cent of the receipts was expended in military relief and refugee and hospital garments.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE SERVICE RENDERED
BY THE LOCAL YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION DURING THE WORLD WAR

YONKERS, NEW YORK

THE formal opening of our new building took place during the first week in February, 1917. War was declared April 6, 1917. Thus we had just become adjusted to our new home when the work of mobilization began. Immediately our boys began to respond to the call of our country by enlisting in the various branches of the service. Even before the call came, a number of our splendid young men joined the 32d Regiment Coast Artillery, and were among the first to sail away for France, and from that time on, not a week passed that some of our members did not join in the great conflict to do their bit, until nearly three hundred stars were on our Service Flag, eight of which are covered with gold, representing our members who gave their lives in our country's service.

Y. M. C. A. HUT

During the summer of 1917, we were given the unusual opportunity of sharing our beautiful new building with the seven thousand enlisted men temporarily encamped at Van Cortlandt Park, and with the Navy boys off the ships on the harbor and river, who visited Yonkers so frequently. Day after day, and week after week, these fine young fellows made use of our showers and swimming pool to the number of 500 daily, and on one day, by actual count, 627. After the showers and swim, our lobby, reading-room and writing-room proved popular places. Writing home to mother seemed to be the pleasant duty of many. During the evening a social program, including motion pictures, music and games, was arranged, and on several occasions a strong, timely address with a virile message was given.

All during the war, soldiers and sailors made free use of our building, night and day. When the beds were filled, they slept in our big easy chairs, and on cots and mats in our gymnasium. Their uniform was their ticket, and all of our members who were engaged in the war were carried on our membership rolls free of charge.

One of the contributions that the local Association made towards the winning of the war, worthy of special mention, was the giving up of five members of our Association staff, three of whom went overseas; and, in coöperation with the National War Work Council, our local Association recommended thirty-eight men and women workers for the "Red Triangle" service, all of whom made good and several of whom rendered notable service.

During the period of the draft, a series of informal receptions were given to men joining the National Army. The night before they were leaving for Camp Upton, the men were invited to come to our building and enjoy the privileges for the evening. Refreshments were served with a social program, and a letter of introduction to the Camp Secretary was given to each man, and the General Secretary marched with the men from City Hall to the train.

The local Association was actively identified with all the national campaigns and drives, Liberty Loan, War Savings Stamp, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Welfare Relief Campaign, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Navy League and United War Work drives. In fact, the Association was engaged in all sorts of public and patriotic services and occupied the position of leadership in many of the big war work campaigns.

All Yonkers was full of anxiety when the news came of the sinking of the U.S.S. President Lincoln, but was glad and grateful when it became known that the eighteen Yonkers boys of the crew were saved. These young survivors made the "Y" their headquarters during their furlough, following the sinking of the ship, and were presented with membership tickets and shown many courtesies and given every consideration. While in Yonkers they rendered notable service in the War Saving Stamp campaign, which was in progress at that time.

Their appeal for funds from platforms and pulpits and factory meetings was most affective. All Yonkers treated them royally.

As the boys were coming back from overseas and from cantonments the Association gave a three months' complimentary membership ticket, which included the privileges of our employment bureau, and literally hundreds were assisted to positions, and helped to adjust themselves to peace conditions.

The Association was well represented on the Yonkers Mayor's Committee on Reception of Returning Soldiers and Sailors. In fact, the chairman, secretary and treasurer of the Committee were members of the Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors, as, also, were five of the vice-presidents, and the General Secretary was chairman of the Hospitality Committee. In the Victory Parade, the 14th of June, the chairman of the parade, the grand marshal of the parade and the marshal of the Fourth Division and the commander of the overseas men were all Association men.

The Woman's Auxiliary, Mrs. W. A. Edwards, President, gave the Association splendid coöperation in all its war activities; in all the many receptions given the soldiers and sailors at the Association building these good women were present and served refreshments and helped to make pleasant the social hour. They were also busy with their needles and presented knitted garments to the Association members, as they pulled away to war.

During the period of demobilization the Association gave numerous open-house receptions to the boys on their return, and since the war a strong program of Americanization has been carried on by the Association, seeking to extend the patriotic war spirit into patriotic peace endeavor.

With the return of the boys, a number of the World War veterans, including many of our own members, organized Cook Post of the American Legion, named in memory of George Frederick Cook and Gilbert Cook, brothers, and members of our Association. The membership in this Post, which meets regularly in our building, is open to all ex-service men in the city, and over three hundred very soon enrolled.

The Association has placed a bronze tablet in the vestibule of the building in honor and in memory of the eight members of the Association who made the supreme sacrifice.

WAR WORK OF THE SALVATION ARMY IN YONKERS

THE SALVATION ARMY in Yonkers immediately entered into its various war duties at the President's call to arms. Two Yonkers women who had lived and worked with the Salvation Army in this city, Captain Hannah Schofield and Mamie Sylsbury, spent many months with the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Two members of the Salvation Army volunteered for service, one in the United States Army and the other in the Canadian Engineers.

One of the first tasks of the Salvation Army throughout the country was to organize a war service league. The Yonkers branch organized a very strong league, which knitted hundreds of sweaters for soldiers.

The officers of the Salvation Army paid periodical visits to the families of the men who had gone to the front. At Christmas time fifty-five needy families whose relatives were in the army and whose names had been obtained through the Red Cross, received baskets of provisions, and five hundred children of soldiers were given toys, candy and clothing at a gala Christmas entertainment each year during the war period.

Commander Evangeline Booth sent letters of condolence to every family whose near kin had paid the supreme sacrifice. The officer in charge of the Yonkers work, Adjutant Nathan, was appointed a member of the Welcome Home Committee. He was chairman of the Yonkers Memorial Service Committee. In the big Welcome Home Parade on June 14, 1919, the Salvation Army was an important unit.

During the Liberty Loan drives, Adjutant Nathan served as a Four Minute Man. He spoke in various theatres, schools and factory buildings, and as a member of the Flying Squadron sold many thousands of dollars of bonds. The chairman of the Fifth Liberty Loan drive appointed a special Salvation Army Day, when a band from New York City and Miss Irene McIntyre, who had served in France, participated. $18,000 worth of Liberty Bonds was sold.

When the service men returned, the Salvation Army placed hundreds of them in positions, and helped many of them with transportation charges. Some of the families of returning soldiers had a bitter struggle for a time to make ends meet, and in many cases these appealed to the Salvation Army for help. Where investigation justified it, aid was always given. In all of its work the Salvation Army coöperated closely with the Yonkers branch of the American Red Cross.

LA RABIDA COUNCIL, KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

LA RABIDA COUNCIL of the Knights of Columbus was organized on Sunday, May 3, 1896. The plans of its organization were made in the office of the Honorable Francis X. Donoghue, at 45 Warburton Avenue. At the time of its institution it had fifty-six members, including all the prominent Catholics of Yonkers at that time.

The first Knight of Columbus north of the Harlem River was the late John T. McKenna, who was a member of La Rabida Council. It was through his work and influence upon Judge Donoghue that the Council was founded. Although a small council then, it is to-day one of the largest and most influential, with a membership of over two thousand men. One of the prime movers in establishing the Council was the first chaplain, the late Right Rev. Mgr. Charles R. Corley, pastor of St. Mary's Church.

The name La Rabida was given to the Council by the late Brother Patrick Reardon. Much interest has been shown in the meaning of La Rabida. La Rabida is a Franciscan convent near Palos, Spain, which was restored in 1855. It was at this convent that Christopher Columbus stopped on his journey to seek assistance in his plans; and through the interest which his conversation aroused in the Prior, his purpose was brought to the notice of Queen Isabella, and the trip of Columbus across the Atlantic was made possible.

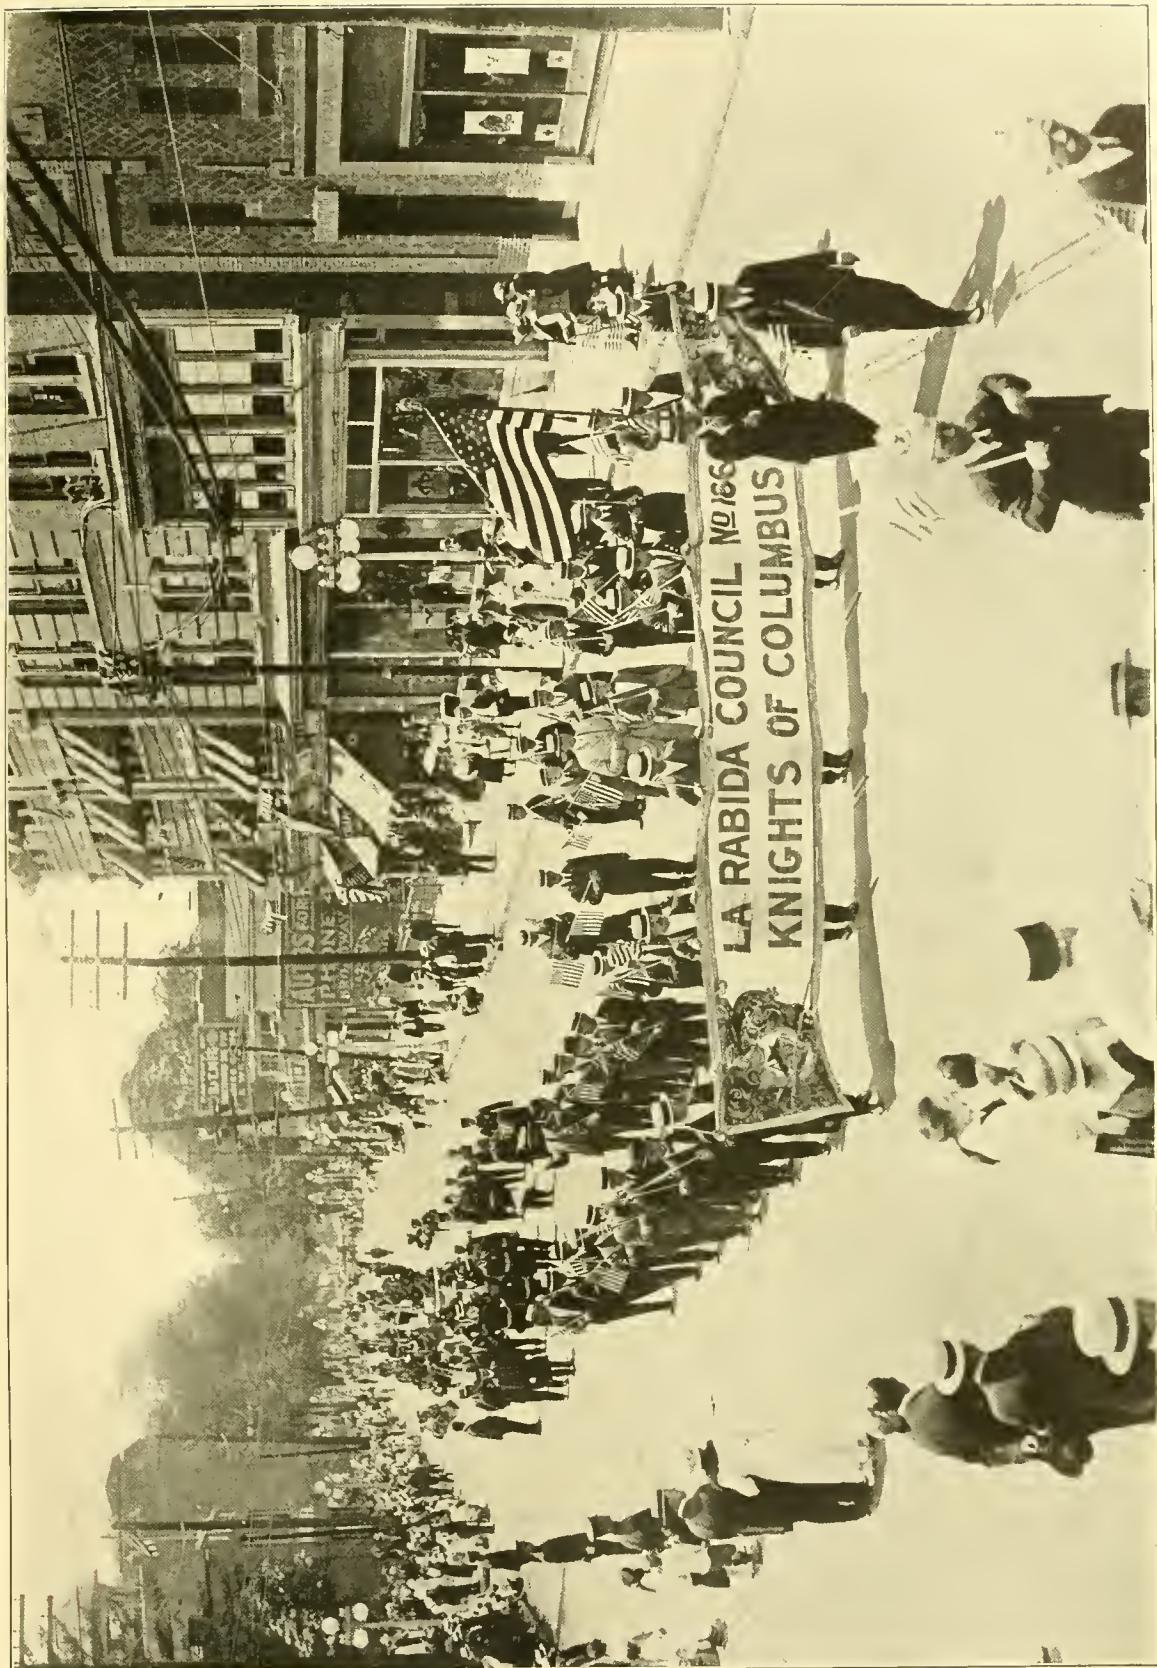

The Council as a whole has been a great factor in good American citizenship. It has selected the highest type of men to fight the evils of socialism, bolshevism and anarchy. It at all times answered every call that the Government made upon it and in the Liberty Loans won high honors in its sales of bonds. During the war it played a prominent part in the success of the Army and Navy.

When troops were stationed at Van Cortlandt Park ready for trouble at the Mexican border, the local Council immediately opened a recreation camp for the entertainment of these men. During the World War, when men were stationed at the Saunders Trades school, receiving instruction, the Council secured the hut at Saint Denis' Auditorium in Lawrence Street through the courtesy of Father Hughes, and housed these men. It provided weekly entertainments for the soldiers at Holy Rosary Social Center on Lamartine Avenue, gave sight-seeing automobile rides, and did everything in its power to make the men feel at home.

It established an Employment and Information Bureau at 72 Warburton Avenue, open to the public at all times. It maintained a hut at the same place, which had all conveniences for men in uniform—pool, billiard and card tables, shuffle board, player piano, and reading room. The motto was, "Everybody Welcome, Everything Free."

After the armistice was signed the Council still played a prominent part in welcoming soldiers home, the hut being open to them with the same privileges as during the war. It then established an automobile mechanics' school on South Broadway and St. Mary's Street, and an academic school at Holy Rosary. Ex-service men were taught bookkeeping, accounting, stenography, typewriting, mechanical drawing, English, arithmetic and advanced mathematics. In the two schools over one thousand men were registered.

The day of the Welcome Home Parade in Yonkers, two hundred wounded men were the guests of the Knights of Columbus. They were brought in automobiles from Eastview Hospital, and given seats on the Waring Lawns, South Broadway, to review the parade. After the parade they were taken to the hut on Warburton Avenue and given a course dinner.

At all times during the activities of the Knights of Columbus their one ambition and desire was to take care of men in the service of their country. They are now arranging to erect a memorial hut in honor of those who answered the call.

In 1906 the Council secured the Cornell property at 72 Warburton Avenue for their club. They are using this site pending the completion of the new building at the corner of South Broadway and St. Mary's Street.

WAR CAMP COMMUNITY SERVICE WORK IN YONKERS

WAR CAMP COMMUNITY SERVICE WORK in Yonkers was organized in the fall of 1918 to provide entertainment for a machine gun company stationed in the city and for the technical students at the Yonkers Trade School. Contributing clubs had been organized, and with them War Camp Community Service carried on some interesting activities.

As the service men were gradually withdrawn from the city, there arose an even greater need for the sort of assistance War Camp Community Service could render. Yonkers' own boys were coming back from the World War. They were finding, as were returning service men the country over, that it was difficult to adjust themselves to the old life. Many of them were out of jobs — all of them needed wholesome recreation to help them in passing through this most trying period. A splendid War Camp Community Service committee of Yonkers citizens was organized, and the national headquarters of War Camp Community Service supplied workers.

The Mayor appointed War Camp Community Service the clearing house for providing information for service men. An Information and Service Bureau was opened at Hollywood Inn. Scores of men in uniform sought it daily, directed by the Yonkers police or by the posters and window cards which had been distributed in all parts of the city. Providing jobs was the principal work of the Bureau. Hundreds of local men were placed.

Such a real personal interest was taken in each of the boys that there were frequent visits from boys who had been helped to jobs and from their mothers for the purpose of expressing their whole-hearted thanks. The U.S. Employment Agency of the district, with which War Camp Community Service closely coöperated, acknowledged the fine work being done and said that practically all the cases of employing service men in Yonkers were being handled through War Camp Community Service. A committee was formed to canvass the city for work for soldiers and sailors. Another branch of the activities of the Information and Service Bureau was providing home hospitality for men in hospitals.

Through the Information and Service Bureau it was learned that the boys felt the need of dances. The first experimental dance was a huge success. It was almost a veterans' reunion. There were twice as many men as girls, but the men were so happy to be together again that they formed in little groups about the floor and did not mind the lack of partners. The dances became a weekly institution at the Red Circle Club in Getty Square, which was the scene of many parties and gay "get-together" occasions. The newly formed American Legion held its meetings at the club.

Not the least of the activities fostered by War Camp Community Service was the girls' work. Yonkers, girls in industry needed almost as much as did her returning soldiers to have their leisure time constructively and interestingly occupied during the difficult after-war period. In 1918 groups of girls from various factories had been organized, and War Camp Community Service expanded this work so that over six hundred girls were finally enrolled in the Community Service League. The opening of a community center in a building opposite the carpet factory, owned by the Presbyterian Church, provided a meeting place. Classes in gymnastics, music, dramatics and domestic science, as well as hikes, picnics and social gatherings, helped to give these girls wholesome interests outside of their working hours. They danced with service men at War Camp's supervised dances and they assisted in bringing cheer to convalescent soldiers. The employers recognized the value of this work. As a tribute to it, the National Sugar Refinery, in July, 1919, presented the Girls' Division with an American flag, which they, in an impressive community ceremony, turned over to the city.

War Camp Community Service played a large part in Yonkers' special celebrations, directing the mass singing which was so effective a way of expressing community spirit on these occasions. The municipal Christmas activities in 1918 were put entirely under the direction of War Camp Community Service by the Mayor. Many Yonkers residents will remember the community singing at the Eighth Ward Welcome Home Celebration, in June, 1919, when the band from the U.S.S. Idaho played, and the words of popular songs were thrown on a screen.

YONKERS IN THE WORLD WAR

Still more will remember the singing in the parks which occupied such a prominent part in the celebration of July 4, 1919. War Camp Community Service led singing in the theatres on special occasions, and singing played a part in the first general meeting of the Yonkers American Legion at the Red Circle Club rooms.

Its task of helping to assimilate the service man into the community having been completed, War Camp Community Service in Yonkers closed in January, 1920. An editorial in the Yonkers Daily News of August 21, 1919, says, "For its many activities along moral and social lines, Yonkers is indebted to the War Camp Community Service. But, if we mistake not, it is indebted to this organization even more for keeping always before it the importance of community spirit to the community itself."

THE CRITERION CLUB OF THE Y. M. H. A.

As a result of its work during the great world war, the Criterion Club of the Young Men's Hebrew Association stands out as being more than a mere gathering of men. It stands forth as an organization which saw the country's need, and was equal to the demands made upon it.

When war was declared against Germany in 1917, a large number of the club members volunteered for service. Those remaining considered ways and means of upholding the morale not only of their absent club members, but of all local friends of the members, as far as they possibly could. A subscription of over $300 was raised by members, which was used in dispensing comforts to those in service.

The committee in charge of this fund gave each departing member a fountain pen, with the injunction: "Write and let us hear from you often." All others received the same invitation, and all were encouraged to make use of the club in carrying out any errand or wish that might arise while they were away.

The men were constantly supplied with smokes, sweets, stamps, reading matter and other necessities and comforts to help them feel their absence less. As the original fund was spent, more money was subscribed, and although there were fewer men left to dig in, the funds were never lacking.

Many an evening club members spent hours writing letters to those in service. In return, the club received over one thousand letters, cards, photographs and souvenirs from the grateful service men. These letters, written sometimes in the face of death, expressed sincerely what the soldiers felt most deeply in their hearts. The letters are to-day in a fire-proof vault in the Y. M. H. A. club rooms, and form one of the most cherished possessions of the club.

In other fields, too, the club was active. Liberty bonds of all issues, amounting to $20,000, were bought, and committees were always busy getting subscriptions inside and outside the club. Large subscriptions were also obtained for the Red Cross, K. of C., Y. M. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board and Salvation Army funds.

November 11, 1918, found thirty-seven of a total membership of forty-five, in the service. Of that number, although some were wounded, all returned safely. One member was killed in France.

HOW YONKERS HELPED TO FORM AN ARMY

"THE nation needs men, and needs them quickly," was the plea that Provost Marshal General E. H. Crowder made on July 26, 1917, in a message to members of Local Boards under the Selective Service Law.

Although many organizations in the city of Yonkers had been active in war work for the Allies, and many individuals had enlisted in the armies of the Allies, or in their auxiliary services before the active entrance of our country into the conflict, all the patriotic forces in the municipality seemed to spring into instant action when war was declared. Voluntary enlistments in great number took place.

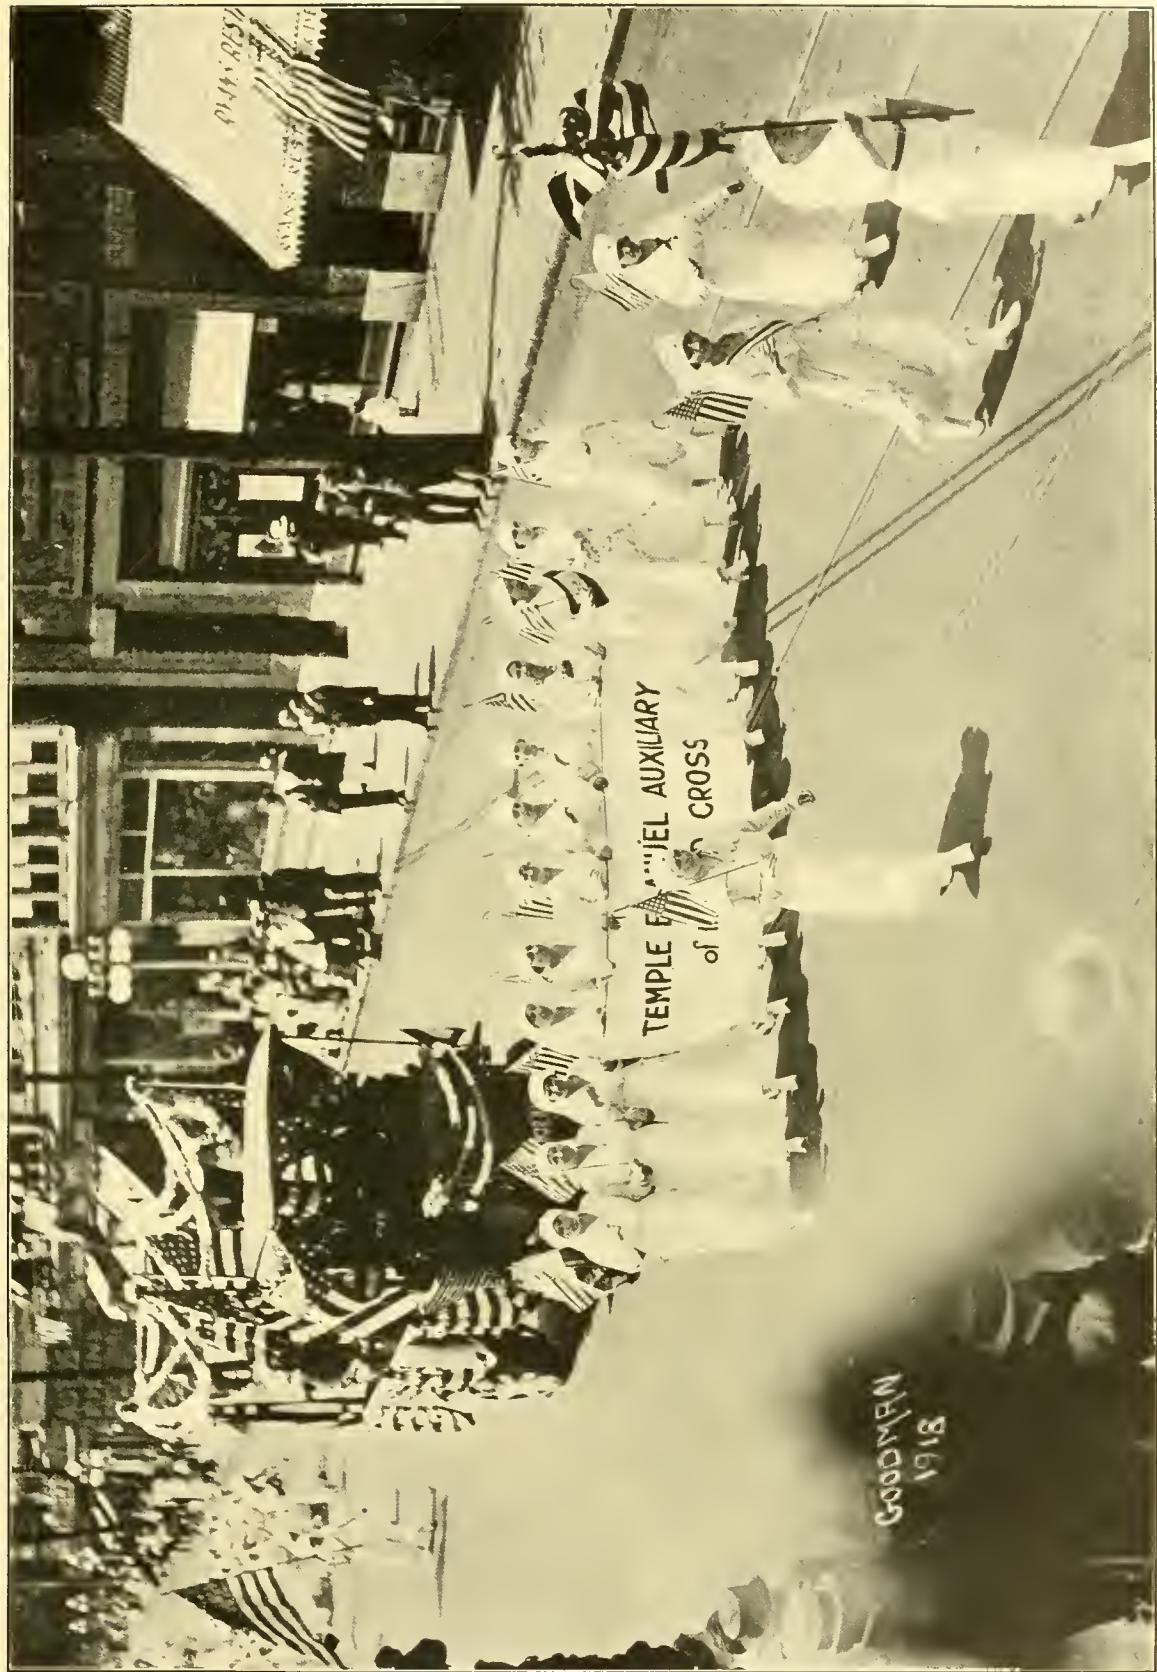

Yet, with the war proclamation came the necessity for putting into operation the machinery that was to translate the requirements of the Selective Service Law into an army of young men. Three local Draft Boards and a Board of Instruction were organized for the districts of Yonkers. Men whose time was otherwise occupied with affairs of business gladly volunteered to serve in these Boards without compensation. Hours were long, and the work was often exhausting.

A total number of 1,839 men was accepted for military service, while the number of those registered and classified with the Boards was well over 20,000.

The principal questions to be decided by the Local Boards were those of physical fitness and dependency. The regulations permitted exemption of any man who had a wife, child, aged mother or father dependent upon him for support. The activities of the Boards required men with broadly human qualities throughout, men of a highly sympathetic and unbiased nature, who in each case were capable of deciding on their own authority the destinies of the various registrants who applied for exemption.

LOCAL DRAFT BOARD FOR DIVISION NO. 1

LOCAL DRAFT BOARD for Division No. 1, one of the three Local Draft Boards in the city of Yonkers, included the First, Fourth, Eighth and Ninth wards. It officially opened its headquarters at 55 Main Street, in the Gazette-Press Building, later occupied by the Yonkers Daily News.

JEWISH AUXILIARY RED CROSS

The Board functioned through the first registration, June 5, 1917, for men between twenty-one and thirty years inclusive, numbering about 3,400. Physical examinations were begun, and the men were called according to the sequence of their order numbers, irrespective of any claim for exemption. These claims were permitted to be made after the examination had taken place. As the space in this building was unsuitable for physical examinations, a new location was sought, and the Elks Building was used for a short time. The Board was then assigned headquarters in the City Hall.

Approximately 1,100 men were called for examination to fill the quota of 181 assigned the district. Out of this number, 45 failed to appear, 421 were accepted physically, 321 rejected physically, 518 claimed exemption and discharge. 474 claims were allowed, and 44 disallowed. 203 were certified to the District Board for final classification. The first call to send men to camp came September 10, 1917, when nine men entrained to Camp Upton, Long Island, N. Y.

The questionnaire system was begun shortly, and each registrant had the opportunity of filing one with his Board, claiming the classification he believed he was entitled to. These were in turn acted upon, after filing by the Board members for final determination. There were about 706 registrants placed in Class 1, available for service pending the outcome of their physical examination. These examinations were vigorously pursued. By the following year, in some boards, this class was exhausted, but Local Board for Division 1 still had a few registrants in this class available for service.

A second registration was necessary not to break into the deferred classes, or Class 2, and this called for men who had attained their 21st birthday since the first registration on June 5, 1917. This took place June 5 and August 12, 1918. The Board thus added about 250 men to its former registration. September 12, 1918, a third registration took place, calling for all men between the ages of 19 and 45 inclusive, and exclusive of the ages between 21 and 30, as these men presumably were registered. This brought forth about 4,800 more registrants, bringing the total for Local Board No. 1 up to about 8,500 and making it the largest board in the city.

The work of the Board was carried out to a most satisfactory conclusion, and this was in part due to the noble and worthy assistance rendered by the outside volunteers. All the members of the Board served gratuitously, and this made an excellent showing when the results of financial standing for the Boards in the state were given out.

A number of changes occurred in the personnel of the Draft Board. Mr. Travers D. Carman resigned to become a captain in the Motor Transport Corps. Mr. Dan C. Nolan was officially appointed chairman, and Mr. E. Stanton George was appointed to Mr. Nolan's place as secretary. Mr. Alexander W. McCready resigned to enter the Medical Corps, and Mr. Herman P. Roos succeeded as chief clerk, appointing Mrs. Mildred E. McBride as his assistant.

LOCAL DRAFT BOARD FOR DIVISION NO. 2

THE BOARD, as originally organized, consisted of Charles E. Gorton, Superintendent of the Board of Education, as Chairman; John F. Brennan, Secretary, and Dr. Henry Moffat.

The first notification to this Division, concerning the quota to be provided, was given for many less men than the amended figures called for, through some mistake at Albany. The Board organized, and proceeded to fulfill requirements. Supposing the work to be completed, Mr. Brennan left on his annual trip for Europe. In the latter part of August, amended figures were communicated. Mr. Gorton found that his duties in connection with the Board of Education and the public schools of the city were too great to allow his giving any more time to the Local Board. He resigned, and Captain Henry T. Bragg, O. R. N. Y., was appointed by the President in his stead, and duly elected chairman.

At the beginning, various volunteers connected with the public schools acted as clerks, but it was found impossible to continue this arrangement. For a time, the Board managed with volunteers who gave temporary service, until Miss Mary R. Janz was selected as chief clerk. Miss Helen Duffy served as assistant clerk during a part of the Board's existence.

In the latter part of August, 1918, Chairman Bragg was suddenly stricken blind in the office, and after completing the dictations for the day's work, was escorted home by the chief clerk. Mr. John F. Brennan became his successor.

The President appointed Mr. Ethelbert Belknap as secretary, to take Mr. Brennan's place.

The work accomplished by this Board, verified in the report of the Provost Marshal General, is as follows:

Total called, 525; total inducted, 528; total accepted, 482; total rejected, 44; draft cancelled, 2. Of the 44 rejected, one appealed from his rejection to the Special Board at White Plains. His appeal was approved, and he was sent to Camp Upton, where he was again rejected owing to indications of incipient tuberculosis. This proved the correctness of the local physicians in directing his rejection in the first place. The 43 remaining men would not have been ordered rejected, had it not been for an unfortunate confusion resulting from orders from the Medical Department at Washington.

Of the 43, three accepted positions after rejection, in munition plants. The remaining 40 were afterwards all located in various branches of the service where they had enlisted, thus justifying the opinion of the Local Board Examiners that they should never have been rejected. The total number of men registered with this Division was over 20,000. The number drafted does not represent all of the men from this Division who were in service, because many volunteered. In addition, there were about 135 men who came forward out of their turn voluntarily, and under the regulations then in force, were permitted to enter various branches of the service after registration.

During the existence of this Division, volunteer assistance was given by many of the office employees of local industries, and by men and women school teachers. No record of the names was kept, and yet, so many came forward, that it is doubtful if any school teacher in the city failed to do a share of the work in connection with the Local Boards.

The colored men of the city volunteered in such numbers with the old 15th New York Regiment, that when this Division was finally called upon to induct all the colored men in the section, there were only three found to be subject to duty.

COMPANY G, 10th New York Infantry, National Guard, responded to the call of the President on July 15, 1917, and was mustered in Federal service July 20, 1917, leaving Yonkers July 29 of that year.

Company G, First Infantry, New York Guard, entered the service July 20, 1917, as a Depot Unit to the old company, and remained as such until October 18, 1917, when the designation was changed to Company G, 8th Coast Artillery Corps, New York Guard. December 6, the designation became Ninth Company, 8th Coast Artillery Corps, and on August 1, 1919, the present designation was received.

The armory was used as a dormitory and mess-hall for 275 soldier students, who received a three months' course of instruction at the Saunders Trade School. These men were being prepared for the various trades connected with army operation.

In addition to its regular weekly drills, the Company participated in the following events:

BOARDS OF INSTRUCTION

IN CONFORMANCE with the provisions of Provost Marshal General Crowder's order No. 76, Boards of Instruction were organized during the summer of 1918 for the purpose of getting in personal touch with all the selective service registrants before they were called for active service. Heretofore, many registrants had gone to camp ignorant and afraid of what they had to face there.

It was the duty of the Instruction Boards to see to the elimination of that condition. It was also their duty to see that men were fit physically, and prepared for early promotion by preliminary military training; that they were imbued with a spirit of real patriotism, a knowledge of what they were fighting for, and a willingness to fight.

The report of the Board's activities forwarded to General Crowder after the close of hostilities shows that the twenty-one men engaged in this service conducted thirty meetings where instruction was given to an approximate total of 1,500 selectives in regard to the conditions which would confront them when they reached the cantonments. They were told of their rights and privileges regarding insurance, allowances and allotments; about the purposes of the nation in waging the war; their duty in keeping themselves physically fit, and free from disease. They were also given military instruction.

The members of the Boards of Instruction by districts were:

FIRST DISTRICT

E. Stanton George, James B. Lackey, Maurice D. O'Keefe, Thomas W. Casey, Jules Hart, Edmund Waterman.

SECOND DISTRICT

Clarence E. Porter, John F. Collins, Everett Addoms, Harry C. Adams, Abraham Shiman, Dennis F. O'Brien.

THE WAR SERVICE OF THE YONKERS SCHOOLS

THROUGHOUT the dark and dangerous period of the World War, when America was giving of her best to winning the great struggle against the menace which overhung the liberties of the world, the schools of Yonkers rendered a valiant and valuable service.

Early in the struggle it became apparent that this was to be a war of peoples as well as a war of armies and that if the cause of right was to triumph our country must bend her every energy, and mobilize her every resource for the struggle. At once upon the signing of the declaration of war which made the United States an active participant in the conflict, preparations were made by the schools to do what they could to aid their country.

Under the devoted leadership of Mr. Charles E. Gorton, superintendent of schools, patriotic exercises were held in all the schools. The principals and teachers sought to teach the children the nature of the struggle and the momentous issues which were at stake. They aimed to strengthen the faith of their pupils that this war would settle for all time the question of whether might and justice were to be the ruling motives in this world or oppression and tyranny; that in such an issue as this our peace-loving Republic could be true to the principles upon which it was founded only by throwing the weight of her might into this struggle for the freedom of the world.

By the direction of the Board of Education many of the customary lines of work in the schools of the city were greatly modified. As far as possible the various manual activities were turned in the direction of productive war work in response to the proclamation of the President.

To the School Children of the United States:

A PROCLAMATION

The President of the United States is also President of the American Red Cross. It is from these offices joined in one that I write you a word of greeting at this time when so many of you are beginning the school year. The American Red Cross has just prepared a Junior membership with School Activities in which every pupil in the United States can find a chance to serve our country. The school is the natural center of your life. Through it you can best work in the cause of freedom to which we have all pledged ourselves.

Our Junior Red Cross will bring to you opportunities of service to your community and to other communities all over the world and guide your service with high and religious ideals. It will teach you how to save in order that suffering children elsewhere may have the chance to live. It will teach you how to prepare some of the supplies which wounded soldiers and homeless families lack. It will send to you through the Red Cross Bulletins the thrilling stories of relief and rescue. And best of all, more perfectly than through any of your other school lessons, you will learn by doing those kind things under your teacher's direction, to be the future good citizens of this great country which we all love.

And I command to all school teachers in the country the simple plan which the American Red Cross has worked out to provide for coöperation, knowing as I do that school children will give their best services under the direct guidance and instruction of their teachers. Is not this perhaps the chance for which you have been looking to give your time and efforts in some measure to meet our national needs?

WOODROW WILSON, President

Upon the reopening of the schools in the fall of 1917 steps were taken to organize the children in the schools under the Junior Red Cross, and thus to bring them into coöperation with the Yonkers Branch of the senior organization which was already doing such effective war work. The principals and teachers worked at this with fidelity and enthusiasm and within a few weeks were able to report a one hundred per cent membership. Every pupil then enrolled in the public schools, from the high schools to the primary classes, 15,542 in all, became active members and paid into the treasury the membership fee of twenty-five cents.

Thus a fund of nearly $4,000 was created which was expended, as it was needed, for materials to be made by the children into garments and other supplies for the soldiers.

The chairman of the Junior Red Cross was Mr. W. R. Williams, principal of School No. 6. The schools participated in the repair and construction of garments and making new articles called for by the soldiers and the charities bestowed upon Belgian, Armenian and Serbian refugees and those from other nations. The work of the schools along these lines continued until the necessity for it passed. The schools contributed large sums in the purchase of War Savings Stamps and also engaged actively in the sale of government bonds in the various Liberty loans.

Under the direction of Mr. Joseph J. Eaton, director of manual activities in the schools, and his assistants, coöoperating with the principals, the sewing, cooking and manual training courses were entirely reorganized to meet war needs. In addition to the work of the regular periods devoted to sewing, etc., a great deal was done under the guidance of the classroom teacher in the course of the daily program of work. It was a common occurrence in all our schools that pupils would be busy knitting socks, wash cloths, etc., while engaged in their history, geography and other regular lessons.

In the course of the war no less than 33,533 articles for war use were made by the children. No attempt can be made to enumerate all the kinds, but among them were these: towels, pillow cases, gun wipes, "cootie strings," socks, sweaters, wristlets, comfort kits, under-clothing, quilts, handkerchiefs, shirts, hospital supplies, camp stools, hospital screens.

For two seasons this work was continued through summer school seasons under the guidance of Mrs. Catherine M. Fetherston and many thousands of articles were made as they were asked for by various relief organizations. The cooking department gave instruction and demonstration in canning, preserving and other forms of food conservation.

Every school in the city undertook the sale of War Savings Stamps. Lessons of thrift and patriotic duty were continually impressed upon the children by teachers in every classroom and large numbers of stamps were purchased. Exact figures are not available but sales aggregating $192,651.76 were definitely recorded, while it is probable that the actual total was considerably above this amount. Almost without exception the school children purchased stamps. This work was carried on under the direction of Mr. William E. Worthington.

Careful records kept of the work done by the children during the Fourth and the Fifth Liberty loans show that a total of 1,492 separate subscriptions were turned in through the schools which aggregated the sum of $150,300. Appeals were consistently made to the children to interest their parents to support the nation through investing in war bonds, and no estimate can be made of the indirect help rendered through their influence.

In the fall of 1918, in the great United War Work Campaign through which nearly two hundred million dollars was raised for relief work, an allotment of the Yonkers quota was undertaken by the public and parochial schools. An appeal to the teachers was sent out from which the following extract is taken:

"We are all in sympathy with the beneficent work for which this great drive is to be undertaken. A vigorous campaign in its behalf in the school will cost some effort and anxiety, but we would not have the Yonkers schools do less than their very best in every kind of war service that looks to helping our soldiers across the seas.

"Yonkers has sent thousands of its young men to war. To help promote their welfare the city will try to do its full duty. For the young people the assignment is,—'A Thousand Boys and a Thousand Girls behind the Yonkers Fighters.'

"This means that another specific piece of unselfish war service has been asked of the children of this city. We are confident that in this respect also 'Yonkers never fails' and that to that end the principals and teachers will press the campaign vigorously."

The response was hearty. Under the pledge to "earn and give" the children of the schools contributed $8,895.50 to this worthy and unselfish cause.

The schools did all possible honor to those of their former pupils who went forth to fight for their country's honor. Service flags were appropriately dedicated in every school and at the close of the war they carried 1,933 stars in tribute to the host of young men who had gone out in defense of the Stars and Stripes. Gold stars were among the white, symbols of the sacrifice which sixty of these boys were called upon to make. There are now in the larger number of the schools various forms of memorial tablets sacred to the memory of those who laid down their lives upon the altar of their country's need.

The Junior Four Minute Men were organized in the schools, and contests for prizes were held. The first contest was held for the Yonkers High School in May, 1918, and the certificates of award were given to Seymour Ely and Miss Elizabeth Osborne. This was followed by a contest for the parochial schools in which the winners were William J. McGoldrick and Miss Celia Mackay, first and second prizes. The third contest was given for the seventh and eighth grades of the grammar schools, including twenty elementary institutions. The prizes were won by Thelma Hassett, John Fallon, Isadore Bernstein and Louise Maurer. The rewards were War Savings Stamps.

THE STUDENT ARMY TRAINING CORPS

WHEN, in 1918, the United States Government converted most of its secondary educational institutions into huge training establishments to meet the possible demands of a war of long duration, the Saunders Trades School, of Yonkers, was included in this category. There were two detachments of "S. A. T. C." as they were known, trained at the school. The first detachment arrived July 1, 1918, and the last detachment left October 28, 1918. In all, 430 men were trained.

One of the problems that presented itself at the outset was the feeding and housing of the men. When the Red Cross of Yonkers was appealed to, it expressed a willingness to assist, and the feeding was formally contracted for by it. It made necessary readjustments in the Y. W. C. A. building, and adequately cared for the feeding of the first detachment.

Nearly all the men in the first detachment were from New York City or near by localities. Many of them were untrained in any skilled occupation, but practically all of them entered into the vocational work of the school with a great deal of zest and vigor.

The second detachment consisted of men in uniforms, who had already received instructions and preparations for their work. These men were graded according to the occupations with which they were familiar, and their training was continued in Yonkers. The teachers were in every case practical workmen who were experts at their trades, and who in addition had teaching experience. These teachers approached their work with an enthusiasm and patriotic spirit that made greatly for the success of the undertaking.

No difficulty was experienced in securing materials with which to carry on the practical work, because of the splendid coöperation of the local dealers. With the exception of equipment for the Auto Mechanic Class, which required a comparatively small new tool equipment, and which built a shed to shelter its cars, the school equipment proved adequate to meet most needs.

The methods used at the school were those advocated by the best authorities on vocational education. Practical productive work was carried on wherever possible, and was limited only by the cost of materials, or a restricted use for the product. All shop work was supplemented by shop talks, lectures, and visits to manufacturing plants, lumber yards, work under construction and the like.

The shop course was supplemented by a "War Aims Course" designed to put the conflict in its proper historical background in the minds of the students, and to help them formulate more clearly and concretely convictions concerning the momentous issues involved. The underlying aim of the entire series of discussions was to strengthen the faith of the students that this was a war which would settle for all time the question of whether hate and oppression and tyranny were hereafter to be ruling motives in the world; or liberty and justice and humanity; that it was such a war that our great peace-loving republic could be true to the principles upon which it was founded only by throwing the weight of its manhood and its might into this struggle for the freedom of the world.

THE CRESCENT CLUB

THE CRESCENT CLUB of the city of Yonkers was originally organized from membership of the graduates of St. Mary's Parochial School, organized by Brother Augustus, who also gave the name to the club.

At the outbreak of the world war, this club had one hundred and forty-three members. Of that number one hundred and twenty-two joined the colors. The formation of a Ladies Auxiliary saved the disbanding of the organization until the return of the men from the war. During the Mexican trouble in 1916, the Crescent Club formed a defense corps and during the war those members who had to stay at home organized a drum corps in order to welcome home the returning soldiers after the war.

On May 19, 1919, the Crescent Club held the first "Welcome Home" parade and celebration which was given in the city to the returned service men. Following the parade, a big dinner was held in Philipsburgh Hall. Crescent Post 935 of the American Legion has been named because of the patriotism of the Crescent Club.

During the World War, the following casualties occurred in the membership of the Crescent Club:

Pvt. EDWARD J. FOLEY, died from the effects of gas poisoning.

Sgt. JOHN QUINLIVAN, died from influenza while in the service.

Pvt. JOHN J. MUNROE, wounded in hand, causing loss of index finger.

Pvt. ADAM JANSON, wounded from shrapnel, causing loss of left arm.

Pvt. JOHN FOLEY, severe wounds in face, caused from hand grenade.

Major TIMOTHY MURPHY, gassed.

Cpl. JOHN J. KILEY, gassed.

Lieut. EDWARD M. BOYD, gassed and shell shocked.

Pvt. JAMES ECCLES, deafness from roaring of heavy guns.

The following citations were issued to members of the Crescent Club:

Pvt. JOHN SHEEHY, French Croix de Guerre with two stars for carrying wounded in his ambulance under heavy shell fire.

Pvt. THOMAS A. FLYNN, Conspicuous Service Cross, for bravery in going out under enemy fire and rescuing two wounded comrades.

Pvt. JOSEPH A. FITZPATRICK, Conspicuous Service Cross for carrying ammunition two days under heavy enemy fire.

Cpl. JOHN J. KILEY, cited for courage and devotion to duty for remaining on duty as switchboard operator for forty-two hours without relief although suffering from the effect of gas.

Sgt. WARREN D. LEFURGY, Distinguished Service Cross, for volunteering to go out under heavy enemy fire in order to get information.

Sgt. JOHN J. FLYNN, French Service De Sante Citation for attending the wounded under bombardment.

Pvt. GROVER McMORRIS, French Distinguished Service Medal, caring for French General with highly contagious disease. Also the French Service De Sante Citation for attending the wounded under bombardment.

Pvt. JAMES A. WHITE, Conspicuous Service Cross for gallantry in action.

B. P. O. ELKS

YONKERS LODGE No. 707.

AMONG the patriotic orders of Yonkers who helped materially in the world war, and who could always be counted upon to do not only their best but to go the limit in service and in contributing to the different funds and the purchase of Liberty bonds, was Yonkers Lodge No. 707, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

The Elks were the first great national organization to give substantial sums to the government, not for bond issues, but as a direct contribution. Their first assessment upon their members was for a fund of one million dollars. This was paid for the establishment of a hospital. A subsequent donation of a million dollars was added to the original gift.

Among other things, the national order contributed sixty thousand dollars to the work of the Salvation Army, thereby financing the Salvation Army in the splendid work which they accomplished on the other side.

The Order of Elks has built a hospital in Boston and given it to the United States government for the wounded soldiers. They also established a base hospital in France and were partners with the government in vocational training. They are now building a three million dollar memorial building in Chicago in honor of over a thousand members who made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country.

In all of these activities, Yonkers Lodge No. 707 did its share. When the war was declared, the local company of the Naval Militia was quartered at the Elks Club in Yonkers. They had organized largely through the efforts of members of Yonkers Lodge of Elks. At that time, the ranking ensign in the Naval Militia was Gerald Nolan, who was Esteemed Leading Knight in the Lodge. It was from the Elks Home that the Naval Militia marched away to quarters on the Granite State in New York City the day following the declaration of war.

Some months after that, Draft Board No. 1 of the City of Yonkers, which handled more than nine thousand six hundred names of those in the district subject to draft, established their headquarters in the Elks Home, so that it will be seen that Yonkers Lodge No. 707 was really the centre of much patriotic work. Liberty Loan drives, drives to raise funds for Red Cross and the Knights of Columbus fund had quarters at the Elks Club, which gave the use of its club house generously to every patriotic movement.

When the war was declared, the membership of Yonkers Lodge No. 707 was six hundred and eighty-four. Of that number fifty-seven enlisted in the service at the very beginning of the war. Twenty-five of the fifty-seven went across as commissioned officers in the Army and the Navy. At present, there are more than three hundred and fifty ex-service men in Yonkers Lodge.

It is worthy of note that Thomas Tobin, who was Exalted Ruler at the declaration of war, was one of the first to enlist. The second chair, Esteemed Leading Knight, Gerald Nolan, went out with the first contingent of Naval Militia, and other officers of the Lodge were among those who enlisted in the service of the nation.

At the close of the war, a dinner was given to the returned service men of the Elks Lodge and the original fifty-seven were present and were each presented with a gold souvenir card case as a reminder of their service to the nation.

Yonkers Lodge has been established for a great many years. Its first Exalted Ruler, head of the order, was the Hon. M. J. Walsh, then mayor of the City of Yonkers, and many men prominent in civic, professional and business affairs of Yonkers succeeded Mr. Walsh in that important office.

Yonkers Lodge lived thoroughly up to its patriotic ideals during the war. It is first and last a patriotic order and thoroughly American in every particular. No organization that we know of extended itself further or did finer work in the service of the United States than the Elks and certainly no lodge of the Elks has a finer record than Yonkers Lodge No. 707 of our own city.

The officers of Yonkers Lodge No. 707 at the declaration of war, were:

Thomas M. Tobin, Exalted Ruler

Gerald Nolan, Esteemed Leading Knight

A. J. Meyer, Esteemed Loyal Knight

John M. Clark, Esteemed Lecturing Knight

Elmer J. Craft, Secretary

J. Frank Curran, Treasurer

William C. Egan, Tiler

John H. Keeler, Jr., Trustee

James W. Hannigan, Trustee

PART III

YONKERS WOMEN IN WAR WORK

RED CROSS IN PARADE

THE WOMEN OF YONKERS IN WAR WORK

AS THE men of Yonkers went forth to fight the enemy, so the women of Yonkers stood behind them with sincere effort at home. Indeed, some accompanied the soldiers overseas to minister to them, and to cheer them in days of stress, and battle.

Yonkers honors its women for their noble part in its war activities. They spoke in public places, to see that money and comforts were not lacking for the cause. They toiled, they sewed, they knitted, they baked and cooked; they nursed the sick, and drove the ambulances that carried the wounded from ship to base hospital. No call too great, no service too difficult, but the women of Yonkers rose to it, and accomplished it.

The following pages will give some little insight into what the women of Yonkers did, to help their sons and brothers in battle, at a time when all in the community were working toward just one end, the winning of the war.

YONKERS WOMEN'S LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEES

IN the Liberty and Victory Loans, the work of Yonkers women produced results which materially aided in making the loans a success. So efficient were their activities that other cities sent representatives to study the work of the local organization. When the final reports were made, Yonkers stood very near the top. In one loan it led the work, and in another, it stood second of the women's committees in the cities of the Second Federal Reserve District, which included Westchester and Rockland Counties in New York, and Fairfield County, Connecticut.

The organization of the Liberty and Victory Loan Committees called for two chairmen in each locality, each appointed by the governor of the Federal Reserve Bank under authority of the Secretary of the Treasury. One of these headed the Woman's Committee.

A meeting called on June 2, 1917, met at the Woman's Institute and perfected the permanent organization. The Committee organized and secured the coöperation of many representative women who acted as captains of teams, took charge of booths, solicited at stations, put up posters, furnished automobiles, and did other essential work.

The Committee began its labors at a time when few of those best informed believed it possible to sell many bonds in Yonkers, and its activities laid a solid foundation for good results. This group of hard-working patriotic women bent on serving their country, gave unstintingly of time and effort, and helped mightily in those early days. During this loan, the Committee held public meetings, had speakers from New York, and secured from the Mayor the call for a public meeting at Phillipsburg Hall, where Mrs. August Belmont made a most inspiring address.

At the close of the First Loan, the women reported $557,000 in subscriptions.

The personnel of the following Loan Committees changed but little. In the Second Loan, the Committee moved Headquarters from the Flagg Building to the Red Cross Building, and in the Third Loan to the Proctor Building. For the Fourth and Fifth Loans, the Mayor placed a room in the City Hall at the service of the Committee.

In the Third Loan, the organization of the Committee was still further extended. A Flying Squadron was organized and many able addresses were made. During the Third Loan, too, a house-to-house canvass was made for subscriptions, canvassers thoroughly covering the entire city by districts. The reports turned in by the Committee fully justified the arduous labor involved. Results of the Third Liberty Loan showed a total of 6,145 subscriptions, amounting to $1,102,800.

The Fourth Liberty Loan proved most successful, although some of the leading aids to the Chairman found it impossible to continue their work as it had been handled during the Third Loan.

Another large mass meeting was arranged at Phillipsburg Hall, and the Liberty Hut was furnished with speakers and solicitors. The Chairman of the Counters Committee reported 422 subscriptions totalling $101,850. The Jewish Meetings Committee Chairman returned to the credit of the Woman's Committee the splendid results of a meeting at Temple Emanu-El, which alone amounted to $314,950 in bonds taken by 373 subscribers.

There was no house-to-house canvass during the Fourth Loan, but organizations made themselves into sub-committees under the leadership of the member representing them on the General Committee. At the conclusion of the Fourth Loan $1,237,700 in subscriptions was reported to the Central Committee. There were 10,079 sales to 5,920 individuals. Of these, the Meetings and Theatres Committee secured 1,032 subscriptions amounting to $432,500.

During the final Victory Loan, the generous spirit, which had all through the loans animated the Chairman and the members of the Executive Committee and the workers, again brought the group together, and subscriptions in all amounting to $958,650 taken by 2,302 subscribers, were turned in by the Yonkers Women's Liberty Loan Committee. The total subscriptions received by the women in all loans amounted to $3,983,500.

AMERICAN GIRLS' AID — YONKERS BRANCH

THE Yonkers Unit, American Girls' Aid, is a branch of an organization begun in 1914 by young American women in France for the relief of the refugees of northern France and Belgium.

Through the chairman of the New York Committee, a former Yonkers resident, attention was called to the particular work being done by the American Girls' Aid. In the summer of 1917, a small group of workers met weekly to sew for the women and children of war-torn France. In December of that year, a box containing two hundred garments was sent to New York Headquarters at 293 Fifth Avenue, and from there shipped to Neuilly, France.

In January, 1918, the Yonkers Unit was officially formed. Sixteen members were enrolled. In April, 1918, an exhibition of completed garments was held at the home of the chairman at 291 South Broadway to stimulate interest in the work. A second exhibition and sale was held in December, 1919.

Through the Paris office of the organization, the Yonkers Unit adopted two refugee children whose families had been driven from their homes, and agreed to care for them for the duration of the war, or longer, if necessary. These two little girls, Helene Sogny of Coulommes, near Reims, and Jenny Caulery of Beaufort, were cared for and clothed for three years. The letters and cards received from these children and their mothers show deep gratitude and appreciation for the interest and support which their "Marraines Americaines" have shown them in their days of sorrow and distress.

During its active existence, the Yonkers Unit sent to France a total of 1,600 garments. In addition to the refugee work, 150 comfort bags were sent to the 104th Field Artillery, U.S.A. (better known as the old Second Field Artillery of the New York National Guard), at Spartanburg, S. C.

A number of knitted quilts and boxes containing comforts appreciated by soldier boys were sent to near-by hospitals.

Miss Macbean, Chairman; Miss Alice M. Edgar, Secretary and Treasurer.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY OF COMPANY G

THIS group of women, composed of relatives of men in the Company, was organized November 1, 1917. Their purpose was to follow the welfare of the Company members, and to engage in war relief generally. They remained in active service until June, 1919, during which time they met once a week at the Armory. The group financed itself, making and shipping abroad through the National Surgical Dressings Committee and the Stage Women's War Relief, 5,638 pieces of material. It also made 112 knitted articles, and contributed liberally to the Red Cross drives.

OFFICERS

Mrs. Albert C. Bogert, President; Miss Maria Hackett, Secretary; Mrs. William H. Lewis, Treasurer.

COMFORTS COMMITTEE OF CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

THIS Committee was a branch of the Comforts Forwarding Committee of Christian Scientists of New York, to which all finished articles were sent. These were in turn distributed by them through the various war relief committees, or directly. The Committee was organized February 19, 1918, and discontinued May 29, 1919. About twenty women met weekly to sew and knit at rooms provided gratuitously by the Woman's Institute. Under the head of reconstruction work, garments were made for French and Belgian refugees, and pillows, quilts, and bathrobes for the inmates of hospitals throughout the country.

Knitted articles, socks, wristlets, sweaters, caps, were made for service men, and, after the war, for French and Belgian children. A total of 1,710 reconstruction articles was turned in, with 897 knitted articles. $1,626.90 in money was received and disbursed by the Committee.

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Chairman, Katharine E. Wenzel, February 1, 1918, to May 2, 1918; Louise Y. Whitney, thereafter. Secretary, Sarah E. Chatterton; Treasurer, Anna R. Cohen; Captain of Reconstruction Work, Harriet R. Pierce; Captain of Wool Work, Christina Emery; Knitting Instructor, Stella R. Wood.

YONKERS SECTION

COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN

ACTIVITY in all branches of war services was the watch-word of the Yonkers Section, Council of Jewish Women. Various members served with Temple Emanu-El of the Red Cross. Others made surgical dressings at Manor House.

In May, 1918, the Council formed a Committee on Civic and Communal Affairs to take part in campaigns and drives. During the War Savings Stamps Campaign in May, 1918, the Section took charge of the Liberty Hut erected on South Broadway near Getty Square for the eight hours of time assigned to it by the campaign chairman. It had to its credit on that occasion sales amounting to $138.46, the second highest eight-hour record for any women's organization in the city. The committee also assisted materially in the Second Red Cross Drive, June, 1918. It took part in the Loyalty Parade, July 4, 1918, and contributed toward the Jewish Section of the parade.

During the summer of 1918, the Section collected over $114 from among its members for furlough houses in France. The Campaign Section sold 481 bonds totalling $66,900 during the Fourth Liberty Loan in the fall of 1918.

A Hospitality Committee was formed about this time. Out of town soldiers studying at Saunders Trade School, and billeted in the Armory were entertained frequently in the homes of members. Each Wednesday two dozen large home-made cakes were sent to the Armory. The boys were urged to attend church or synagogue, and Jewish boys were entertained in the homes on Jewish holidays. In the autumn of 1918, when the influenza epidemic raged, home-made jellies and broths were sent to the Armory with the cake.

The first class in English for foreign-born women was formed in Yonkers by the Section, in December, 1918. All national holidays were explained and observed fittingly.

On February 18, 1919, members of the Hospitality Committee acted as hostesses to enlisted men and club girls at a dance at Hollywood Inn under the auspices of the War Camp Community Service.

The Section distributed literature on Food Conservation during the winter of 1918 and 1919. It also collected statistics on the war service of American Jews for the Jewish Welfare Board. In April, 1919, the Section sold 300 bonds of the Victory Loan, amounting to $156,550.

YONKERS IN THE WORLD WAR

During the summer of 1919, the Section coöperated with the U.S. Employment Bureau, and found work for four ex-service men.

OFFICERS

Mrs. Harry Lavine, Honorary President; Mrs. Max Schlesinger, Mrs. Max Lichtenstader, Honorary Vice-Presidents; Mrs. Jules Hart, President; Mrs. Max Samuels, 1st Vice-President; Mrs. Jacob G. Cohen, 2d Vice-President; Mrs. A. B. Steiner, Treasurer; Mrs. A. A. Harris, Auditor; Mrs. I. Grob, Recording Secretary; Mrs. J. C. Menkin, Corresponding Secretary.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF THE HOLLYWOOD INN CLUB

THE mothers, wives and sisters of the service men of the Hollywood Inn Club decided that in order to do the greatest possible good, it was necessary to organize and work as a unit. Hence the formation of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hollywood Inn Club.

The auxiliary gave dances, entertainments and dinners to our men in uniform. On New Year's Day, 1918, Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day during this year, every uniformed man who happened to be in the city was most hospitably welcomed to these festivities.

In order to convey an idea of the spirit that prevailed, a paragraph from a local newspaper is quoted, dwelling upon the activities of this organization on Memorial Day, 1918:

"About 300 uniformed men from all branches of the service were the guests of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Hollywood Inn Club yesterday. From early afternoon until midnight they feasted and danced to their hearts' content, and once again the ladies went home happy and tired after the end of a perfect day. The men of the U.S.S. Preble were pretty much in evidence."

LADY BORDEN CHAPTER, DAUGHTERS OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE, OF YONKERS

THE chapter was organized on April 15, 1915, with a limited membership of ten. Materials were made up, and shipments sent regularly by the workers. Countless numbers of the chapter's friends entrusted sums of money, large and small, to be spent for the surgical supplies sent to Madame Rolston, President of the Red Cross, of Brittany, France, and the head of twenty hospitals there.

She reported in the fall of 1916, saying: "The supplies are arriving in a fairly steady stream, and through our efforts the hospitals were increased from twelve to twenty."

During the ether shortage in military hospitals the chapter made great efforts at relief. A letter received from one hospital worker after the first shipment says: "I must tell you that that precious shipment has arrived. Some hospitals were out entirely, and some on their last bottle." Another: "When the last shipment of ether came, our special hospitals were without any, so you can imagine the almost frantic joy with which it was received. Again my most earnest gratitude and thanks to our dear Americans."

The war work of the chapter included every conceivable kind of activity. Money was sent to Italy to be used for tubercular children; to the Sailors' Rest Home in England, and to the British Home for Aged Men and Women at West New Brighton, Long Island. Cases of relief materials were sent to Halifax after the disaster there.

The chapter contributed $1,600 toward the expenses of the ambulance sent to France by the people of Yonkers. It equipped two ambulance drivers, sent them to France and kept them there for six months. Two cars were given outright, one by Col. Holland S. Duell, and the other by Mr. W. B. Thompson. In all the chapter contributed a total of $6,814.62 for ambulance work, and $31,567.10 for other work, making a grand total of $38,381.72.

The chapter was fortunate in having many benefactors who aided in various ways. Mr. John Wood and the Board of Directors of Clafflin and Co., at their meetings, voted many of the chapter's bills as paid. The Waring Hat, Marshall Matheson, and Morrissey companies furnished free all the shipping cases. The Lewis Gauze Manufacturing Company always kept an enormous supply of gauze on hand, no matter where the chapter's account stood. Mr. Felix Dupont contributed 1,000 pounds of ether, and sold the remainder which the chapter used at about one-third the wholesale market price. Mr. C. C. Dula gave 100 pounds of tobacco, which was sent to a Canadian regiment in France.

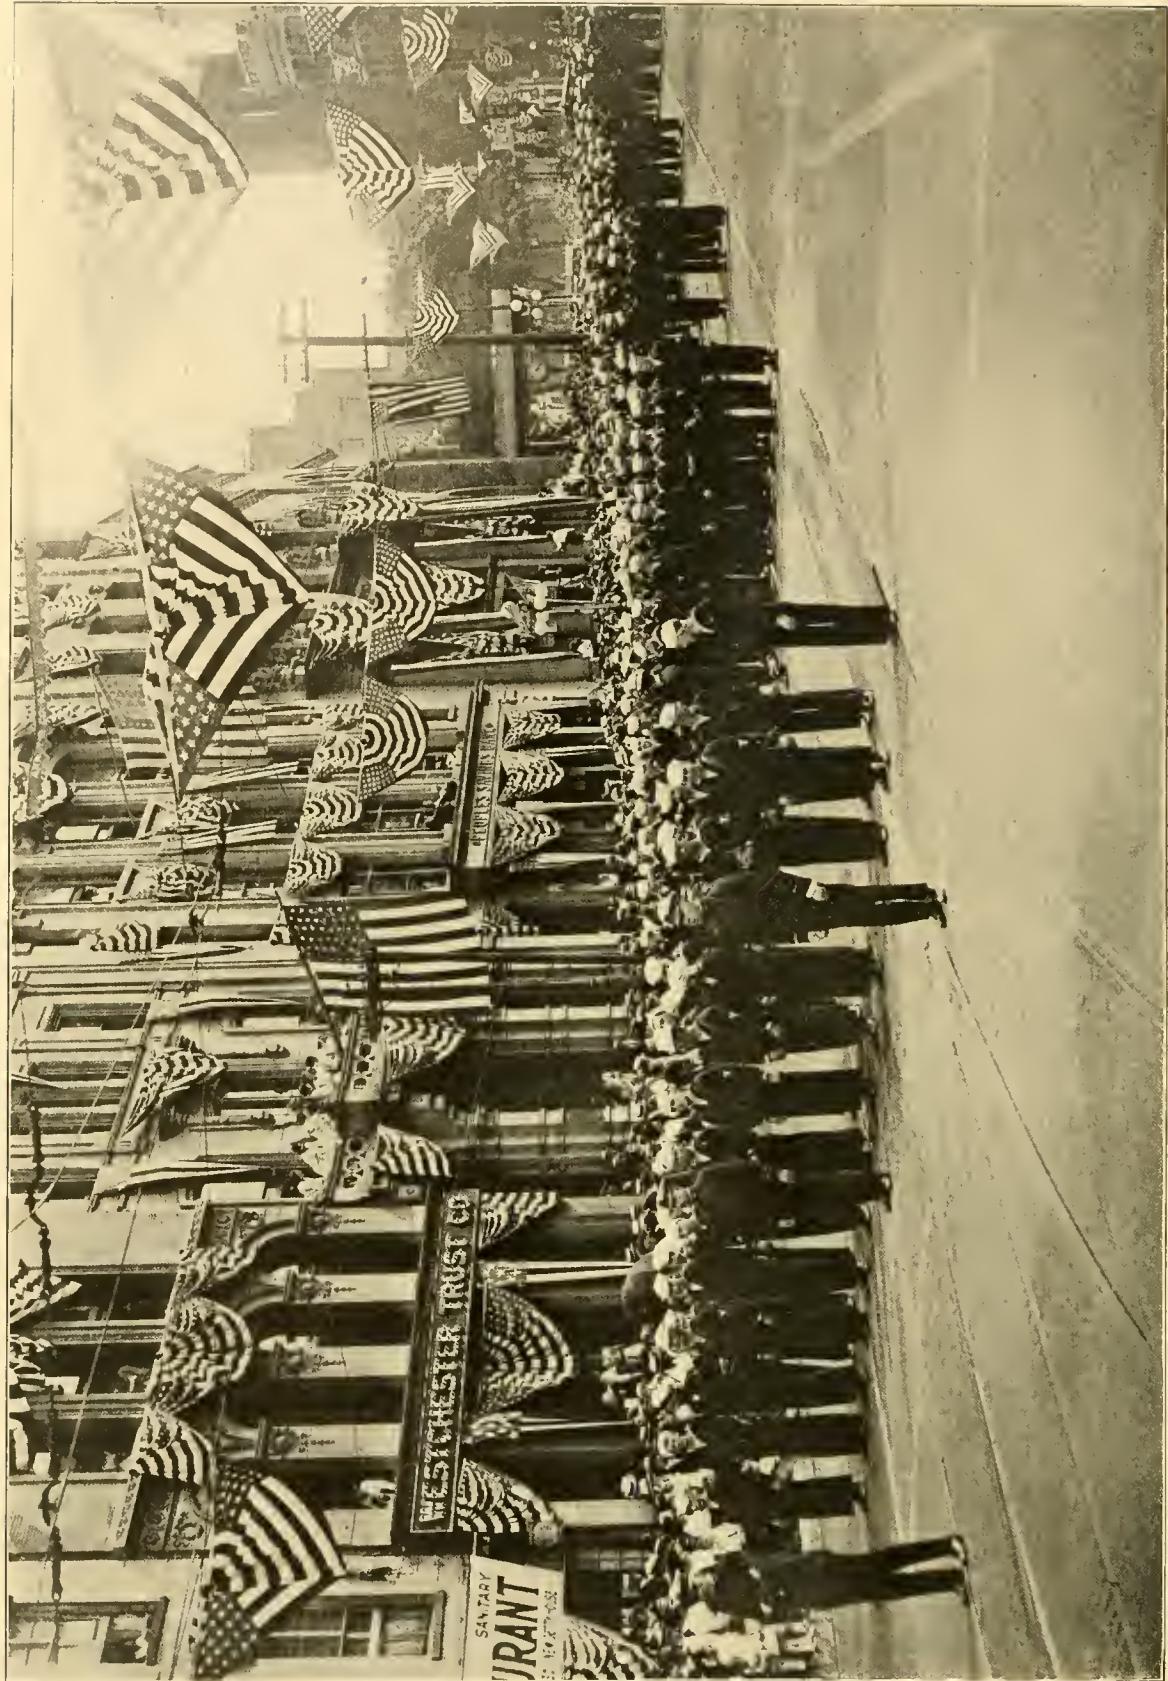

AMERICAN FUND FOR FRENCH WOUNDED — YONKERS BRANCH

THE Yonkers Branch of the American Fund for French Wounded, organized early in 1916, made and sent to France more than 21,000 hospital and refugee garments, 800 comfort bags, and 200 pairs of blankets. The contributions for this work were $3,906.98, and there was spent for materials $3,326.91.

A hospital was purchased at Nancy, France, for tubercular children. This hospital is a thank offering to France, and to it, the balance on hand in the treasury of the Yonkers Branch will be devoted. A tablet to be placed on the wall of the building will contain, among others, the name of the Yonkers Branch. The property is situated about two and one-half miles from the city of Nancy, on a terraced hill commanding a beautiful view.

CZECHOSLOVAKS IN PARADE

THE NAVAL BATTALION

The building will contain 75 beds, endowed for $6,000 each by members of the Fund, and others. These funds will provide for running the hospital in perpetuity. Great interest in the project has been shown by M. Mirman, formerly prefect, and now Governor of this section of Lorraine, who personally played a heroic part in the war.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Mrs. George R. Bunker, Chairman; Mrs. Samuel B. Hawley, Miss Susan B. Waring, Mrs. Alex B. Halliday.

YONKERS HOMEOPATHIC HOSPITAL AND MATERNITY

THE YONKERS HOMEOPATHIC HOSPITAL and MATERNITY was organized by a group of twelve women in 1891 and was incorporated in May, 1896. At first, the hospital itself was merely a basket and a nurse. Under the care of the women the basket has grown into a building, and many nurses have superseded the one.

When it was suggested that a room might be established in memory of the Yonkers boys who went to war and made the supreme sacrifice, the idea was welcomed by all the managers, and such a room, called the Memorial Room, was established in 1919. This room has been occupied a number of times. Any man who has in any way served in the great war, may be the guest of the hospital while he is ill.

OFFICERS FOR 1919

Mrs. William C. Beer, President; Mrs. W. W. Middlebrook, Vice-President; Mrs. Eldridge W. Jones, 2d Vice-President; Mrs. Charles C. Pierce, Secretary; Mrs. James Gelston Affleck, Treasurer; Mrs. William R. Gregg, Corresponding Secretary.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD OF AMERICA YONKERS BRANCH

THE YONKERS GUILD formed its War Relief Branch in June, 1916. The branch met each Tuesday at the Woman's Institute. 15,023 surgical dressings were made in these quarters. After some months, the Red Cross specified that all work was to be done in its rooms under supervision. The group then worked at Red Cross Headquarters. Many cases of hospital and refugee garments, and baby outfits, in which the organization specialized, were shipped directly to the Headquarters of the Guild in Lyons, France.

When refugees returned to such homes as were left in the devastated area, the Guild established dispensing headquarters in St. Quentin, which it adopted, together with surrounding towns. This terrain was included in the famed Hindenburg Line, and was fought over by both sides for three years.

In all, over 17,500 articles were sent over, worth about $8,000. There were also sent three sewing machines equipped with scissors, thread, etc., and $10 to special canteen work in France. Jellies, books, pillows, and other comforts were sent to Gun Hill Road Hospital, East View, and the Girls' Division War Camp Community.

BELGIAN RELIEF

IN 1914, at the very beginning of the war, when everything here was a cry for peace, the destitution of Belgium was brought very vividly to my mind. A group of neighbors began to make clothes for refugee women and children. This little group, which met at the homes of five of the founders, grew very quickly into an organization of about forty-two. Many of these ladies took up correspondence with one of the soldiers, or one of the refugees, and as the war developed, these groups worked for both soldiers and refugees. By degrees, several of the churches formed sewing groups, and sent the goods to our center.

In the meantime, I had inserted several advertisements in the newspapers, asking for clothing, and the upper story of our garage was turned into a packing establishment, for the response was immediate and generous.

From Yonkers, the work branched to all parts of the country. This is a letter received from the Director of the American Red Cross at Poultney, Vermont:

"I remember your splendid helpful letters, and how our little group of Vermont women made socks and pajamas for your Belgian Relief long before 'Our War' began; and how this simple act of service awakened a sense of interest and responsibility that later placed Poultney Branch foremost in New England activities, as we were commandeered by the War Department to make hemorrhage pads of cellu-cotton. I travelled over thirty thousand miles organizing Red Cross work, and later was made superintendent of the Red Cross Hospital. But it was always the same little group of women, my 'Belgian Guard,' above all others, who gave the greatest loyalty, help and love."

The remembrance of the spirit with which my neighbors took up the work of Belgian Relief will remain an inspiration, and it is with a feeling of gratitude and reverence to our departed Mrs. Longacre, that all of us who worked in this neighborhood will remember her untiring and devoted assistance in the work. For almost two years, she had a meeting once a week in her house, as she took charge of cutting the boys' clothings. — Report of Mrs. L. H. Baekeland.

KESKESKICK CHAPTER, D. A. R.

THE KESKESKICK CHAPTER, D. A. R., consisting of one hundred members, at once offered itself to the war cause, when the call for service came.

Three of its members served overseas with the

Y. M. C. A. Canteen Service. The Chapter did not work as a Red Cross Unit, but each member belonged to a Red Cross Auxiliary. Meetings occurred every Friday for two years. Articles were prepared for the Red Cross, Navy League, and Daughters of the British Empire. About 9,000 articles were made. Seven hundred articles were knitted and one hundred garments mended.

During the Liberty and Victory Loans, the D. A. R. sold about $75,000 worth of bonds in all. The members participated in all the local war rallies. One of the big calls was from the National Society, D. A. R., when the Chapter was asked to help raise $25,000 for civilian relief in France. Money was given to the Blind Relief War Fund, to the Y. W. C. A. and the Charity Organization. The Chapter raised $500 for purchasing sewing material.

Comfort bags and other articles were made for a unit of Polish men who went from Yonkers to serve with the Polish Army. The Chapter also made many mattresses for the men stationed on the aqueduct.

Feeling the necessity of encouraging all patriotic endeavor, the Chapter redoubled its regular work in the public schools, offering additional prizes for patriotic essays, and amplifying its English course to foreigners. The Chapter took a bond in each Liberty Loan, and gave $100 towards the National Society's $100,000 bond subscription. The use of the Chapter room was given one day a week to the Daughters of the British Empire and the Motor Corps.

The Regent of the Chapter was chairman of the Westchester Canteen for eighteen months, and local chairman of the Red Cross for several months. The treasurer was secretary of the local Red Cross. The Yonkers Navy League found its inception in the D. A. R., and one of its members was the first chairman.

There were thirty-five sons of Daughters in the service, and of these, five gave their lives.

The officers of the Chapter follow: Mrs. John C. Ten Eyck, Regent; Mrs. F. A. Crandall, Vice-Regent; Mrs. Paul du Breuil, Recording Secretary; Mrs. Maximilian Grab, Corresponding Secretary; Miss E. P. Hale, Registrar; Mrs. William J. Kraft, Treasurer; Mrs. C. A. Rundall, Assistant Treasurer; Mrs. J. J. Zimmele, Historian; Mrs. A. R. Westcott, Manager.

KITCHING CORPS NO. 229, W. R. C. AUXILIARY OF KITCHING POST, G. A. R.

ALTHOUGH none of the members of Kitching Post were so fortunate as to do service abroad, twenty-five per cent of its members gave sons, husbands, brothers and other male relatives to the cause.

During the Liberty Loan campaigns, the Corps bought $150 worth of bonds. Individual members subscribed for 125 bonds, and sold twenty-five.

The Corps made 250 garments for the Red Cross, assisted with refugee, reclamation and surgical dressings work, and knitted thirty sweaters, socks and helmets.

In March, 1917, the Corps made and sold a quilt for the benefit of the Red Cross. During that month, small American flags were presented to 100 Yonkers drafted men, to cheer them on their way to Camp Upton. During November, donations were sent to the United War Work Campaign, and to the tobacco fund of Company G, at Spartanburg.

On Memorial Day, 1918, the officers and men of the gunboat Wasp, the Home Guard, and the Boy Scouts were guests at a luncheon given by the G. A. R. in the new armory, and served by the Corps members.

One of the Corps members compiled the records for the Yonkers Honor Roll, and three members served on the Mayor's Reception Committee to Returned Veterans.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE PARTY

THE WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE PARTY of Yonkers took complete charge of the military census for the city, as that work in the entire county of Westchester was given to the Suffrage Party. The city was divided into five precincts, supervised from a central office. With the help of canvassers and interpreters in each headquarters, the citizens of Yonkers, including the very large foreign-born element, were successfully enrolled.

The Suffrage Party took a large share in the Liberty Loan and Thrift Stamp campaigns, during which subscriptions were taken at party headquarters. The members of the Executive Board were upon the Executive Committee of the Liberty Loan and Thrift Stamp campaigns in many wards and districts.

The Red Cross drives, and the regular work of the Red Cross were also largely aided. The organization made a specialty of spreading Hoover food messages, and of teaching women how to economize in the use of the materials suggested.

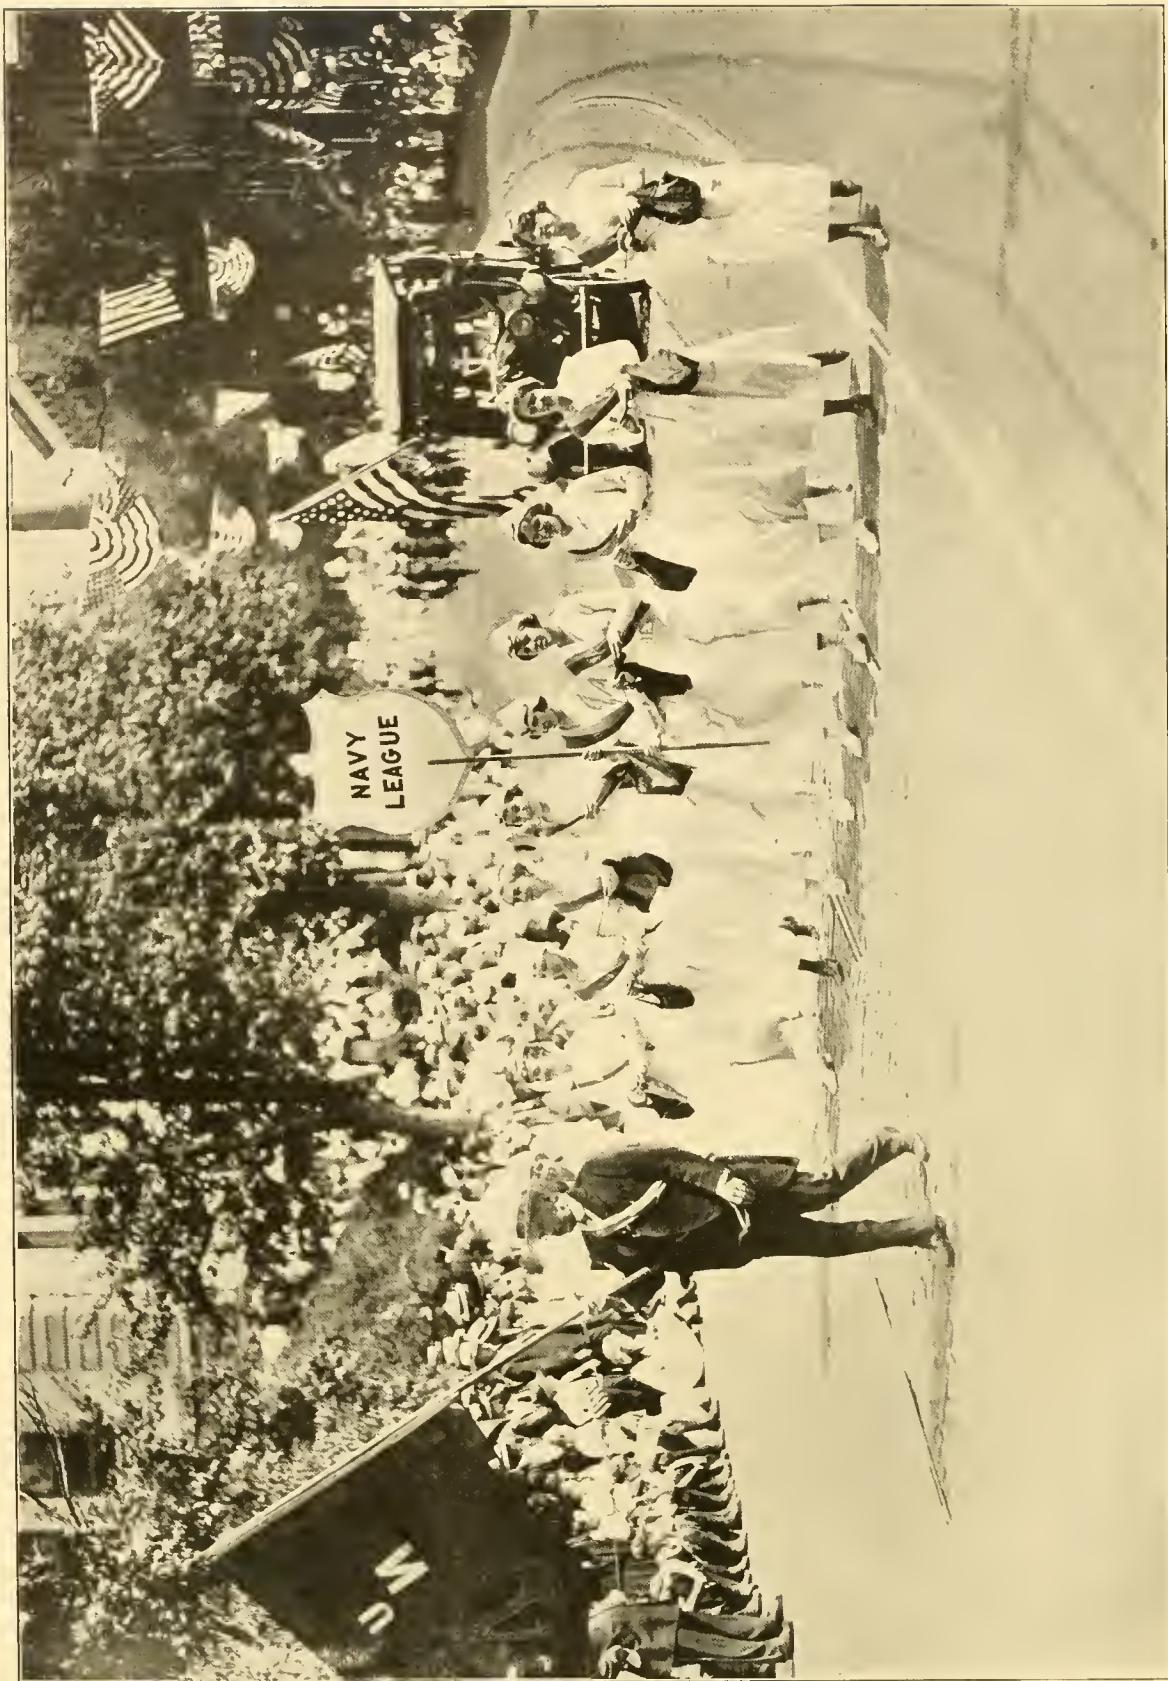

A knitting school was established at headquarters, and yarns were furnished to all women who would learn to knit for soldiers.

Mrs. Bertha Ives was suffrage leader during the war period.

NATIONAL SURGICAL DRESSINGS COMMITTEE YONKERS BRANCH

THE Yonkers Branch of the National Surgical Dressings Committee was started in June, 1916. A building on the grounds of the residence of Mrs. E. J. Elting, 57 Locust Hill Avenue, was converted into a workroom. Many thousands of dressings were made and shipped to French and British hospitals. The work was under the direction of Miss Jean Reid and Miss Laura Elting.

The Otis Auxiliary, composed of girls from the plant of the Otis Manufacturing Company, was started in

NAVY LEAGUE

April, 1917. Between that date and June, 1919, the Auxiliary made 38,697 dressings and articles.

In the spring of 1918, the Yonkers Branch of the National Surgical Dressings Committee merged with the local branch of the Red Cross.

NATIONAL LEAGUE FOR WOMEN'S SERVICE — YONKERS BRANCH

THE Yonkers Branch of the National League for Women's Service was organized in February, 1917, with office room in the Ethan Flagg Building, Getty Square.

Its first work was to secure the registration of the women ready to volunteer their services in times of emergency, and to organize the women in fields of endeavor in which they could give assistance, should the United States enter the war. Thirteen local women's organizations affiliated with the National League.

The Agricultural Committee, Mrs. Peter Fletcher and Miss Jean Reid representing the League, met with the Mayor's Committee in April, 1917, to consider the establishment of war gardens in the city. The League office became a war garden application bureau. With a large force of volunteer woman workers, complete files of property available for gardens, and of individuals desiring plots were arranged. This work was continued in coöperation with the Mayor's Committee for two years.

One hundred and fifty women were trained for canteen service, and taken over by the Red Cross for that work. A motor class was organized. Members of the organization took active part in the preparation of the military census.

A training class for volunteers in social service work was formed, which was conducted by the General Secretary of the Charity Organization Society. The National League awarded a printed certificate to the graduates, who went into the Home Service Section of the Red Cross.

When the news of the Halifax disaster came, six large cases of clothing were packed and shipped, and money was contributed for relief.

During the Liberty Loan drives women of the League were in charge of the hut at the Liberty Theatre, and at Proctor's.

In January, 1918, the National League with other branches throughout the county went to work at Pelham

Bay Canteen, where over 3,000 naval recruits were in training. Yonkers was one of the eight units in the county. Mrs. Peter Fletcher took the chairmanship of this work, and the following served as captains of ten teams each: Miss Leonora Hobart, Mrs. Morton Howard, Mrs. Nathaniel Platt, Mrs. M. D. Howard, Mrs. E. V. Connolly, Miss Mary McElroy, Mrs. Travers D. Carman, Mrs. H. E. Parker, Mrs. Arthur T. Boddington, Miss M. L. Cumming, Miss Helen Kraft, Mrs. William J. Kraft.

YONKERS SUNSHINE SOCIETY

THE YONKERS SUNSHINE SOCIETY was among the first organizations to coöperate in all branches of war work. It had charge of the Red Cross room at the City Hall on Wednesdays. After the Surgical Dressings Department was changed to Manor Hall, the Chairman of the Sunshine Red Cross Committee was director there on Fridays.

Five hundred comfort bags were made, filled, and distributed. Jellies, fruit and magazines were sent to camps and hospitals, while many garments and knitted articles were made by the members and shipped to Europe.

A team of Sunshine workers took part in every war drive and rally. Every officer and member did her duty to help our country and our boys preserve American integrity and honor.

COMFORTS COMMITTEE, U.S. NAVY LEAGUE — YONKERS BRANCH

THIS committee was organized in April, 1917. For nearly two years the committee occupied an office in the Flagg Building, and for four months an office in the Philipsburg Building. These rooms were given through the kindness of Mr. Edward C. Heald and Mr. Anson Baldwin.

The main work of the committee was the knitting of woolen garments and the making of comfort kits for sailors. This work was afterwards extended to cover all branches of the service. Garments are still being made, at the time of publication, for the Seamen's Institute Church Society of New York City.

Over 7,000 knitted garments and kits were completed and distributed. The committee collected several hundred partly worn garments. Most of these were sent to France, but a few were turned over to the Charity Organization Society and to the Salvation Army for the poor of Yonkers. The Yonkers members of the Navy League, for two years, gave money for the support of orphans of French sailors, and sent them Christmas boxes. These children will also be helped in the years to come, unless it be decided otherwise.

The thanks of the branch are due to many citizens of Yonkers for aid in this work. Thirty-six people served in the offices of the branch at various times. One thousand and fourteen furnished knitted articles. The greatest amount of knitting received from any one person came from Mrs. Duncan Smith, a lady over 90 years old, who made knitting for the Navy League her entire war work. She knitted and contributed 89 sweaters.

Various societies coöperated with the branch, either by giving money, or by aiding in the work. Prominent among these were the American Red Cross, the American Fund for French Wounded, Daughters of the American Revolution, the Girls' Friendly Society of St. John's Church, the Girls' Patriotic League, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., No. 9 School, the Otis Red Cross Auxiliary, Red Cross Units of the Presbyterian Church, the Saunders Trade School, Temple Emanu-El, the Sunday School of the Nepperhan Baptist Church, the Suffrage Association, the Tuesday Club, the Women's Auxiliary of Company G, and the Young Women's Hebrew Association.

A gift of $350 was received from the City of Yonkers with which wool for knitting was bought. In addition to this, the city authorized two tag days, and considerable money was raised by women who organized parties at which funds were collected for the branch. The entire amount of money expended by the Comforts Committee was slightly over $6,000. In June, 1919, its war work completed, the office of the Branch was closed.

OFFICERS

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE

THE trustees of the Woman's Institute gladly gave the use of rooms rent free to various war work organizations. This meant as well the use of the telephone and facilities for making afternoon tea. These organizations were: Lady Borden Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the British Empire, American Fund for French Wounded, Needlework Guild, Comforts Committee of Christian Scientists, Red Cross Home Nursing Classes, Headquarters for the War Camp Community Service, Girls' Division, Headquarters of the War Work Canteen of the National League for Women's Service, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Niagara Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the British Empire.

NOTE. Miss Susie L. Heermance, First Vice President, and Miss Pauline Heermance resigned their posts with the Institute to go overseas with the Y. M. C. A.

WOMAN'S INSTITUTE CLUB

THE Woman's Institute Club, a department of the Woman's Institute, took an active part in the war work of Yonkers. The club supplied workers for the theatres in all the drives, and organized a class in Red Cross home nursing and first aid. Assistance in surgical work was also given.

The club gave its large room to the Red Cross home nursing classes. Twelve classes, with twenty-one sessions, weekly, were held for nearly a year.

The club purchased two Liberty bonds, was represented in the various patriotic demonstrations, and organized a group of hostesses for dances and receptions given to service men.

Contributions were sent to the Serbian Relief, and Red Cross memberships were increased through the club's activities.

OFFICERS FOR 1917-1918

Mrs. Earl P. Lasher, President; Miss Ethel V. Lewis, First Vice President; Miss Agnes Simpson, Second Vice President; Miss Adele E. Pearson, Secretary; Miss Margaret Conley, Treasurer; Miss Estelle Schall, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

YONKERS YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

WHEN the news first came that two hundred or more men were immediate neighbors, the Young Women's Christian Association realized that something must be done! Of course the girls would flock, and of course the girls and men would flock together, and how the inevitable might be tactfully managed so that the right people should meet each other was our problem.

THE SAUNDERS TRADE SCHOOL

FOREIGN-BORN CITIZENS IN PARADE

First of all the Y. W. C. A. collected the girls, and announced the formation of a Hostess Club to which all girls over eighteen who wished to entertain our soldier neighbors during the summer might belong. The invitation was made very general, and about a hundred girls responded. For three hot summer evenings, a wise woman physician (supplied by the Commission on Social Morality) talked to these girls on constructive patriotism, and hospitality.

Each Tuesday evening the Hostess Club entertained anywhere from eighty to two hundred men at the Hostess House at 87 South Broadway. A group of older women acted as chaperones. The girls wore a "uniform" consisting of a middy blouse and white or blue skirt and a red armband. These Tuesday evenings were not alike, but the Secretary in charge always had in her mind a definite program of games for a large group; "stunts" for a few; folk dances and a limited amount of social dancing, which could be adapted as the evening progressed. An interesting fact was the preference of most of the crowd for games with "snap" rather than for dancing, although dancing is what they talked about.

The other feature of the Hostess Club plan was the informal Sunday suppers. A general invitation was issued through the local press to the churches to volunteer to serve supper at the Y. M. C. A. Building, and the response was immediate and hearty. The plan was for the ladies of whatever church was responsible for that particular Sunday to serve an attractive and abundant supper at small tables in the gymnasium, using a selected number of the club girls as hostesses, one for each table, usually. After supper everyone helped clear away the dishes and push back the tables, and then the majority of the men stayed for an evening of general singing and sociability, with a short program of special music, and often a brief talk.

The Y. W. C. A. threw open its doors to the women friends and relatives of the men, and the hostesses were delighted to be able to be of some real "Hostess House" service.

The building belonging to the Association at 27 South Broadway was given as a headquarters to the Yonkers Branch of the American Red Cross. It was so used for many months, and when it was vacated for larger space, the Red Cross Canteen was established there for a year. This building was also used as Knights of Columbus headquarters during their war fund drive, and by the Women's Committee of the Liberty Loan during the First Liberty Loan drive.

The Association Building at 87 South Broadway was used by the Salvation Army for its drives. The very closest coöperation was carried on between this organization and the Association.

As its contribution to the War Camp Community Service, the Y. W. C. A. gave the secretary a home for three months. The use of the Girls' Club room of the Y. W. C. A. was given to the Red Cross Canteen, which prepared three meals a day there for the soldiers at Saunders Trade School.

Surgical dressings classes were held weekly. Units for making refugee and hospital garments were organized. War drives always found the Y. W. C. A. participating actively.

The Association realized early, that with the withdrawal of so many wage-earners, there would be a call upon the women left behind, to assist in supporting their families. It opened a Women's Exchange, and many women were helped to find self-supporting employment during the two years of operation.

All the Board members and the staff gave freely of time and effort. Three members of the Board of Directors lost sons in the war. This did not in any way change their fields of usefulness, as they continued to work all the more earnestly. They felt then, that there was a double duty to carry on the work so early laid down by those beloved sons. The Association also felt the real call of war when the General Secretary and the Girls' Work Secretary were released, the former to become Girls' Work Secretary of the National Y. W. C. A., and the latter to go overseas.

Mrs. John C. Ten Eyck, President; Miss Lillian M. Clark, Vice President; Mrs. A. C. Dodge, Vice President; Mrs. A. M. Palmer, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. E. R. Holden, Secretary; Mrs. George S. Prince, Treasurer; Mrs. F. A. Winslow, Finance Chairman.

SECRETARIES: Miss Helen Sanders, General Secretary, Miss Helen Price, Girls' Work.

YONKERS YOUNG WOMEN'S HEBREW ASSOCIATION

THE local Young Women's Hebrew Association coöperated with the various branches of work conducted by the National League for Women's Service, as well as the War Camp Community Service. The majority of its members enrolled in both these organizations. They served on canteen duty at various cantonments and studied various trades, such as telegraphy and office methods, in case they were called for emergency work in camps.

The activities of Y. M. H. A. girls were greatly amplified in the extensive Red Cross work which they entered. The majority of the senior members are the proud possessors of the small Red Cross, designating at least fifteen hours of work for the American Red Cross.

Association members used every spare moment of their time, often while riding to and from their homes, to knit sweaters, scarfs, wristlets, and helmets for service men. During the influenza epidemic, they made gauze masks and sickroom requisites under Red Cross direction. Slings and bandages, for soldiers, and booties and quilts for the babies of the other side, were also made.

Block parties, amusements, home dinners, and rides were planned for the soldiers stationed at the Saunders Trade School. One very large party was given by the Y. M. C. A. in conjunction with the Girls' Social Service League, at the clubhouse of the Y. M. H. A. About 150 soldiers attended. Refreshments, tobacco and cigarettes were passed about. The evening was voted a great success, and the soldiers gave the verdict that the Yonkers way was the best way of entertaining they had met since leaving their home towns.

YONKERS DETACHMENT OF THE WESTCHESTER COUNTY RED CROSS MOTOR CORPS

THE Yonkers Detachment of the Red Cross Motor Corps was organized in May, 1918, under the Chairman of Military Relief in Yonkers, Mrs. Walter Hodgman, and the Assistant Director of Motor Corps Service of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross, Dr. Dorothy Smyley, Commander.

The Yonkers Detachment was composed of twenty-five members. This number included ambulance drivers and members who drove their own cars, but were not in ambulance service.

In August, 1918, the Yonkers Lodge of Elks presented to the Detachment a Ford ambulance and blankets, and in September, the Hillview Auxiliary of the Yonkers Branch presented another Ford and blankets. A Ford station wagon was bought by a number of interested people, and in October, Mrs. George P. Butler lent a Cadillac ambulance to be used during the war, in memory of her husband, George Prentiss Butler. Several members operated their own cars at personal expense, in this way contributing most generously to the cause. Mr. Ralph Hibbard and Mr. William Shrive gave free use of their garages, as well as oil and gasoline at cost price. Mrs. George Butler also gave her garage, while Mr. Taussig supplied the cars with chains.

During August, 1918, the Yonkers Detachment drilled, in Central Park, the Y. M. C. A. men who were going overseas.

In September, 1918, seven members of the Yonkers Detachment, with an ambulance, were ordered to the State Fair at Hartford, Conn., to give exhibition drills and to handle emergency cases at the fair. The Detachment was there three days; gave stretcher drills twice a day, and transported its first patient to a local hospital. A detachment from New Rochelle relieved the Yonkers contingent.

The Yonkers Detachment transported supplies from White Plains to the workrooms of the Yonkers Branch of the Red Cross, and distributed the work to the various auxiliaries. It carried canteen workers to the Bryn Mawr canteen. Yonkers and Dobbs Ferry canteen workers were transported every week to and from General Hospital

No. 38 at Eastview from February, 1919, until July, 1919. During the summer of 1918, the Reclamation Garments sent to Yonkers by the government for repair were transported to the local schools.

The Motor Corps assisted in all the war work drives. At Christmas, 1918, its cars were used to distribute dinners for the Salvation Army and the Red Cross. Over fifty stockings were filled by contributions and taken to the Red Cross House at General Hospital No. 1, Gun Hill Road.

On September 29, 1918, the Yonkers Detachment received the first call for the influenza epidemic, from the Yonkers Armory, where United States soldiers were stationed. Many patients were removed to the Contagious Hospital, and physicians transported there. District nurses were carried from place to place in the city. Calls were answered for the Yonkers Homeopathic Hospital and for Fordham Hospital, where day and night shifts were on duty.

In the meantime, the Army called upon the Red Cross for assistance, and the Corps was ordered to General Hospital No. 1, U.S.A., on Gun Hill Road, where it was stationed for five months. Members of the Corps were on duty at the Perth Amboy catastrophe several days, and also at Bayshore, Long Island, during the grounding of the transport Great Northern.

The Yonkers Detachment also functioned under the Port of Embarkation of the U.S. Army. The first transportation of wounded soldiers took place while the Detachment was stationed at General Hospital No. 1, Gun Hill. From October, 1918, until August 1918, it was busy attending to port calls. Patients were carried to General Hospital No. 1, Greenhuts, Debarkation 3, Grand Central Palace, Debarkation 5, Polyclinic, Camp Merritt, Messiah Home and General Hospital No. 38 at Eastview. Yonkers also assisted in the transfer of patients from the Tarrytown railroad station to Eastview, as well as in the evacuation of Eastview. Many patients were transferred from one hospital to another.

Over 1,200 patients were carried to or from hospitals. This does not include the influenza patients, or recreation and parade work. The total mileage made by the Corps cars is over 30,000.

The Westchester County Motor Corps went upon the reserve list September 15, 1919. The equipment of the Corps was disposed of as follows. The Hillview Auxiliary ambulance was sold June, 1919. Two hundred dollars of the proceeds was given to the Yonkers Branch of the Red Cross. The balance was used for equipment. The Elks ambulance, which was converted into a touring car in April, 1919, the body having been given by the Atlantic Division, was presented to the Home Service Section of the Westchester County Red Cross to be used in the Yonkers District. The Ford station wagon bought by private subscription, was given to the Yonkers Branch, and the Cadillac was returned to Mrs. Butler.

PART IV

YONKERS CHURCHES IN WAR WORK

THE CHURCHES OF YONKERS IN THE WORLD WAR

FROM the spirit that the churches instilled into the hearts of the men and women of Yonkers, came into being legions of Soldiers for the Right, men who went out to fight and women who placed their hearts and hands into the great services of the war.

God is very closely woven into the hearts of men and women whose lot is cast for battle. The soldier in the fierce heat of conflict, imminently facing death, and the prospect of meeting his maker, looks to God for hope, and the sign of success. Faith, then, meets one of its greatest tests. To God's agencies here on earth is confided part of the task of keeping that faith intact.

During the dark days of war, Yonkers churches of all creeds and denominations kept alive in the hearts of its citizens, that spiritual attitude which looked to the Creator for aid, and to Him for Victory for the Right.

The men who were unable to go to the battlefields participated with all their hearts in the war work at home. They led the great drives that furnished the resources of war, and they became hosts to the service men training at Yonkers. The women of the churches formed auxiliaries within the church congregations, which worked hand in hand with the relief and war work agencies in the city. The city's ministers, almost in a solid body, became Four Minute Speakers who spread Democracy's doctrine far and wide from every city rostrum.

When the Victors returned, there was rejoicing in church, chapel and synagogue. Wherever Yonkers men gathered to worship God, there were prayers of Thanksgiving heard. Dignified tablets of bronze installed on the walls of most of the Yonkers churches, reflect the gratitude and reverence of fellow-worshippers for those who were chosen as the instruments of Victory. And stars of gold adorn the names of those who went, and returned, not to earth, but to Heaven.

BAPTIST CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER

THE church flag bears thirty-eight stars, representing soldiers, sailors and several Red Cross nurses and Y. M. C. A. workers.

A war service committee of eight men and women of the congregation had charge of all war work of the church. This committee was assisted in the drives by a special Liberty Loan Committee, and also by its pastor, who was one of the Four Minute Men.

The women sewed and prepared bandages and surgical dressings in the church parlors, or at Manor Hall. Two of the women regularly assisted in packing Red Cross supplies for overseas.

As the church is located but a short distance from Van Cortlandt Park, where for some time there was an army camp and drill field, many men in uniform found their way to Sunday Services. These were afterward entertained at dinner in the homes of church families. Motherly women, anxious still further to extend their hospitality, sent all manner of table delicacies to neighboring camps and canteens.

Thus, wherever opportunity offered, the material and spiritual resources of the church were used freely to promote the well-being of those in service, and to render devoted and patriotic service to the nation.

BRYN MAWR PARK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Pastor: THE REV. A. RAYMOND ECKELS

BRYN MAWR PARK PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, in common with all the other churches of Yonkers, took a definite patriotic stand throughout the war.

Twenty-six young men went into the service from the church, and two died while serving their country, one on the field of battle in France.

The women of the church were active in Red Cross work.

The pastor served in the Y. M. C. A., in camps, and in France, while Mrs. Eckels assisted in the war work of the Y. W. C. A.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor: JOHN HENRY DAY

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH is young in years, and its membership is small, but from the time that war was declared, to the day of the armistice, its activities were devoted without stint to the nation's cause.

The service flag of the church bears twelve stars. Eight young men saw service overseas. Three won commissions, and three, including the former pastor, were in Y. M. C. A. service in France.

In April, 1918, the Women's Society of the church began the work of preparing hospital supplies. The records of the society tell the tale of untiring faithfulness in this service of practical helpfulness throughout the war.

Meetings in the interest of the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army, United War Work, Liberty Loans and War Savings Stamps campaigns were held in the church, and to these the parishioners gave and subscribed generously.

The pastor served as a Four Minute Man, as a speaker for the Y. M. C. A., to soldiers and sailors at their posts in the vicinity, and also, under leave of absence granted by the church, acted as Director of Religious Work for the Y. M. C. A. at Camp Dix, New Jersey.

CENTRAL METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Pastor: THE REV. M. WILSON

WHEN the call for service came, Central M. E. Church threw itself whole-heartedly into the struggle. Sixty-three of her finest young men saw service. Four paid the supreme price, giving their lives that their country might endure.

One of the young women of the church saw service as a hospital nurse. The pastor himself was released from his duties in the church, that he might serve overseas. He spent six months in Y. M. C. A. work. One other church member went into this service also.

The women at home organized a unit of the Westchester Chapter of the Red Cross: and from June, 1917, until the demand for their service ceased, they gave their whole-souled devotion to this work. They made over two thousand hospital garments. During the influenza epidemic they provided handkerchiefs and bedroom slippers for the soldiers quartered in the armory.

At Christmas, there were sent to all men in service, boxes of goodies. Fifteen hundred dollars was raised for Red Cross work by the women.

The men forced to remain at home entered with great spirit into all of the drives, and helped entertain the men in service who found their way into contact with the church. The men of Central Brotherhood, on a number of occasions, entertained service men in the church parlors. Besides this they acted as hosts to a dozen or more service men every Sunday.

DAYSPRING PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Pastor: THE REV. WILLIAM CRAWFORD

BEFORE war with Germany had been declared, two young men of the church, who were brothers, crossed the sea to England, and joined the British forces. Both saw hard service and one of them paid with his life for the cause of humanity.

An indication of the spirit of the church is that every man volunteered for service. Fifty of her young men donned the uniform. They were in all branches of military endeavor. One had the thrilling experience of being aboard the Mount Vernon when she was torpedoed. One received a decoration for bravery from the hands of the King of England. Another received a citation and a decoration from the Italian government for the share he had in the naval battle of Derazzo, while he was serving on the sub-chaser No. 115. This was the only officially recorded naval battle in which the United States participated during the war.

One of the women of the congregation was a Red Cross nurse in the emergency hospitals overseas. Before the United States had entered the war, and long afterward, the ladies of Kings Daughters, the Missionary Society and Christian Endeavor met day after day, and ceaselessly sewed, knitted and cooked for the boys in service.

The pastor was a Four Minute speaker. The War Work Committee, composed of members of all the church branches, collected $240 for the Red Cross, sold $3,800 worth of Liberty bonds, and raised about $300 for the United War Work Drive, despite the fact that many of the members of the congregation had already subscribed for these various causes through other channels. The Athletic Club, composed of men too young for service, bought two Liberty bonds and presented them to the church trustees.

When the service men came home, they received a royal welcome, and a supper was tendered them at which each one was presented with a framed certificate suitably engraved, stating that they had participated in the World War.

There are fifty-eight stars on the Church Honor Roll, and one gold star.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Pastor: THE REV. WENDELL PRIME KEELER

Two members of the First Presbyterian Church had already given their lives for the Allied cause on the field of battle before the United States entered the war. They were volunteers in the British Army. One was killed in the Battle of the Somme, and the other in the second Battle of Ypres. Their voluntary interest was indicative of the keen loyalty manifested by members of this church from the beginning of the war.

When America entered the war, 115 men volunteered for service. Five others went overseas, three as Y. M. C. A. hut-workers, and two as Red Cross nurses.

Nine service men made the supreme sacrifice, all killed in action or dying as the result of wounds. Fifty men of the congregation won commissions, so that at the close of the war, the church Honor Roll included one Colonel, six Majors, twelve Captains, twenty-five Lieutenants and six Ensigns. Six men were honored by French citations for valor, and six others received United States citations for distinguished service.

Meanwhile, those who remained at home were showing an equal patriotism. The women of the church organized a Red Cross unit early in the year. Sewing meetings were held at least twice weekly for two years, and immense quantities of materials were turned out.

The Men's Association appointed a committee on patriotic service which led and inspired the church in various forms of war work, being active in all of the war drives. The committee also arranged during several months to bring soldiers in automobiles from near-by camps and training schools to the Sunday morning service, after which they were entertained by church families at dinner, and given a pleasant home Sunday.

In the summer of 1918, 250 soldiers stationed at Yonkers for special technical training were quartered in the armory. This gave the church its opportunity for a more intimate kind of service. The social rooms of the church were fitted up as club rooms, with billiard and pool tables. Writing equipment, books, games and a victrola were placed in a large, attractively furnished room, and the men were invited to make the freest possible use of it. This they did, at an average of about fifty men an afternoon.

A committee of men and women of the church was present each evening to add to the sociability of the rooms, and at least once a week, refreshments were served. On special occasions, more elaborate entertainments for as many as 200 men were provided. A Soldiers' Bible Class was formed.

The church service flag, with its 120 white stars, and its nine gold stars, has been permanently installed in an honored place on the wall of the church, and a memorial tablet has been placed in the church vestibule.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH OF THE REDEEMER

NINETEEN of the members of this church were enlisted in the ranks of the army and navy. Of these, fourteen saw active service in France, and four were wounded in action. Six received commissions, one was in the air service, and two were in the S. A. T. C. The pastor of the church enlisted as a chaplain, and continued in the regular army after the war had ended.

The women of the church organized a chapter of the Red Cross and assisted at Headquarters, turning out many pieces of clothing and surgical dressings. The young people of the Sunday School collected funds to buy a Liberty bond of the Third Loan.

The men took part in the various drives, and kept contact with those who went to war. Each one who was away was kept supplied with comforts, and was sent a gift box at Christmas.

The Young People's Organization prepared a suitable honor roll and a service flag, which has been hung in the meeting room of the church. Various patriotic services were held at the request of the war-time organizations.

A fitting welcome at a public service was extended the service men at their return.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Pastor: LEWIS E. CHRISTIAN

FROM the beginning of the war, this church evinced a keen interest in every phase of war work. The challenge and the joy of the congregation were enlistment, if not in the main departments of service, in the various branches carried on at home.

The honor roll numbered twenty-six, with one gold star. One of the young women of the church, as a Y. M. C. A. worker, achieved unusual success in work among the coolie laborers of wartime France. One service man received decorations from both the United States and French governments, winning a Croix de Guerre.

The Social Hall of the church was fitted up as a club room for soldiers stationed in the armory. Books, games, a phonograph and writing tables were supplied. Members of the congregation were in constant attendance. On special occasions, entertainments were given, and refreshments were served. Many of the men were entertained in the homes of church members.

Red Cross meetings were held in the church one day a week, and sewing was done for military hospitals and also for refugees. When the coal shortage compelled the curtailing of the meetings in the church, two homes were opened and the work continued there.

At Christmas, each year, stockings were filled for the children of soldiers. Six of the women qualified as directresses of surgical dressings, and four of them were on active duty until Manor Hall closed its doors to this work. The Women's Society of the church was among the first to form an evening class in the making of surgical dressings. Several of the women worked in the Red Cross Lunch Room, and others assisted at canteens. The women of the church auxiliary assisted in the reclamation work at School No. 6. The church was well represented at the collection centre, when the time came to send Christmas boxes to the men overseas.

One of the men in the congregation served as Chairman of the Committee on Military Relief from June, 1917, until the close of the war; as Chairman of the Committee for the Collection of Nuts and Pits (used in chemical warfare service throughout a district comprising several counties); as Chairman of the Committee for the Relief of Indigent Soldiers and Sailors; and as County Chairman of Reclamation Work.

FIRST UNITARIAN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

As soon as our country entered the war, the First Unitarian Church responded to the full measure of its ability. Eight young men of the congregation, practically all that were eligible, entered the various branches of the service, and a large proportion went overseas. The roll includes one major, one captain and one lieutenant. The last named lost his life in battle in France.

Throughout the war, several of the young women of the church were in Motor Corps and Red Cross work, distinguishing themselves by their services. The women met weekly at the church, and turned out large quantities of clothing.

A memorial tablet to the service men has been installed in the vestibule of the church.

MESSIAH BAPTIST CHURCH

Pastor: THE REV. S. W. SMITH

THE MESSIAH BAPTIST CHURCH gave to the country's service in the late war, twenty-four boys, all willing and ready to defend its honor. The young men returned safely, except one who died on the way overseas. One was wounded severely, being distinguished for his acts of valor and deeds of bravery.

The church gave two splendid women to the service. Mrs. Emily Brown had charge of the Hostess House at Camp Upton, and later at Camp Dix, and Miss Clarissa Gwathmey served at Camp Sherman, Ohio, as assistant staff member and cashier in the Y. W. C. A. War Council.

While the young men were away, those left were holding the ropes. Mrs. Mary Howard, at the solicitation of the pastor, organized the 32d unit of the Welfare League. This organization was particularly concerned with the 367th Infantry. It assisted in the maintenance of the Soldiers' Home, and raised $100 for an auditorium at Camp Upton.

Magazines were sent to camps, and amounts of money were assigned to families of soldiers. The Girls' Squad No. 1 made trench candles and knitted sweaters and socks. The Good Cheer Committee sent letters to wounded and homesick soldiers. The Comfort Kit Committee furnished kits to the second and third draft contingents from Yonkers. The unit sent fruits, candies, jellies and smokes to the Haywood Canteen and the Base Hospital, and gave liberally toward the Christmas Tree Fund.

The church is the proud possessor of a splendid service flag containing twenty-four stars, presented by the girls.

MORSEMORE M. E. CHURCH

Pastor: REV. J. W. JOHNSTON

THE MORSEMORE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH sent ten young men into the country's service. Practically all branches of the service were represented, and one man saw action in Siberia with the Canadian forces. All returned safely.

The women of the church enthusiastically attended two first aid classes which were established for their benefit. The Ladies' Aid Society made hospital garments for the Red Cross, while the young people enacted a play for the Red Cross' benefit.

War drives and subscription campaigns found the members of the church always putting forth their best efforts.

PARK HILL REFORMED CHURCH

Pastor: REV. A. I. MANN

THE PARK HILL REFORMED CHURCH was from the first unhesitating in her loyalty to and enthusiasm for God and country, in the supreme call which the war presented.

Forty-three of her men were enrolled in the military service. Three died on the battlefield, and when the sad news of their death came, the entire congregation joined in a solemn memorial service held in the church auditorium. The church further honored her brave sons by placing upon the wall a beautiful service flag with white stars for service, and gold ones for supreme sacrifice.

Those of the church who were destined to stay at home, also made their sacrifices. Committees were appointed from the consistory and the Men's Association, to keep in touch with service men. Every appeal from the war organizations met with liberal response from the congregation.

The women of the church were exceedingly occupied all through the war. One was a member of the first war work committee called by the Mayor. Some gathered from week to week in the various homes, to sew and knit, before there was any organized effort in that direction. Later, they, with others, became known as the Unity Circle of the Red Cross. Unity Circle met once a week, at first in the church, and later in the Red Cross Headquarters near Manor House Square.

The Motor Corps, too, drew some of its membership from Park Hill Reformed Church. The Kings Daughters Society gave its services to the Red Cross in a body during wartime.

The Young Women's Auxiliary excelled in sewing articles for the refugees of the war-stricken areas. It was due to the efforts of the Auxiliary that a subscription was begun, the proceeds of which purchased a bronze memorial tablet for the vestibule of the church. This tablet was unveiled at a ceremony on Memorial Day, 1920.

SACRED HEART CHURCH

REV. JOHN O'DONOVAN, Rector

THE SACRED HEART CHURCH and the church societies worked for the success of war activities with motives described by the pastor as "motives higher than those of personal gratification."

The members of the church contributed $1,400 to one of the Knights of Columbus drives to relieve the wants of soldiers.

The knitting society sent eighteen trunks of stockings, sweaters and other comforts to various camps. These were valued at $150 each. The church also gave $125 worth of linens and towels to the Red Cross.

SOUTH YONKERS PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Pastor: REV. A. M. PORTER

HERE we have the story of a pastor who preached so well, that he preached himself out of a congregation. The Rev. A. M. Porter was actively engaged in all kinds of home service from the very inception of the war. He was pastor of one of the very largest churches in Halifax, Canada, when war was first declared. There he was a prime factor in urging men to enlist. So many went that his congregation was very much depleted. The pastor then resigned in order to make possible a union of his congregation with another in the same city.

When he became pastor of South Yonkers Presbyterian, he carried with him his old enthusiasm, and encouraged and aided his congregation to further the success of American arms in every way.

Twenty-six men of the church enlisted in various branches of the service, so that when the draft came, there was none left to be drafted. A number were wounded and gassed, but all returned home safely. Two young women served in the Ambulance Corps, and a third went into Y. M. C. A. work overseas.

As early as 1915, before the country entered the war, a number of women of the South Yonkers Presbyterian Church were actively engaged in war relief work. Some attended meetings of British Societies, where bandages were rolled, knitting done, and hospital garments made.

A group under the leadership of one of the church members became affiliated with the National Surgical Dressings Committee of New York, and thousands of dressings were shipped monthly. A few months after the United States entered the war, another group of workers, composed of mothers whose sons had enlisted, met each Wednesday at the home of the leader to make hospital supplies. The women soon realized that one day a week was not enough to carry on their increasing work, so the King's Daughters and the girls and boys from the Sunday School joined in the work.

The Red Cross Unit met at church each Tuesday to sew garments.

A bronze tablet and Honor Roll has been placed in the church auditorium, a memorial of the noble deeds and heroic service of her gallant men and boys.

SAINT ANDREWS MEMORIAL CHURCH

REV. FRANCES T. BROWN, Rector

SAINT ANDREWS MEMORIAL CHURCH sent 142 of her sons and daughters to war. A high percentage volunteered at the outbreak of hostilities. Seventy-one became officers; seventeen were wounded or gassed. Three were among the survivors of the President Lincoln. One was a survivor of the U.S.S. California. One was cited, winning the Croix de Guerre with a silver star. Another winner of the Croix de Guerre was cited at Verdun and the Somme. Five men were killed in action or died of wounds.

The first Yonkers officer killed in action was on St. Andrews Honor Roll. He was Lieutenant Wilmer K. Bodenstab, who fell at the head of his men in the storming of Cantigny by the 27th Division. Two months later, his closest chum, Lieutenant Otis B. Thomas, who had been his colleague in St. Andrews Young Men's Civic League, lost his life, and in their honor the Bodenstab-Thomas Post of the American Legion has been named.

The St. Andrews service flag was dedicated together with an engrossed Honor Roll at a special service in the church on February 10, 1918. The address was given by the Hon. Charles S. Whitman, Governor of New York. The permanent Honor Roll, a beautiful bronze tablet, was dedicated Easter Sunday, 1920. The tablet is the gift of St. Andrews Red Cross Auxiliary, whose devoted work throughout the war, summer and winter, expressed the loyalty that pervaded the church.

In every way that loyalty was evinced. The women of the church were engaged in all forms of war activity, including Motor Corps service. The men held frequent patriotic forums, and they were well represented in the South Yonkers Home Guard. The parishioners joined from time to time in bringing men from the various camps to church service, and taking them afterwards to their homes. Like hospitality was extended on holiday occasions to numbers of service men designated by the War Camp Community Service in New York.

The rector took part in the various Liberty Loan and war drives, sending out many letters and speaking on public occasions. Great response was his reward. Special patriotic services were arranged in accordance with every request of the government. The colors of the Allies, together with the Stars and Stripes, were frequently displayed in the church, and hung from the tower, while the great events and celebrations of the war were marked by the ringing from St. Andrews chimes of our patriotic airs.

and hymns. To many a home in South Yonkers, these chimes brought the first news of ended hostilities, and their music voiced the heart of the community in a doxology to the Giver of Victory and Peace.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

REV. JOHN MARK ERICSSON, RECTOR

THE spirit in which St. John's Church entered the war on Good Friday, 1917, is crystallized in the message of its pastor on the eve of Holy Week in 1917, while the entrance of the United States into the World War was still hanging in the balance. In part of that message he said:

Never before, in our experience at least, has the world struggle between the powers of light and darkness, of death and resurrection taken on so definite and menacing a form as to-day. If we believe in the Captain of our Salvation as the Prince of Peace, whose life and death were given to guide our steps in the way of righteousness and peace (and since we have seen that that way lay along a life of service and self-denial, and finally along the Via Dolorosa), we can not turn away now without a conscious refusal to follow where he has led the way."

There were no divided counsels in the hearts and minds of the parish. The nation's flag, and with it, the flags of the Allies were installed in the forefront of the worshipping congregation, and became thenceforth the visible symbol of the day's work and devotion.

The parish gave 164 members to the service, mostly volunteers who had long waited for the opportunity. One-fourth of the list won commissions. These included one colonel, three majors, eight captains and sixteen lieutenants. Citations, distinguished service badges, and other high honors spell their records.

The work of the Red Cross enlisted the active coöperation of practically all the working forces of the various societies for women and girls. Probably not less than a thousand members were engaged in some sort of war service.

The Parish House and grounds, centrally located on Getty Square, were at the service of recruiting and the war drives committees. Suppers were served to near-by groups of service men.

Public services on Sundays, holy days and special occasions were made to respond on the note with which we entered the war. When cunning propaganda was at work sowing the seed of suspicion and discontent among the Allies, speakers were introduced who would counteract this influence. Sometimes this ran counter to the customary use of the pulpit in this church, but it was recognized that the nation was at war, and special emergencies required special treatment.

Thus the pulpit was sometimes occupied by laymen and soldiers, as, for instance, when a notable address was made by J. Milton State, a Canadian Army recruiting officer. Disquieting rumors were at one time rife concerning the revolt of India, reflecting on the character of our ally, Great Britain. Mr. Rustum Rustumjee, well-known publicist and editor of Bombay, India, a Parsee, gave a splendid refutation of this error.

SAINT PAUL'S CHURCH

REV. DR. WILLIAM M. GILBERT

FIFTY-SEVEN men of the church were in war service, and three gave their lives.

The women were very active in relief work during the war, both in the Saint Paul's branch of the Red Cross and in the various civic organizations.

The church contributed liberally to the numerous demands made by the nation for funds for active service.

SAINT PETER'S

REV. JAMES J. BROWN

ST. PETER'S BRANCH of the Red Cross did sewing and bandage work. The women of St. Peter's also assisted in canteen work at Yonkers and Pelham Bay.

ST. JOSEPH'S ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH had 450 men in the military service. Fifteen of these died in the service, in battle, from wounds, and other causes. Six received wounds in action.

The church gave rooms and working quarters to St. Camilla's Branch of the Red Cross. Fifty-five women of the parish were employed in the philanthropic work of knitting and sewing all kinds of soldier comforts.

The church participated actively in all local drives and rallies. Over $20,000 was raised in one week for the Knights of Columbus War Work.

The church hall was always given for all kinds of patriotic meetings and rallies. Prayers were offered at all masses, for the success of American arms and a just peace.

SAINT MARY'S

T. J. MURPHY, Rector

"WE kept no record of our various activities during the war," says the report sent to the Memorial Volume by this church. "We just jumped in and did our best, and forgot about it."

TEMPLE EMANU-EL

JACOB TARSHISH, M. A., Rabbi

BESIDES contributing to the life-blood of the war, the congregation of Temple Emanu-El headed every call for economy and conservation. Several members served on the Selective Instruction Board. The president of the temple in September, 1918, offered his services to the United States Food Administration at Washington. They were eagerly accepted.

As a tribute to the work done for the Red Cross by Temple Emanu-El, its president was appointed a member-at-large of the Executive Committee of the Yonkers Branch. Troop 15, Boy Scouts, of the temple always played a prominent part in drives and meetings.

The woman's association of the temple, the Emanu-El Sisterhood, was one of the first women's organizations to pitch into Red Cross work, setting aside two days a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, from ten in the morning until five in the afternoon.

In the summer of 1918, the Sisterhood gave a supper to the enlisted and drafted men. In November of the same year, the organization sent milk and eggs to service men convalescing from influenza. They also arranged functions to raise money for the various war rallies and drives.

Committees were appointed to serve refreshments to the men at near-by hospitals, and when the war ceased, to welcome the return of the veterans. This latter committee helped to rebuild Bryn Mawr canteen, which had been destroyed by fire.

Unusual results attended the holding of the various Liberty Loan drives in the temple. On April 21, 1918, in the temple-auditorium, $260,000 worth of bonds for the Third Liberty Loan was sold in thirty minutes, more than any sum raised before that time in any single meeting in the city.

With this remarkable record, when the Fourth Liberty Loan came, $315,000 was subscribed for in a temple meeting. The sum thus raised so stimulated the rest of the community that it brought the entire campaign to an early close.

However, all records were broken in the Victory Loan. On April 27, 1919, a meeting at the temple yielded, amid the wildest enthusiasm, $510,000, bringing the drive to a close in ten days, instead of two weeks.

Fifteen men of Temple Emanu-El saw military service.

A word must be said in praise of the work and leadership of the temple rabbi, Dr. Gabriel Schulman. He was the inspirer of many noble deeds, and himself gave freely of his time and energy in welfare work at the State Military Training Camp at Peekskill, and at the Gun Hill Base Hospital.

WARBURTON AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. JOEL BYRON SLOCUM, D.D.

DURING the period of the war, the Warburton Avenue Baptist Church made enthusiastic efforts to assist the government.

The service flag that hung above the portal of the church during the war, contained fifty-seven stars, one of which gained a distinguished service medal, and two of which turned golden.

The Red Cross Auxiliary of the Woman's Guild enlisted the services of a large number of women of the congregation, who met each week in the church for sewing, and twice each week at the Manor House for the preparation of surgical dressings. Their devoted efforts, through the entire period of the war, resulted in the contributions of many articles, such as pajamas, sweaters, socks, wristlets, helmets, comfort kits, Testaments (given by the Bible school) and other comforts.

The pastor gave unsparingly of his time and strength to the great cause, through the regular appointments of the church in all its departments. He delivered numerous patriotic sermons and special addresses within and without the parish. He wrote personal letters to those at the front and in camps. He made public appeals through the press, and used his personal influence during the Liberty Loan drives. In all this, he was heartily supported by his loyal congregation.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH OF YONKERS IN THE WORLD'S WAR

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH of Yonkers is composed of fifteen parishes, comprising among its members about fifty per cent of the population of the city. Naturally, the Roll of Honor of the Catholic parishes contains the names of thousands of men who served in the world war.

The Roman Catholic Church was called upon early in the war to raise a special fund for war purposes. Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of New York asked for two and half million dollars from the archdiocese. The Catholic parishes of Yonkers were asked to subscribe $82,000. So splendidly did the parishioners of the various churches respond, that double the amount asked for from the fifteen parishes was subscribed and five million dollars was raised in the archdiocese.

In every effort, whether to raise funds for Red Cross, or other war activities or for the sale of Liberty bonds, the Catholic Church did its full share willingly and enthusiastically. The parish priests and assistants were always found leading in the patriotic work of the parishes. It is worthy of note that in one of the parishes of the city, in one of the drives to sell Liberty bonds, every family in the parish without exception purchased one or more bonds.

No other agency in Yonkers worked more earnestly or produced greater results than the work done during the entire war by the fifteen Catholic churches of the city.

The churches with their pastors, are as follows:

Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. Charles T. Murphy.

St. Joseph's, Rev. Charles F. Reed

St. Peter's, Rev. James J. Brown

Church of the Sacred Heart, Rev. John O'Donovan

Holy Trinity Church, Rev. John Kubaek
Church of Our Lady of the Rosary, Rev. John F. Kelahan
Church of St. John the Baptist, Rev. Henry Meyer
Church of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, Rev. Ercole Rossi
St. Anthony's Church, Rev. Michael Sarubbi
St. Anthony's Chapel, Rev. John O'Donovan
St. Barnabas Church, Rev. Michael A. Reilly
St. Bartholomew's Church, Rev. James F. McNamara
St. Casimir's Church, Rev. C. Dwarsak
St. Denis Church, Rev. Richard Ormond Hughes
Church of the Holy Eucharist, Rev. J. R. Halpin

Each of the parishes responded to the call of the nation for men, for money and for workers in every line. Twelve priests from Yonkers were among those who served in the armies of the nation, many students of Dunwoodie Seminary and several Christian brothers teaching in the parochial schools enlisted in the United States Army. The attitude of the priests and church generally was best expressed by the statement made by the pastor of one of the Catholic churches, who, when asked for a report of the activities of his parish, for the History of Yonkers in the World War, made the following answer:

"We did our best when the war was on and tried our best to forget it when the war was over."

It would not be possible to pick out any parish or parish priest who was more conspicuous than the others for special service during the war. From every altar and pulpit and from the public platforms and before the parish associations from the beginning of the war to its end, the priests of Yonkers, the curates and assistants did everything that lay in their power to support the war and to stir up their people to greater patriotism, to more enthusiastic subscription to loans and to war work generally.

In short, the Roman Catholic Church of Yonkers did its full duty to the Flag and the Nation and its services will not be forgotten.

PART V

YONKERS INDUSTRIES AND THE WAR

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITIES OF YONKERS DURING THE WAR

PLANTS LOCATED WITHIN THE CITY TURNED OUT A GREAT VARIETY AND QUANTITY OF PRODUCTS

AMONG the materials manufactured for the government during the war by Yonkers industrial plants, were great quantities of sugar, gun parts, war machinery, tent cloth, blankets, and service hats. The manufacturing plants of the city, large and small, entered enthusiastically into war production. Employees in various factories organized welfare organizations and Americanization classes, while the women employees in most cases formed organizations which worked as units of the Red Cross, or of other relief bodies, in the turning out of hospital accessories.

In all of the parades, rallies and drives, the industrial element of Yonkers held up its end nobly, many industrial institutions boasting 100 per cent in Liberty Bond subscriptions among the employees. Following are detailed accounts of the activities of some of the major industries of the City of Yonkers during the World War.

FEDERAL SUGAR REFINERY KEEPS ALLIES' SUGAR BOWLS FILLED

SPEEDS UP PRODUCTION TO SUPPLY UNITED STATES AND ALLIED MILITARY FORCES AS WELL

DURING the war, the Federal Sugar Refining Company was called upon to speed up production to help make up for the sugar shortage in Europe, caused by the stoppage of production consequent to warfare.

The refinery was run at top speed to supply the army and navy, as well as the Allies, with the sugar they required. Ships were loaded at the refinery with refined sugar, which was sent every week to Europe with convoys. The management and the employees coöperated in every way to do their share in meeting the emergency.

The Federal Sugar Company's employees made a splendid showing in the Liberty and Victory Loan drives. One hundred per cent of the employees subscribed to each loan. The various Yonkers drives met with a ready and enthusiastic response, the organization being each time among the first to report 100 per cent subscriptions. The employees always participated in the parades held to stimulate war work, with a splendid spirit of patriotism.

Many employees served in the United States forces. One of the Federal men was among the sailors saved from the President Lincoln, when she was torpedoed by a German submarine.

OTIS ELEVATOR COMPANY

TURNS OUT THOUSANDS OF BIG GUN PARTS DURING THE WAR. 100 GIRL EMPLOYEES IN AUXILIARY WAR WORK. 450 EMPLOYEES IN THE SERVICE. ALL OBTAINED SAME OR BETTER JOBS BACK.

UPON the entry of this country into the World War, the officers of the Otis Elevator Company placed at the disposal of the government the entire engineering and manufacturing facilities of the company. Throughout the war period, the plants of the company were operated almost exclusively on war work, either on direct war material for army and navy, or on elevator equipment for army and navy bases in various sections of the country.

Among some of the most important orders were the following: 185 heavy duty electric freight elevators for service in U.S. army and navy bases at Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Boston. The installation of operatorless freight elevators, in the Brooklyn Army Base, was the first of its kind ever attempted, and made possible the economical handling and storing of vast amounts of supplies that passed through the various warehouses of the base during the war.

Several hundred steam steering engines, and steam windlasses were manufactured for the navy and the Shipping Board. Electric motors and controllers were furnished in vast numbers for the large marine cranes in the shipyards on the Atlantic coast. Two thousand towing socket equipments for the Navy Department mine sweepers were manufactured early during the war period.

YONKERS IN THE WORLD WAR

The machine tool facilities of the Otis Elevator Company were used for the manufacture of large boring bars for big guns being constructed at the government arsenals, and for lead screws for heavy gun lathes. These latter were six inches in diameter, and from forty to ninety feet long, made to very exact specifications.

Several thousand sets of elevating and traversing worms and gears were manufactured for 155 mm. howitzers and field pieces used by our artillery in France.

The greatest task undertaken by the Otis Elevator Company during the war, and generally regarded as the most difficult assigned to any American manufacturer, was the making of the recoil mechanisms for the 240 mm. French howitzers, of which more than 1,000 were needed. Here it was necessary for the company to rearrange its plants, and to provide wholly new equipment, the larger proportion of which had to be invented, designed, and built as the work progressed. The company successfully overcame all difficulties. When the armistice was signed, at least 75 per cent of the personnel of the company was engaged on this work. Many of the methods worked out and developed in connection with the manufacture of these parts have since been adopted by the government arsenals.

The young women of the factory organized in April, 1917, an Otis Branch of the National Surgical Dressings Committee, which was later combined with the American Red Cross. About 100 young women gathered in the assembly hall of the factory two evenings each week until June, 1919, during which time they made over 40,000 pieces of hospital supplies. This work was financed, and all supplies bought, by men employees of the factory.

The workers of the Otis Plant responded 100 per cent strong to all drives and took a prominent part in sending the campaigns "over the top" in Yonkers.

Four hundred fifty employees of the plant entered the military service. Twelve made the supreme sacrifice. Each Otis employee in service received, no matter in what part of the world he was, a monthly news letter, edited by a committee of fellow workers at home, which gave all the news of the factory, and local activities interesting to him. Upon the return of the service men, they were given back their own, or better positions.

NATIONAL SUGAR REFINING COMPANY

SHIPS MILLIONS OF POUNDS OF SUGAR TO EUROPE. FACTORY PRACTICALLY GIVEN UP TO EXPORT PRODUCTION DURING WAR. COMPANY FURNISHED SEEDS, FERTILIZER, ETC., FOR EMPLOYEES' WAR GARDENS.

WHEN France, England and Italy went to war with Germany, they were more or less dependent on Germany for their sugar supply, and were therefore deprived of a necessary food item at the very start of their activities.

The National Sugar Refining Company was immediately called upon to help these countries, and responded by shipping millions of pounds of sugar each year. Export orders to the Allies were always given preference. The factory was practically given over to the manufacture of sugar for export to the Royal Commission on Sugar Supply, the Red Cross, various relief commissions, and colonial possessions. When our country entered the war, the Company took up all of the activities within its scope, supplying millions of pounds of sugar to the Army and Navy.

Welfare work included English classes conducted in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. Employees about to become citizens were helped by the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Department. The National Bugle, Fife and Drum Corps was formed, equipped and instructed by the company, and it assisted very creditably in the various parades and rallies. The corps has just gone through its first year of competition. It was entered in six contests. It won eight cups, the championship of New York State, and finished third in the national championships.

At the call of our government for subscribers to the First Liberty Loan, 334 employees of the National Sugar Refinery subscribed for $22,750 of the bonds. At the time of the issue of the Second Loan, the Refinery was shut down, but fifty-five employees subscribed for $4,550. For the Third Loan, 617 employees subscribed $52,950, and for the Fourth Loan, 451 employees subscribed $35,100. When the Victory Loan drive was on, 434 employees subscribed to $32,000. A total of $147,350 was subscribed during the five drives. During this time, employees in large numbers bought War Savings Stamps through the Company every week. The employees are proud of three 100 per cent emblems that hang in the Company lunch room, those of the Third and Victory Loans, and of the National Red Cross drive of 1918, when employees contributed $2,857.

In the spring of 1917, employees were granted the use of about fifteen acres of land for war garden purposes, by the Rosenbaum Estate, located on McLean Avenue. From 1917 to 1920, about 125 Company employees worked plots 25 by 100 feet each. They were rewarded by a generous supply of fresh vegetables, and also saved that much food supply for the nation at large. Preparation of ground, seeds, fertilizers, and the furnishing of a watchman were undertaken by the Refinery.

Forty-six employees of the Company entered military service.

ALEXANDER SMITH AND SONS
CARPET COMPANY

TURNS OUT 4,500,000 YARDS OF DUCK AND 1,525,000 BLANKETS DURING THE WAR. CARPET-WEAVING LOOMS TRANSFORMED INTO BLANKET AND DUCK LOOMS. MANY MANUFACTURING DIFFICULTIES OVERCOME.

SHORTLY after war was declared in the spring of 1917, the Alexander Smith and Son's Carpet Company was requested by the government to attempt the weaving of tent duck and blankets on its looms, which were made for carpet. The manufacture of satisfactory duck and blankets on carpet looms was regarded as an undertaking of great difficulty. By persistence and ingenuity, the obstacles were one by one overcome, and by the middle of June, 1917, the Company was hard at work on two orders; one for 180,000 yards of duck, and one for 100,000 navy blankets.

The Company offered to place all its resources at the disposal of the government, and as additional orders were received from the Army and Navy Departments, the Ordnance and Quartermaster Corps, the Red Cross and the Italian Government, it reduced its carpet and rug production nearly to the point of elimination, and ran the mills night and day on war work, 22 hours out of every 24. At the signing of the armistice, the 3,900 employees had produced 4,500,000 yards of duck, and 1,525,000 blankets. It was only through the whole-hearted coöperation between management and employees that this splendid record was achieved.

The total number of employees in the service was 357, of whom four died for their country.

D. SAUNDERS' SONS, INC.

SUPPLIES PIPE THREADING AND CUTTING MACHINERY AND ALL KINDS OF HAND TOOLS TO NAVY YARDS, ARSENALS, SHIPBUILDERS, AND GOVERNMENT CONTRACTORS.

THE output of this plant during the war was given over 99 per cent to government requirements, directly and indirectly. Machinery was built for the navy yards, arsenals, shipbuilding plants, and for contracting firms doing government work. Owing to this war work, the plant was at all times given a preferential classification which enabled it to obtain a good supply of coal and raw materials.

The personnel of the plant was of high order, patriotic and true to the United States, and, with two exceptions, native-born. The men supported the Liberty Loans heartily, and the firm was represented on the Liberty Loan Committee.

While most of the workers were over the military age, those who were younger responded to the call of the colors. They were given back their positions upon their return. Since the war, the Company has entered into an agreement with the government for vocational training of wounded soldiers in the plant.

A MILLION AND A HALF SERVICE HATS

MADE IN YONKERS BY THE WARING HAT CORPORATION, TO COVER THE HEADS OF AMERICAN SOLDIERS DURING THE WAR. 50 GIRL EMPLOYEES FORM RED CROSS UNIT IN SPARE TIME.

A MILLION and a half service hats is the contribution of the Waring Hat Corporation to Yonkers war activity. The Corporation had 134 men in the service of whom three were killed in action. A total of $275,000 worth of Liberty Bonds was purchased, of which $50,000 was subscribed for by employees. A large amount of War Savings Stamps was also purchased.

The girls of the factory organized a Red Cross Unit, and a room was set apart for their use. About fifty girls came back to the factory evenings, and worked on dresses and clothes for the younger children and babies of men away in the service.

The Corporation was well represented in the various war and civic parades in Yonkers.

THE HONOR ROLL

THE PERMANENT MEMORIAL OF THE HEROIC DEAD

THE MAYOR'S HONOR ROLL COMMITTEE considered various projects for a permanent memorial of the citizens of Yonkers who gave their lives for their country during the war against Germany. A design by Isidore Konti of Yonkers was recommended by the Municipal Art Commission, approved by the Committee and adopted by the Mayor and the City Council.

The monument under construction at the time of the publication of this book, consists of a bronze tablet, bearing the names of a hundred and seventy-three of the Honor Roll of the Dead, and in front of the tablet, a figure, of heroic size, emblematic of immortal fame. The inscription on the base of the monument is:

In Memory
of the sons of Yonkers who died in the World War

The monument is placed before the entrance to the City Hall, some feet away from, and elevated above the eastern sidewalk of South Broadway, with steps from the walk to the broad platform in front of the monument. The situation is conspicuous, and an illumination is contemplated, so that the monument will be seen, day or night, by all who pass along the principal thoroughfare of Yonkers.

Hospital Unit B served in France at Base Hospital No. 23, Vittel, near Nancy, under command of Major Getty. During a year of service there the capacity of the Hospital increased from 500 to 3,750, and it was filled all the time with soldiers, soldiers the most patient, uncomplaining sufferers ever witnessed, but most eager, as their wounds healed and strength returned, to go back to the Front.

Hospital Unit B was organized in Westchester County, N. Y., with Dr. Samuel E. Getty as Director, under the auspices of the Westchester County Chapter of the American Red Cross which defrayed all expenses of organization, provided the complete equipment for a hospital of 250 beds and gave the officers and nurses the initial outfit of uniforms and field equipment.

The splendid services rendered the A. E. F. by the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and kindred organizations is well recognized and needs no special comment. However, to the Red Cross, this unit is especially indebted. It was this organization which provided comforts and wartime luxuries for the unit and patients which would, otherwise, have been unobtainable and which aided, not a little, in adding lustre to the rather enviable reputation which this center had succeeded in establishing in the advance section of the A. E. F.

The following members of the staff of St. Johns Riverside Hospital were with the colors:
